FIGHT FOR THE FLAG.

W. E. Lavender. M. DuFrerre.

Fight for the flag, our country's flag, it's sighing in the breeze; The flag of our own dear A - merica is borne across the seas. Our soldier boys are fearless, in battle they'll never flag; Their lives they freely give today to save our country's flag. In the din of battle it's waving where you hear the cannon's roar, The stars and stripes are floating on that far off distant shore; Where once stood many a happy home and the sun shone fair and bright, They now are driven forth to die, many hearts are sad to-night.

Chorus.

Fight for the flag, our country's flag- the red, the white, the blue; In sunshine and in storm it waves o'er loyal hearts and true. We'll follow the stars in "Old Glory" and we'll protect her colors too, The flag of our own dear native land. the red. the white, the blue.

(2)

Fight for our flag, our country's flag, the flag our fathers saved,
Where many heroes sleep today in unknown and nameless graves;
They fought for the flag, our country's flag, the noble and the true,
The boys that wore the southern grey, the boys that wore the blue.
So fight for our flag, our country's flag, oh leads across the sea,
For the stars and stripes are beckoning, beckoning now to you and me;
We'll crush this iron hand, we'll crush this foe, we will set a country free,
Then onward to our goal we press, and win the victory.
