3 If every day the seed we sow
 Out on the field of duty,
 Then fair and full the grain will grow,
 Filling the earth with beauty.
 Till other toilers on their way
 Over the hills of sadness,
 Beneath the sun's declining ray
 Echo our song of gladness.

4 No matter if to-day has brought
 Trouble and pain and sorrow,
 Here's blessed comfort in the thought
 All will be well to-morrow.
 Then when the shadows close around,
 Let us not sit in sadness,
 But at life's closing hour be found
 Singing a song of gladness.
