George Alvord lived as a farmer the greater part of his life. In Columbus, O., he was a clerk in a store until his health failed him and he died of a cancer in the stomach. He was a "hard worker" and of strictly temperate habits, and withal a good Christian. In politics he was a Republican. When a young man he went East into N. Y. State, with a drove of horses and saw where his father's brothers lived, but he was too embarrassed to make himself known remembering that his father had left home when a young man. Later he regretted that he did not make himself known. His wife was a teacher, a good wife, kind mother and a Christian woman.
