WASHINGTON CITY,

WEDNESDAY, MAY 30.

New Hampshire Election.

The Boston Centinel acknowledges six Senators elected to be republican, says five are federal, and that in one district there is no election.

Massachusetts Election.

The same print observes that "In all the towns we have heard from the federal gain has been 19,—loss 13—net gain 6.—Democratic gain 30—loss 8—net gain 22. Making a democratic gain on the majority of last year of 16. Of the votes for speaker last year, Mr. O is had 124—Mr. Morton 73. Should the towns we have not heard from, prove as they were last year, the probable numbers of the house will be 130 federalists, and 95 democrats. The parties will not essentially vary from this proportion."

The whole number of votes for governor are, for

To this balance of the taxes on assessed property may be added what is due on the dog and slave tax, which the committee suppose will encrease the total to about 6,000 dollars; on the receipt of 3,500 dollars of which sum the council may rely, as applicable to the payment of existing debts, and the current expences of the next year, until the tax for that year come into the treasury.

A farther source of revenue to the amount of a thousand or twelve hundred dollars annually falls to the city by the supplementary law, which the council procured during the last session of Congress; arising from the exclusive right which the corporation will now possess of licencing ordinary and tavern keepers and retailers, billiard tables, and hawkers and pedlars. The deliverance from the levy court assessment, may be also considered, as equivalent to the placing of any assessment laid by them in the hands of the corporation; it enables our citizens to contribute the same sum to the wants of the city.

The council will perceive that several Items of the payments of this year, are in discharge of the engagements of the former council. A circumstance which must continue to take place until the receipts are beyond the necessary expenditures for the same period.

From the view which the committee have had of the state of the finances, they feel authorised in suggesting a few alterations in the present system. Although the present mode of collection has been sanctioned by the practice of Maryland, and the first city council, who appear to have made that practice their guide, experience points out the propriety of imposing on the treasurer the duty of calling at the residence of the inhabitants, when practicable, for the taxes due: it may be more agreeable to the citizens, it will be less burthensome to himself than a constant attendance at his office, and we believe will be the cause of more money being paid into the treasury.

Besides shewing the probable annual demand on the city treasury, which your committee estimate at between four and five thousand dollars; they have been particular in their report, that the next council may take into full consideration the propriety of erecting or purchasing a permanent work house or infirmary for the poor, as suggested by the trustees in their last report to the mayor, where the poor may be employed in such labor as they are capable of enduring—the proceeds of which will go towards their maintainance.

NEW SERIES OF FEDERAL MISREPRESENTATIONS. No. IX.

The following declarations are made in the Charleston Courier, on the credit of a Washington correspondent.

1. "By the last mail we learn that the frigate United States, on being moved down the river, proved leaky."
2. "That a survey was had upon her, and that the frigate United States has been pronounced unfit for sea."
3. "Commodore Barron's flag has been removed to the Essex."
4. "She has also suffered (tho' in a less degree) from having lain so long in the Virginia mud, and has been ordered for repair to Norfolk."

We content ourselves with assuring our readers that the above declarations are destitute of truth.

New York, May 24.

An indiscriminate massacre of all the white French inhabitants at Cape Francois, took place on the 20th of April. In this dreadful carnage which continued for three successive days and nights, the murderers spared not "even the women and children!" An embargo was laid on the American vessels in the harbor previous to this work of death; and had not been taken off at the date of our correspondent's letter, which was the 29th.

May 25.

The French frigates Dido and Sybille each of 44 guns, from Gaudaloupe, where they recently arrived from France with troops, arrived last evening, and anchored at the quarantine ground. The object of their coming here is unknown.

From captain O'Brien, from the Streights, arrived last evening, we have received the following particulars:

Major Barney, the American consul for Sicily, had received dispatches from Mr. Livingston at Paris, enclosing a letter from the First Consul of France (written in his own had,) to the Commisaire gen. at Tripoli, demanding the release of the American officers and seamen of the Philadelphia frigate. The dispatches had been forwarded to Syracuse.

On the 6th of Feb. an aid-de-camp of general Berthier arrived at Leghorn from Paris with orders to raise 200,000 rations. On the 7th the French gen. Verdier, with the said aid-de-camp, visited the vessels in Leghorn and took down their names. Sixteen had been put in a state of requisition, for the purpose of carrying French troops; Their destination was not known, nor was it known at what port they were to embark. It was supposed, hawever, for Corsica or Elba.

Captain O'Brien has dispatches for government from the American Consul at Gibraltar; and Mr. Tom, passenger in the Shepherdess, has also dispatches from the consul at Tangier.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF WASHINGTON.

As the time for electing Councilmen is drawing near, it is the indispensable duty of every man, that has a right to a vote, to be particularly careful in selecting such characters for that place, who shall have the entire interest of this city at heart, that will stand by her in adversity, as well as prosperity; that will use every lawful exertion in their power, to promote her general interest.

Who shall we look to for this? Not to the men that does not possess one cent's worth of real property in the city. Not to the man, that on the slightest pretence of moving government, will declare their willingness to it.

Not to the men that in all probability wishes to depopulate this city, by declaring it their opinion that government will move. Not to the man that may have an interest in our neighbouring cities, and none here.

Those men may be good men, but they are not the men we want. We want men that will be frugal. We want men that are settled here with some security, that we can rely on for the faithful discharge of their duty. We want men that are essentially concerned in the progress of the city. We want men that will leave nothing undone to promote her interest.

Then to get such men, let us unite, as one man, and vote independently, for men possessed with a freehold estate, men that have their interest here, men that can manage their own business with discretion, men that will sacrifice their time, their money, and even their lives, to defend their rights.

AN ELECTOR

that takes the liberty to recommend the following men:

Joseph Hodgson,
Timothy Caldwell,
Thomas H. Gillis,
Nicholas King,

In the few instances where I have been consulted, I have pointedly objected to my name being used in the nomination; and you will oblige me by erasing it from any list which may in future, be offered to you for publication.
