DEC 19 1917

THE LILY AND THE ROSE

L. C. LEWIS

EDGAR ALLYN COLE

PUBLISHED BY THE TOLEDO MUSICAL COLLEGE
TOLEDO, OHIO.

M1646
.C

The Lily And The Rose

L. C. LEWIS

EDGAR ALLYN COLE

INTRO.
Moderato

VOICE

Down in the heart of each sol - dier lad, Is the tho't of "home sweet home,"
O - ver the sea where the lil - ies are, In the land of "la belle France,"

Vis - ions of youth and scenes ev - er dear, He must leave to cross the foam.
Moth - ers are weep - ing, loved ones are gone, We must heed the call "Ad - vance."

Down in the heart of that sol-dier lad, Are the tho'ts of friends so dear,
Now is the time when each sol-dier lad, March-es on to meet the foe,

Copyright MCMXVII by Lewis & Cole.
All Rights Reserved.

Tho'ts of his moth-er, his sweet-heart, or wife, But he whis-pers to each nev-er fear.
Giv - ing his life for the free - dom of All, So that Peace on this earth we may know.

CHORUS

I must leave my / He must leave his A-mer - i-can Beau-ty at home, When I / he sail to that land o'er the sea, For the

Lil - ies of France and A-mer - i-ca's Rose, Are the em-blems of World Lib-er - ty. If I / he fall / falls 'neath a show-er of fierce lead-en hail, In that land where our blood free-ly flows, I'll / He'll be nursed back to life by a Li - ly of France, And sent back to A-mer - i-ca's Rose.

422362