OVER THERE VIA OVER HERE.

R. Westfall. M. DuFierro.

I could love the Golden West, Where at dawn its Golden Gate un-bars, And better by your side for rest, To love the silence and the stars! To see the moon, the sound and sight, As rivers run sparkling bright; What matter by your side at night, Why love the silence with the stars.

(2)

But love the eve as clad in white,
Maid dream or via a lover write;
For them our brave will always fight,
To love while with the stars.
But of the East and its vastly whirl,
And I oftimes think of one, a girl,
Who would brighten all as a pearl,
We to adore the Heavens and stars.
