"Two Little Girlies In Daddy's Arm Chair"
Alice M.Quintal.

1

Once, two little girlies, both happy and gay,
Were singing and rocking in old fashioned way;
For garden andporch swings with them dear were rare;
They were singing and rocking their Daddy(s old chair.

2

What happy dear girlies, these little ones, they
Ran out to meet Dad at the close of the day;
How little they knew about trouble and care;
Till now their dear Daddy has gone over there.

3

Their Daddy has gone for his Country xxxxx to fight;
He fell, he was wounded. while battling for Right;
And mother sits lonely, and xxx calls them to share,
The news as she sits there in Daddy's old chair.

CHORUS.

Daddy's old arm chair! Daddy's rocking chair!
Oh could we hear him say, while sitting there:
"Come on out, Kiddies, on the porch without care
And I'll swing you and I'll rock you in my old chair!"
