©CLE402112 CR
MAR 15 1917

The Eagle's Brood

William P. Doyle
Author and Composer

M1646
.D

Carl Fischer, New York.
No. 1—10 lines.

The Eagle's Brood.

(1) Gray heads in cease-less vig-il, to a-vert a threatening storm,
(2) Strong men are press-ing for-ward, they are quick to man the guns;
(3) The am-a-zons are com-ing from the mountains and the plains,
(4) O u-es-zas may nev-er one of your proud num-ber die.

(1. Con) With minds a-lert and eyes made keen, to catch each chang-ing form,-
(2 Con) From shop, from field, from mar-ket place, stream forth her loy-al sons,-
(3 Con) They ral-ly to the call to guard, they throng the cit-y mains,-
(4 Con) Be-cause of i-dle boast-ing sung, that made on chance re-ly

(1 Con) Tried lead-ers all, true u-es-zas, that know the signs a-right,
(2 Con) Brave pa-tri-ots, true u-es-zas, when dan-ger threat-ens most,
(3 Con) Fair am-a-zons, true u-es-zas, with zeal that knows no fear,
(4 Con) The son a loy-al moth-er taught to do a man's full part

(1 Con) Have sounded clear the call to guard:- Rise u-es-zas in might.
(2 Con) They fear-less rank on rank march forth to grap-ple a-lien host.
(3 Con) These an-gels of the Red cross come,- their du-ty draws them near.
(4 Con) In hon-or of the Na-tion and the Flag that thrilled his heart.

Chorus

(1) They live to com-sel Home-land, To lead the Ea-gle's Brood;
(2) Their steel-nerved arms, dear Home-land, Shall guard the Ea-gle's Brood;
(3) They rise in love of Home-land To save the Ea-gle's Brood;
(4) True loy-al-ty for Home-land Shall flame in Ea-gle's Brood;

(1 Con) The ver-y soul of Home-land Shall lead the Ea-gle's Brood.
(2 Con) They yield their lives for Home-land To guard the Ea-gle's Brood.
(3 Con) The ver-y heart of Home-land Shall save the Ea-gle's Brood.
(4 Con) For Stars and Stripes and Home-land Shall flame in Ea-gle's Brood.

William P. Doyle,
1760 N. New Hampshire St.,
Los Angeles, California

Author and Composer.

483763