Her cowardice, her pusillanimity, perhaps her necessity, alone consents.

"The immediate effect of these measures will be injurious to Prussia, not only from cutting off the supply from this country of many articles essential to her own manufactures, but if things proceed to extremities not a Prussian ship can go to sea, and the Prussian ports will be shut up.

"It now seems evident that Prussia has entered into an offensive and defensive alliance with France. What part the emperor of Russia will act in the present circumstances, remains to be seen. Prussia, there is reason to think, has been withdrawn by the terror of Bonaparte's threats, from positive engagements with Russia, and every measure flowing from the new system, must be in the highest degree unpleasant to the emperor Alexander. Whether he will make this system the ground of war with Prussia, which he might in strict justice, we cannot pretend to decide, because the question of policy may admit much consideration. That war would lead to a contest with France and with Prussia. Russia has nothing to fear; but on the other hand, by offensive war hope to prevail over Prussia and France. If, however, the French government should likewise attempt to compel Denmark to be a tool of its hostility, as well as Prussia, we have no doubt that Russia will employ the most vigorous measures, both by sea and land, to support Denmark, and defeat the schemes of Bonaparte. Indeed Russia will certainly not abandon the King of Sweden or the cause, while her aid can be of service. All attempts to shut the Sound and exclude us from the Baltic will prove fruitless.

"In these difficult circumstances it is more and more evident how much we must rely upon our own vigor and resources to defeat the designs of our enemy, and we are convinced that the violence of his hostility will only excite the people of this country to new courage and new exertions to maintain their cause.

"In addition to this, people at last see the folly of the speculations they had indulged about peace and negociation, which we have uniformly discouraged."

The paper of the 9th adds:—

"The Gazette contains a note, stating that the requisite communication has been made to the foreign ministers at this court, by Mr. Fox, apprising them that the Ems, the Elbe, the Weser and Trave have been put in a state of blockade. The trade of Hamburgh, of Embden, Lubec, and Bremen, and of those places carried on through them from principal channels, is thus cut off.

"Thus has the violence of France and the subservience of Prussia extended the evils of war to nations and to places which ought to have been totally exempted from its ravages. The enemy are clearly the aggressors. They act on the principle of forcing every thing to be hostile to us; and they reduce us to the necessity of treating as hostile that which they render so. And what is the tendency of these outrages? To cut off our trade; to try the experiment how far either party can injure the other, without, however, advancing the objects of legitimate war, and, at the same time, wantonly involving neutral states in its calamities. For these evils France alone is responsible; but she and her allies will suffer from them. If Prussia is mean enough to yield to French influence, her own interest must suffer; almost her whole commerce must cease; her whole shipping must be annihilated. Vainly does she think to impose uncompensated inconvenience upon us. Besides her political degradation and her political danger, she will suffer the most in point of commerce. The commerce of England will find channels, but France and Prussia will only pay the dearer for what they must consume; while the latter, particularly, will lose almost all the mutual advantages of a more direct communication. The blockade of the Elbe, the Weser, the Ems and Trave, will be rendered complete, and unless the preliminary steps towards war be retracted, the Prussian ports in the Baltic will also be put in a state of blockade.

"We are very anxious to hear what sensation the conduct of Prussia will produce at Petersburg. The Duke of Brunswick probably was sent there to prepare the Emperor Alexander for that 'ignoble swerving' from solemn engagements of which the court of Berlin has been guilty. The imprudence of former proceedings, in regard to Bonaparte, is terribly punished in the present subserviency to his will. Prussia seems now driven from every system. That of neutrality has long been the favorite. In adhering to that system, she would not declare against Bonaparte last autumn; but now has Napoleon forced her from it by compelling her to adopt measures inconsistent with neutrality, and directly tending to bring upon her the hostility not only of this country, but of Russia. If that hostility is not excited, it must be on the ground that Prussia can no longer be considered an indepencent state."

DIED—On Monday the 19th instant, in Prince George's county, near Upper Marlboro' after a painful confinement of nine months, Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, consort of Mr. John Carter formerly of the city of Washington.

COMMUNICATION.

Our very distinguished fellow-citizen, Wm. PINKNEY, the present attorney-general of the state of Maryland, has taken his passage from hence, with his family, in the Diana, bound to Liverpool, as minister extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the court of London. [The Diana sailed yesterday.]

If distinguished talents and unsullied virtue can obtain to this country the blessings of peace and neutrality, we may calculate on a successful issue of the mission of Mr. Monroe and Mr. Pinkney.

We understand that Mr. Pinkney, still retains his office of attorney-general, and that he has intrusted the discharge of the duties of that office, in the court of appeals, court of chancery, land office, Baltimore county civil and criminal courts, to JOHN SCOTT, Esq. who is authorised to supply such vacancies as may happen to occur in the deputy prosecutorships, and otherwise represent the absent attorney-general.

Balt. American.

Yesterday arrived the ship Speedwell, capt. Wills, from Laguira, which he left the 28th ult. and informs that at that time, there was no accounts of the arrival of Miranda on any part of the Spanish Main, though by the accounts received there they were in daily expectation of his arrival, and the Spanish government was on the alert, having prepared all the troops, about 2000 regulars and 30,000 militia, which could be raised to oppose him. That the various accounts of insurrections in that country was, as he believes erroneous, as he (capt. W.) heard nothing of any such insurrections. That on the 3d inst. in the Mona Passage, they fell in with and was boarded by the British frigate Mermaid, capt. Hollis, who informed capt. W. that he had that day fallen in with the ship Margaret, Gardner, from Laguira, for Philadelphia very leaky; they also informed captain W. that gen. Miranda had sailed from Mole St. Nicholas, where he was joined by 6 British frigates, in addition to his two armed ships and two schooners, with an English general and 6000 troops, composed of mulattoes and negroes, and that his destination was for Carraccas, where another reinforcement was to follow him.—Bradford.

New-York, May 23.

Captain Strange, of the Fair American, in 17 days from Guadaloupe, reports, that a French privateer had arrived there from the coast of Carracas, with information, that Miranda had landed his troops at Carracas, and been defeated by the Spaniards.

Mr. Smith will please to give the following list of citizens, deemed eligible for the next city council, a place in his paper, as it may call the attention of the voters to that subject previous to the meeting to be held at Mr. Stelle's this evening.

GENERAL MEETING.

Washington city, May 21, 1806.

Pursuant to Notice in the National Intelligencer for a "General Meeting" of the Citizens of Washington, to make the necessary arrangements for the ensuing election of City Councilmen, a respectable number of citizens convened at Mr. Myers, tavern, and having appointed col. John P. Van Ness, their chairman and Thomas H. Gillis, Secretary, adopted the following resolutions.

Whereas it appears that the Eastern division of the city is very thinly represented at this meeting, Therefore

Resolved, That this meeting do adjourn, to meet again at Mr. STELLE'S HOTEL ON MONDAY NEXT, the 26th inst. at SIX o'clock P. M. and that the Citizens be requested to give General attendance.

Resolved, That the proceedings be published in the National Intelligencer, and signed by the Chairman and Secretary.

J. P. VAN NESS, Chairman.
T. H. GILLISS, Secretary.

NOTICE.

MR. ELLIOTT has fitted up a neat Apartment for the instruction of YOUNG LADIES in Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, use of the Globes, Maps, &c. His experience for a number of years past in conducting a Seminary of this kind, it is hoped and expected, will entitle him to the approbation of the parents and friends of such young ladies as may be sent to this institution.

N. B. Mr. E. will only admit a select number of Young ladies and those only above ten years of age. For terms apply at his Academy.

City of Washington, May 26—3t

DR. BRISCOE,

CHASE'S TRIAL.

This day is Published

By SAMUEL H. SMITH,

SAMUEL CHASE,

AN ASSOCIATE JUSTICE of the Supreme Court of the United States, IMPEACHED

By the House of Representatives, for HIGH CRIMES AND MISDEMEANORS, before the Senate of the United States.

Taken in short hand,
By SAMUEL H. SMITH & THOMAS LLOYD.

In Two large Octavo Volumes—in Boards, price—to subscribers four dollars and a half—and to non subscribers five dollars.

A much greater delay has been incurred in the publication of this trial than the Editor contemplated. He has, however, the satisfaction of saying that no effort has been omitted by him to give it to the public at an earlier period. The delay has arisen from the revision of the speeches of the Managers and Counsel. The publication might long since have been made in a less perfect dress; but it was deemed highly desirable that in a case, which, independently of its own importance, might be a precedent in future times, to sacrifice time rather than precision. The work now appears before the public, with the expectation of the Editor that it will be considered as meriting the character of an impartial, comprehensive and faithful statement of facts. All the speeches have been revised, and inserted at length, in connection with whatever else formed a part of the trial.

Editors of other prints will confer a benefit by inserting this advertisement a few times in their papers.

March 24—

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber intends to petition the next county Court for Washington, to be held in the territory of Columbia, for an order to renew the lower ferry over the Eastern Branch, what was generally known by the name of Barry's ferry.

JEREMIAH BOOTHE.
Washington, May 16—2aw3w

NOTICE,

IS hereby given that unless the tax due to the Washington Corporation from the following persons be paid on or before the 28th day May next, the following property or so much thereof as will satisfy the tax and other charges due thereon, will on that day be offered at public sale to the highest bidder.
