THE AMERICAN ENSIGN.

QUARTETT.

NOTE. — This song was originally written by Mr Nichols when a law-student in the city of New York, in November 1826, & was first published at that time in the New York Statesman, under the signature of N. The author, in the lapse of years, had lost sight of it, and had almost forgotten it, when a female spiritualist in the city of New York, during the summer of 1856, on a public occasion, gave utterance to this song as one of the proofs of her supernatural inspiration.

Since the rebellion began, it has gone the round of the newspapers, anonymously. Many of the lines have been altered by the author since the piece was first composed. He is now an Epis-copal clergyman of Wisconsin, and Professor of English Literature in Paine College.

Words by JOSEPH H. NICHOLS.

Music by J. P. WEBSTER.

First cheered the nations gloomy night, And bade the world no more to sigh;
 Long as the bard his loft-ty lyre Can strike, thou shalt awake our song:
 Up - on thy shining fields of blue, His fie - ry pin-ions boldly spread;
 Whose ev - er - lasting thunder roars From deep to deep in storm and foam;

 Oh! can thy chil - dren gaze Up - on their sap - phire blaze,
 Well sing thee round the hearth, In ho - ly house-hold mirth:
 A-round thee we will stand, With our bright blades in hand,
 Tho' with the sun's red set Thou sinkst to slum - ber, yet

Nor kin - dle at the rays Which led the brave of old to die.

We'll sing thee when we forth To bat - tle go, with elation tongue.

And swear to guard the land We love till life's last drop be shed.

With him dost not forget To rise and make the heavens thy home.

Hail!..... Hail!..... Hail! Hail! Hail banner beautiful land

Hail!..... Hail!..... Hail! Hail! Hail banner beautiful land

Hail!..... Hail!..... Hail! hail! hail! Hail banner beautiful land

Hail banner beautiful grand, Float forever o'er our land. Hail! hail! hail! Hail banner beautiful land grand, Float thou for-ev-er o'er our land.

grand, Float fore-er, ev-er, Float thou for-ev-er o'er our land, for-ev-er ev-er.

grand, Float thou for-ev-er o'er our land.

grand, Float thou for-ev-er o'er our land.

Float thou forever, Float thou forever, Float thou forever o'er our land.

Float thou forever, ever, Float thou forever, ever, Float thou forever o'er our land.

Float thou forever, Float thou forever, Float thou forever o'er our land.

Float thou forever, Float thou forever, Float thou forever o'er our land.

The American Ensign.

Hail banner beautiful and grand,
Float thou for ever o'er our land,
O'er mountain, prairie, lake and sea,
Where'er thou float'st welling to thee!
How sweet, how beautiful is death,
When for thy sake we yield our breath.
Flag of the West be thou unfurled,
'Till the last trump shall wake the world.

Hail banner beau-ti-ful and grand, Float thou for ev - er o'er our land.
O'er mountain, prairie, lake and sea, Wher - e'er thou float'st welling to thee!
How sweet, how beau-ti-ful is death, When for thy sake we yield our breath.
Flag of the West be thou unfurld, 'Till the last trump shall wake the world.
