"What Are You Going To Give Your Boys To Do?"

But returning to their home again Shall they find some work to do?

dim

Chorus

What are you going to give your boys to do, When they come sailing home from France? What possibilities of livelihood? Shall they have an equal chance? They can't afford to waste their time away, In club houses, poolroom, cabouret For there's surely no enjoyment for the Yank without employment

So what are you going to give your boys to do?

2. They have sacrified employment
They have buckled on the sword;
To maintain their country's honor
And to vindicate her word.
They have given up positions,
That were promised them again;
But returning home to claim them,
Shall they seek for them in vain?

3. They're not sincures nor idlers,
They are men of brain and brawn;
Who do quit themselves with honor,
In the work they carried on:
Now that task has been accomplished,
Let the nation show by deed,
Its sincere appreciation,
Of the soldier in his need.
