"Ye Sons Of Our Land" by Katerine Barron Mumford.

2

Oh, ye sons of our land, you're the flow'r of our land,
Oh, ye sons of the brave and the valiant;
Prepare for the fray! yes, gird your armor on
So that ye may win the war of the ages!

2

Oh, we strive not for realm, we but fight for our right;
For our Flag, for our freedom and homeland;
War's trumpet we'll still, and end the battles grim,
While we marching with the banner of freedom.

3

And we cringe not to pride, and we yield not to pow'r,
For no tyrant nor despot can daunt us;
Men are brothers, ally-where God, himself, is king,
Neath the Red, and White, and Blue of our Standard!

CHORUS.

So float we on high, and so wave we yet wide;
The far-famed Flag of our Nation;
We shall vitors be, in the cause of liberty,
Neath the grand old Stars and Stripes of Old Glory.
