"Somewhere In France" Patti L. Reagan.

1

Somewhere in France are our boys, khaki clad;
Fighting so bravely with stout hearts and glad;
Messengers they from the Land of the Free;
Making the world safe for Democracy!

2

Somewhere in France midst the shot and the shell;
Over the tope see them surge with a yell;
Through wire entanglements rushing pell mell;
Giving each sword thrust a story to tell;

3

Somewhere in France whenthe war clouds are gone;
Battles all over and victories won;
The world at peace and men are as one;
We'll welcome them back --heroes--to home.

CHORUS.

Somewhere in France stand our dear boys to night;
Serving their country in the thick of the fight;
Oh, God in Heaven hear a lone mother's prayer;
Protect our darlings--while over there.
