Patent Threshing Machine.

I HAVE invented a machine for giving the grain contained in straw from the chaff, particularly wheat, this machine has been tried on fair trial to answer completely the purpose for which it was intended. Farmers now have it in their power to get out their grain with expedition, free of the straw or heft. This machine is on sighted on online my principles; its operation is simple, and is capable of a whole tenant upon a million wheels, and can be regulated at pleasure to thresh the grain more or less as the farmers, thresh, or particular kind of grain may require. It will be found upon examining its principles on which this machine is constructed, that it will be the fault of the operator if any grain goes unthreshed; it separates the grain from the straw and chaff, it separates the chaff from the straw; the construction is by no means complicated, but is liable to get out of order, or expensive to repair. It has been found and tried by fair experiments the power of four horses and one good hand, are sufficient to thresh and clean one hundred bushels per day with ease and ease. Those on standing farmers who with more grain threshed per day may also be employed in it, by making a second machine angle and applying more power to farmers with ease. The excellent idea that I am getting out their grain in the mode heretofore, nothing more could be in a preference to hand threshing, I have found out, those who have tried Bonaparte their farmer will find it very convenient, and can be worked by water at a small expense, by a small machine. I do not wish to be misguided what the gentlemen who have certificates I mean, nothing stand in fault, I will serve any, will fail, on enquiry, for truthfulness and respectability they have free liberties. My principal of threshing the machine, is Mr. Collers. I will oblige of my principles for certain to those to whom who wish to see obtain an liberal terms. Letters addressed to me post office at Dumfries, Virginia, will be duly attended to.

JAMES DEREALE.

Dumfries, and Sept. 1806

NO. I.

I do hereby certify, that I have a threshing machine invented by Mr. Dereale of Dumfries, which exceeds expectation. A great number of my neighbors who have tried it, think, that it does not leave one grain in the thousand unthreshed; it separates the straw and chaff from the wheat as it thinks.

It pulleys, and any antagonist over machines on the thresh principle, as they will thresh more than water goes in which the chaff, the chaff will impede which much more than half threshed. Mr. Dereale's machine thinks simple, and not of Gears put in first place generally claim.

In view of the weather South machines found off a great number of heads, a great many of which are entirely unthreshed, and a great deal of the straw the very grain which are perfectly cleaned and threshed by Mr. Dereale's, south machines, the straw is double power to work them. I speak the whole truth, when I say, I find a great deal of the fresh principle, which from the above trials I have, and for several years, and have now joined I know.

Mr. Dereale's machine will thresh from 10 to 100 bushels per day, from that I believe of two good horses will work it with great ease, and I am convinced from the slow pace they go that two are a model work it.

Although my machine (which was the first offered in this part of the State) has been built for a few months, it is well approved of that a great many farmers are richer built or more well, from the time construction.

I will at liberty to recommend to any gentlemen calling on the inhabitant, at Bertram's Ford, Rappahannock county, Virginia.

CYRUSHAM MILBURN.

September 13, 1806.

NO. II.

Three several years known Mr. Milburn, who has given the without certificates—he is a tenant, industrious, practical farmer, and a man of real liberality. He is a native of the county of Northumberland, in the kingdom of Britain, and has been a farmer in this country. I think that great confidence is to be placed in what he says.

DANIEL C. BRENT.

September 13, 1806.

NO. III.

I have had erected on my plantation a Threshing Machine on the model invented by Mr. Dereale, of Dumfries; this machine separates the wheat from the straw more completely than any other I have yet tried in the wheat way with hands, and it will, I am persuaded, cost less than a hundred dollars, and I find that four mules will turn the machinery with ease.

WILLIAM CHARLES CARTER.

Culpepper, 27th Aug. 1806.

NO. IV.

Induced by motives of public good, I with make known to the public generally, and to my neighbors, we viewed on the office of Wm. Chrisler, Culpepper, Mr. Dereale's new invented Patent Threshing Machine, principal by the 15th inst. and with great satisfaction pleasure of machine. Notwithstanding the first trial, we found that the wheat thresh well, outward, yet in a fair trial it test out and cleaned upwards of four bushels and a half in an hour, we did not finally examined the straw, which was for extra, by chance of machine, we did find not more than four or five grains. Therefore, we do not hesitate to recommend the machine, in my judgement, the most complete and valuable machine of the kind which has been within has yet invented.

JOHN STEELE.

Culpepper, 29th August, 1806.

NO. V.

Since the date of the above, the manager of the claim of Wm. Chesper Carter, esq. Mr. Wm. Brown Jun. who is of good character and respectability, who has had the controlling of the threshed machine, has made the following statement.

JOHN STEELE.

CULPEPPER COUNTY TO WIT:

This was personally appeared before me, Mr. Reuben Beatley, who made oath that the wheat machine, invented by Mr. Dereale's Patent threshing machine, under his care and direction, on the effect of wheat, Chesper Carter, esq. as the bands began to make hard it more, gave out wheat other than it to be beginning of the day, the trial being closed from the time to the space of half an hour, upon the winnowing of heads of wheat, we believe it would continue to do that much or less, as the hands could work it, and the tension at that further, would taken out to give them bind and water. Certified under my hand this 12th day of August, 1806.

JOHN STEELE.

IRON WORKS, FOR SALE.

I AM SUBTHORIZED to be empowered to contract for the sale of a handsome tine for Iron Works, situated in the state of Virginia, adjoining, lying on the river Rappahannock, and Rappahannock Navigation, Virginia. The force for the works embraces a small stream which so fast fall of water, within 300 yards of the mouth of the stream, which is a very large stony stone commence the mill advantage from fast fall water, the stone mill, and commanding the whole forms of the river Rappahannock, the fall of water is sixteen feet yards in length, into which the whole force of water is commanded with little expense. There has been a furnace and other works formerly erected here, and the ore found equal to any in the state, and the ore found has been proved characteristic by good judges. The mill is single stone, and is in good order, and by hand. The fisheries will at any time are of good benefit, and the fish are plentiful, and the fish the bank, and fish for the works. The accounts of the fisheries are free, on application to him at Dumfries, Virginia.
