"A Mother's Prayer For Her Boy Over There" By J. Jarratt Brown.

1

When th day's work is done, and when the sunk sinks in the West,
And evening's shades are falling granting all a peaceful rest;
Each mother thinks of her dear boy, who is so far away;
And ere her eyes they close in sleep she lifts her voice to pray:

2

The mother with a star of blue has sent a darling boy,
The one who wears a star of gold, has lost her pride and joy;
She knows that he for aye has gone, yet hopes, yes, day by day,
And when she lays her head to rest you'd weep to hear her lay:

CHORUS.

God bless my boy, t night--that is a mother's prayer;
Before she closes her eyes to rest from troubles and from care.
Guide and watch over him--keep him safe I pray
Through the lonely hours of night until the break of day.
