They came from the U.S.A.

Music by Marion Woodruff.

Sweet Freedom's defenders from mountain and plain, from hamlet and cities so O! fair land of France. our fight was for you, our debt we have tried to gay, When Liberty called you a-rose once again, the fighting men of the U.S.A. You came not for conquest pay. Sleep deep Lafayette our men have proved true, the fighting men of the U.S.A. O! fair land of France, you have spoils nor for land it matters not what our enemies say, when Liberty called you came weapons in hand the men of the U.S.

suffered for years, your heroes have stood a-gainst Hun array, they heard your brave call and they saw Belgium's tears, the men of the U.S.

Refrain.

Here's to the boys over there in Khaki — and to the boys on the sea in blue,

Heroes of hard fought bat — tles fighting for me and you — soon will be back to their homes and homeland. — With the laurels they have won so far a-way — for they have won just as they should and as we knew they surely would because they came from the U. S. A. —
