Editorial according to act of Congress D-1252. In First & Hall's, in the State Office of the Post-Office of the United States, Boston.

The image shows three staves of musical notation, likely for voice and piano, in common time with a key signature of one flat. The first staff consists of sixteenth-note patterns. The second staff consists of eighth-note chords. The third staff consists of quarter-note chords.

barn in the meadow, And that we left behind. Look ye there.

One said it was a barn But the other said nay. He said it was a MeetinghouseWith the steeple blown away. Look ye there.

So we hunted and we hallooed,
And the next thing we did find,
Was the Moon in the element;
And that we left behind.

Look ye there!

One said it was the Moon,
But the other said nay;
He said it was a Yankee cheese,
With the one half cut away.

Look ye there!

So we hunted and we hallooed,
And the next thing we did find,
Was the light house in Cape Ann;
And that we left behind.

Look ye there!

One said it was the light house,
But the other said nay;
He said it was a sugar loaf;
With the paper blown away.

Look ye there!

So we hunted and we hallooed,
And the next thing we did find,
Was a frog in the Mill pond;
And that we left behind.

Look ye there!

One said it was a frog,
But the other said nay;
He said it was a canary bird,
With its feathers whisked away.

Look ye there!

So we hunted and we hallooed,
And the last thing we did find,
Was the owl in the olive bush;
And that we left behind.

Look ye there!

One said it was an owl,
But the other said nay;
He said it was the Evil One;
And we all three ran away.

Look ye there!
