MAR 14 1918 ©CLE 122398 R.

"SOMEWHERE A HEART IS BREAKING"

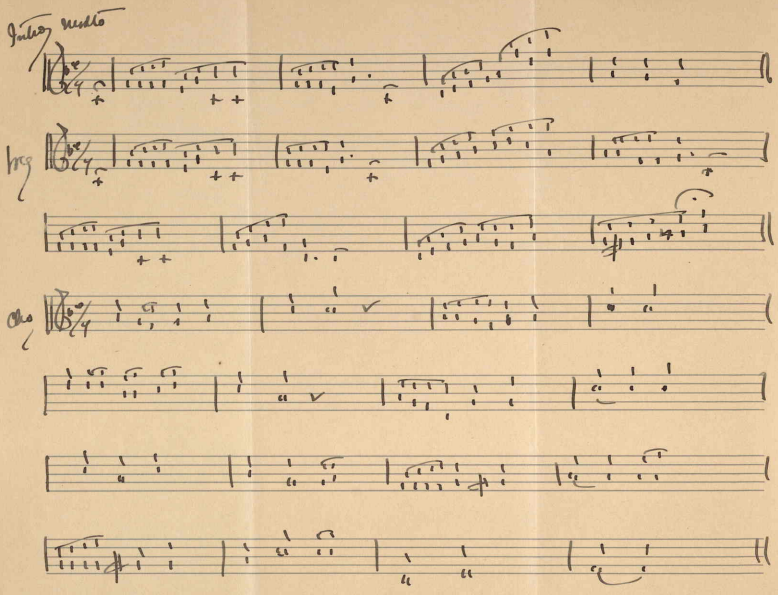
Song

Poem & Copyright By SARAH MARGUERITE TULLY = 156 BARKSDALE DRIVE ATLANTA GA

MUSIC BY

R. A. BROWNE,
750 DAWSON ST.,
NEW YORK CITY

H1646
.B



"Somewhere A Heart Is Breaking!" BY Sarah Marguerite Tully.

1

When I awoke this morning,I was feeling mighty blue;
The whole world seemd turned upside down--and ev'ryone untrue;
The dark clouds banked up higher than they ever did before;
Because the little girl I'd trusted made me mighty sore.

CHORUS.

Somewhere a heart is aching;for a bit of love is aching;
Out neath the silv'ry moon she's waiting,waiting just for me, for me!
So push back the dark clouds that the silvry lining may show through;
For the little girl I had forsaken proved to be true blue.

2

There is a silver lining in each dark cloud,so they say;
But if you wait to see it way it may not come your way;
So just take up your trouble and go on along the road;
The day is not long coming when you then can shift your load.

426931