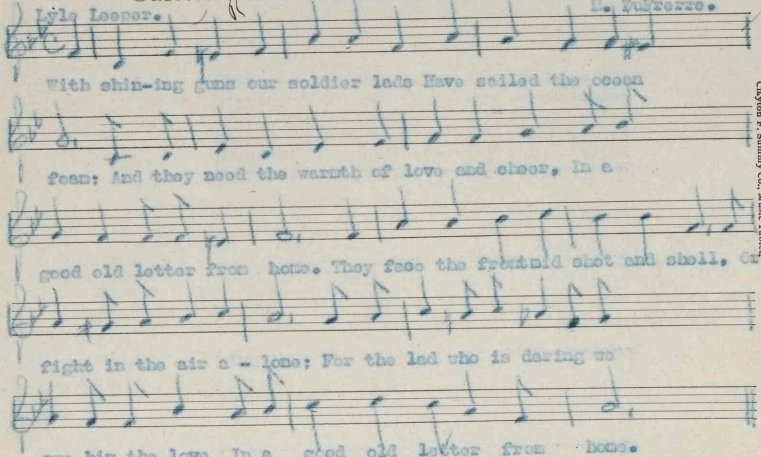
THAT GOOD OLD LETTER FROM HOME.

Lyle Leeper. H. DeFerre.



(2)

He offers his life as a sacrifice
To the country he calls his own,
But best of all there's a pledge of love
In that good old letter from home.
Oh the day may be dreary and dark,
He may be sick or alone;
But the gray light turns to a wealth of gold,
When he gets that dear letter from home.

(3)

Oh, however dark the cloud may be,
The world seems rainbow-spanned;
When he sees that the letter addressed to him
Is in a well known loved one's hand.
'Twill take him back to the old fireside,
'Though in distant lands he'll roam;
Oh the beautiful gleam it carries with it,
That dear old letter from home.
