The Anchored Soul.

"Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast."—HEB. 6 : 19.

Rev. WM. O. CUSHING, 1876. Rev. R. LOWRY.

With expression.

1. I am resting so sweetly in Je-sus now! I sail the wide seas no more; The tempests may sweep o'er the wild, stormy deep—I am safe where the storms come no more.
2. O long on the ocean my bark was toss'd, Where tempests and storms ne'er cease; My heart was in fear, and no ref - uge was near, Till in Jesus my soul found her peace.
3. O how sweet in a haven of rest to hide! No billows of doubt or fear,— The oceans may roll, but there's rest for the soul When the voice of my Saviour is near.

CHORUS.

I have anchored my soul in the ha - ven of rest, I sail the wild seas no more, no more; The tempests may sweep o'er the wild, stormy deep, But in Je - sus I'm safe evermore, evermore, But in Je - sus I'm safe ev - er - more.
