NOTES AND GENEALOGIES.

EATON GRANGE.

Eaton Grange, the summer home of the sons and daughters of John Eaton, is located in the south-eastern part of the town of Sutton, on the road from South Sutton to Warner, near the highest point of Kimball's hill, so called from Caleb Kimball, its first settler, who is supposed to have come here about 1780-'81. The altitude of the site is some twelve hundred feet above sea level. The air is breezy, cool, and most healthful. The roads are hilly, but the drives are embowered with trees, shady and attractive, and the views from the open heights are magnificent. South-eastwardly can be seen the steeples of the Warner churches; southerly is Stuart mountain, 1800 feet high; south-westwardly is Lovell's mountain. Turning to the right the eye takes in Sunapee mountain, at whose base nestles Sunapee lake in all its beauty, at an altitude of about 1,100 feet; then Dresser's, King's, and New London hills, the last with its church and academy, until directly to the north the eye rests upon Kearsarge which in its majesty crowns the surrounding landscape at the height of 2,942 feet. The summit of the mountain is about eight miles from the Grange, toward which it descends continuously to Stevens brook as that courses its way toward Warner river along the foot of Kimball's hill. It is supposed that the location of Mr. Kimball's buildings was determined by the proximity of a rock-sheltered spring on the northerly slope of the hill, of exceptionally pure water, still greatly prized.

In 1784, the town voted "to appoint a committee to accept the road laid out, passing by Joseph Wadleigh's (South Sutton) and Caleb Kimball's to Warner." Here is evidence of the home on the hill and of the highway to the commerce of the world. For a generation this was the main road, hilly as it was, of travel south and south-easterly for a large population in more northerly towns. The increasing travel suggested a tavern, and soon the moderate-sized red house, first built, gave way to a more pretentious mansion. Here for years at night the weary traveller found rest and food for himself and beast. Sometimes the number of lodgers was so great that they slept in rows on the floor. Here news was exchanged from the up-country and the city. Those still living recall the busy and merry scenes presented. On the broad field at the east the militia paraded at regimental muster, and the children and adults of this and surrounding towns gathered in gala dress to enjoy the holiday and the martial display. On the opposite side of the road near the barn, Mr. Bartlett, of Warner, established a store, which was tended by his son Levi, afterward the well known agricultural and historical writer. Mr. Levi Bartlett in his old age said to the Eatons,—“I have known seven generations of your family.”

In 1786, Caleb Kimball was one of a committee to locate the south meeting-house, and, as one of the selectmen, had care of the expenditure of twelve pounds raised that year for the support of schools. His home was in the “third district,” and the school for his children was located on the ledge at the brow of the hill south of the road and within view of his home—a sightly spot, a solid foundation. Rev. Dr. Horace Eaton, his grandson, who took his first lessons in this school-house, was wont to say that his education was “founded on a rock.” Here the children and grandchildren of Mr. Kimball attended school, and in part acquired the intelligence for which they were noted. Tradition tells us of the sensation of admiration and wonder produced by a visit to the school of a soldier returned from the War of 1812, dressed in a captain’s red coat. When another and better “people’s college” was built, at a point on the road farther toward Warner near the Benjamin Kendrick place, this old house was removed to the new district on the road passing Jonathan Roby’s, and rebuilt near Thomas Morgan’s where it remains to this day. In this house John Eaton, afterward U. S. Commissioner of Education, at sixteen years of age taught his first school.

Near the school-house on the ledge, crossing the road, John Eaton, who married Mary Kimball, built his first house, carried on his trade as a brazier, and opened a store. All trace of this home is now gone except the cellar, the well, and the tansy patch. On the opposite side of the road lived Jonathan Stevens, whose daughter became Mrs. Jacob Osgood, and died in Warner over one hundred and two years of age. Only the old well and a slight depression of ground mark the site of the Stevens house.

The next house crossing the road at the foot of the first hill was the home of Elijah Eaton. It is now vacant. Elijah was the brother of John Eaton, above mentioned, and of the centenarian, Nathaniel Eaton, who lived farther down the road. Here Elijah's son, Carlos, lived, raised his family, and died. Then came the Kendricks—Samuel, William, and Benjamin—the children of Dudley Kendrick, whose home was the second of these, the William Kendrick house. The Samuel Kendrick house was at one time occupied by John Morgan, and is now occupied by John Colby and his son Demerit. The William Kendrick house, once occupied by the Simonses, by Holton Martin, and the Philbrooks, is now vacant. The Benj. Kendrick homestead, once occupied by his daughter, Mrs. P. S. H. Wadleigh and family, is now owned by Leonard F. E. Dresser. Near here Benj. Kendrick had a blacksmith shop. The new house, built by Benj. Kendrick across the road and occupied by his widow until her death, is now removed to a point opposite Hon. Geo. C. Eaton's.

A few rods up the road from the Benj. Kendrick homestead was erected, about 1824, the successor to the school-house on the ledge near the grange. This was burnt, and the old red school-house across the road appeared, in which all the Eaton brothers and sisters went to school. In 1884 this was changed into a new and more commodious white house. But it is no longer crowded as were the older ones with hearty children. The few who attend of another generation still play in the sand, build their miniature stone walls around their miniature farms, houses, and barns, roll up the big snow-balls, slide gaily down the hill, and have their childish quarrels as those before them.

The next house below the Kendricks on the south side was the home of Edward Ordway, father of Samuel Ordway and ancestor of all our Ordways. It is now occupied by the widow and children of Daniel Ordway. Of the next house on the same side of the road, Joseph Johnson's, nothing remains to mark the site but the orchard.

Nearly opposite stands the mansion, built in 1814 by John Adams, who married Sally Kimball. They first settled and lived on the summit of Adams hill near by. His son John Adams afterwards occupied the homestead now owned by Highgate Jordan. On the other side, at the corner of the Waterloo road, stands the house built by Edward Ordway, the son of the Edward above mentioned. It is now the home of Hon. Jacob K. Adams, who represented Sutton in the state legislature, as it was of his father, B. F. Adams. Across the Waterloo road from here was the home of John Kezar, 1814-'20, which long since disappeared.

On the north side farther down stands the mansion, built in 1814, of Nathaniel Eaton, who lived to celebrate, in the possession of all his faculties to a remarkable degree, his hundredth birthday. It is now occupied by his son, Hon. Geo. C. Eaton. The next house, and the last before passing from Sutton into Warner, was the home of Jonathan Rowell and his sons Ira and Silas Rowell, later of George and Charles Rowell, the sons of Silas, and now of James B. Sawyer.

Passing westerly from Eaton Grange, the first house was that of Peter Peaslee, son of David, of which only the cellar remains in what has ever since been known as the "Peter orchard." At the foot of the hill, near the corner of the road leading to North Sutton, lived the Taylors. Here at one time was a busy centre,—a tavern, a store, a potash, a tannery, and a cooper shop. All traces of this home and these activities have disappeared excepting the cellar, the vat-holes of the tannery, and the orchard of the old Taylor homestead. Several of the Taylor sons became clergymen;—one, Rev. Wm. Taylor, organized many Baptist churches, among them those in Bradford and Concord, N. H. He was one if not the chief of the founders of the academy at New Hampton, N. H., and of the college at Kalamazoo, Mich.

In this Taylor homestead also afterward resided Mr. Silsby, a clergyman, who carried the mail on horseback through a considerable region of this county, and announced his approach by a blast from his tin horn.

Down the roadway towards North Sutton is the steep hill known as Potash hill.

Rising the Downing hill on the road towards South Sutton, on the north side, is the cellar which marks the site of the old home of Seth Downing, afterward occupied by Joseph Peaslee.

About an eighth of a mile up the South Sutton road from its junction with the North Sutton road on the north side, David Peaslee, above mentioned, made the first settlement in the town of Sutton. The site is now covered with forest, and is marked only by a few surviving apple-trees. All these places named, westwardly from the Grange, are now included in the Eaton estate. . . .

John Eaton succeeded his grandfather, Caleb Kimball, in the ownership of Eaton Grange. He was a conquering farmer, who by indomitable energy and unceasing industry added farm to farm, until he was said to own "all the land adjoining him." His children retain about one thousand acres, perhaps one half of what belonged at one time to their father. They have removed the barns from the south side of the road and remodelled the other buildings, retaining the old two-story house with its massive frame of oak and pine, so firmly put together that it has been said it could be rolled down the hillside to Stevens's brook without breaking to pieces.

The sons and daughters of John Eaton, who are the present proprietors, have all resided beyond the limits of the state of New Hampshire for over twenty-five years; but hither they come with their families as opportunity permits for their summer rest and recreation. They are John Eaton of Marietta, Ohio, Mrs. S. M. Pennock of Winter Hill, Somerville, Mass., Nathan A. Eaton of Encinitas, San Diego Co., Cal., Frederick Eaton of Toledo, Ohio, Lucien B. Eaton of Memphis, Tenn., Christina L. Eaton of Memphis, Tenn., James A. Eaton of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Charles Eaton of Memphis, Tenn. These Eaton brothers and sisters have restored and beautified their old home, and, as they could, have made an annual pilgrimage to it, not simply for their own pleasure, but as some expression of the tender affection which they cherish for the father whom they honor and for the mother whose memory they idolize. It is a matter of great thankfulness to them that the ranks of this band of six brothers and two sisters had not been broken by death up to the close of 1889. During the first days of Sept., 1889, these brothers and sisters were all together at the old homestead, the first time for forty years.

Gen. John Eaton, the oldest, has always been the executive in charge of the affairs of Eaton Grange, and Miss Christina L. Eaton, its matron and hostess. To the devotion and admirable management of Miss Christie are due in the largest degree the pleasures of the delightful family reunions at the Grange.

Here have gathered every summer, without interruption for over fifteen years, some of them with their friends and their kindred scattered from Maine to California. The latch-string hangs out to all, with a warmer welcome to any of the Kimball, Eaton, Andrews, or Gregg lineage. All mere formal restraint is laid aside. All are children again. The old mansion resounds with laughter and frolic, song, music, and the dance, and in turn come earnest discussions and tearful memories. As Dr. Jacob S. Eaton, the brother of John Eaton, was wont to remark, "Perfect order and perfect freedom reign."

Sometimes large parties of friends arrive, lunch is served, toasts given, speeches made, side-splitting stories told, the old familiar songs are sung, and then perhaps visits to the spring, and music and dance and round and round of jollity.

On Sabbaths, in the days of Rev. Horace Eaton, D. D., came friends from the neighborhood, and sometimes from more distant villages, to hear his thoughtful, eloquent, and sometimes very touching discourses. One of these sermons, upon the text II Samuel 23: 15, "And David longed and said, 'O that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Bethlehem which is by the gate,'" will never be forgotten by those who heard him. He dwelt upon the heart's yearning for the old scenes and hearthstones, and the beauty of children's restoring the old dwelling, and gathering as here in the home of their parents and their childhood.

It was the delight of the Eaton brothers and sisters to see how dear the old place was to their uncles, Dr. Jacob S. Eaton of Harvard, Mass., and of Rev. Dr. Horace Eaton of Palmyra, N. Y., and to their aunts, the sisters of their father, Mrs. Ruth K. Sherburne, Mrs. Sally Dresser, and Miss Lucretia K. Eaton. Here they found the fountain of youth, and revelled in the scenes of their childhood. Dr. Horace wandered over the fields and climbed the hills as one in a trance, possessed of a heavenly vision. Dr. Jacob and "Aunt Ruth" referred to it to the last with the enthusiasm and rapture of a Mohammedan saint to the Mecca of his joy. "A charm from the skies seemed to hallow them" here.

An instance of the gay humor of Dr. Jacob S. Eaton when here, even in his old age, must be perpetuated. At eighty-two years of age, he sat at the table with aunt Christina (Andrews) Callan, of Washington, D. C., then seventy years of age. As he met her at the breakfast table his first morning, taking her hand warmly and drawing her slightly and gently aside, he said to her with the grace of a cavalier, "Madam, I dreamed of you last night."

Among the most interesting incidents of the reunions at the Grange was the golden wedding of "Aunt and Uncle Sherburne," Sept. 6, 1875, of which a contemporary newspaper gave the following account:

One of the most delightful social gatherings which has taken place in this neighborhood for many a day was that at the old 'Kimball mansion' otherwise known as 'Eaton Grange,' on the occasion of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Sherburne, of Concord, on Monday, the 6th inst. The ancient mansion in Sutton, from which the bride was married fifty years ago, is now the summer home of the Eaton brothers and sisters, the eldest of whom is Gen. John Eaton, Commissioner of the Educational Bureau, Washington, D. C. Thither they come with kith and kin to forget business cares for a few weeks, and to refresh their hearts and health in that high place among the hills and mountains. It was very appropriate that the venerable couple around whom the chief interest centred should have complied with the wishes of their nieces and nephews at the Grange, and come back to the old homestead to celebrate their golden nuptials, bringing with them their children and children's children.

The weather was everything that could be wished, the company numerous and in a mood to enjoy themselves, and the reception most hospitable and gracious. Of the immediate relatives present, there were Gen. John Eaton, wife and three children; Judge and Mrs. S. M. Pennock, of Somerville, Mass.; Col. Lucien B. Eaton, U. S. Marshal of Memphis, Tenn., his wife and son; Miss Christina L. Eaton, of Memphis, Tenn.; James A. Eaton and wife, of Adrian, Mich.; and Charles Eaton and wife, of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Sherburne have four children, twelve grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren. Of their family present there were Joseph Sherburne, Mrs. Rolfe and husband, Hon. Henry P. Rolfe and two children, Mrs. Col. Jesse A. Gove and her daughter Jessie. The younger son, Robert H. Sherburne, Jr., a resident of McHenry, Ill., was unable to be present. A sister of Mrs. Sherburne, the wife of the late Samuel Dresser, of Sutton, and her son, Mr. Leonard Dresser, were guests,—also her brother, Rev. Horace Eaton, D. D., of Palmyra, N. Y., and Mrs. Frederick Eaton, of Warner. Of the cousins and more distant relatives who came up to greet the happy couple, may be mentioned Geo. C. Eaton and lady, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Eaton, Moses Hazen and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Adams of Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Allen of Fisherville, Mrs. Wadleigh of Manchester, Dr. and Mrs. Rix, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Adams of Warner, Mrs. J. Y. Mugridge of Concord, and Mrs. John Andrews of Melrose, Mass. Besides these were present, Rev. Dr. Eames, Hon. Geo. G. Fogg, Mrs. ex-Gov. Harriman, Concord, N. H., Enoch Page and daughter, James Sawyer and wife, Rev. Mr. Moody, wife and daughter, Mrs. Dr. Smiley and daughter, of Sutton, Col. N. G. Ordway, Rev. Wm. H. Walker and wife, Rev. M. A. Gates, Robert Thompson and daughter, Hiram Buswell and daughter, Henry L. Harris, Misses Amanda B. and Mary Harris, Dr. Cogswell and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Harvey, Mrs. Dr. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Harriman, Willard Graves,

Mrs. Dr. Frank W. Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Ager, Levi Bartlett, Mrs. Lavinia K. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. K. Bartlett, Alfred W. Sargent, Geo. Barnard, Mrs. Julia A. Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Heath, P. S. H. Wadleigh, all of Warner, and Rev. and Mrs. John C. Ager, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The religious exercises were conducted by Rev. Dr. Eames, the pastor of the Sherburne family, in the same room in which, fifty years before, the marriage ceremony had been solemnized. First, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow" was sung. Then followed a most impressive prayer and benediction upon the venerable pair, this part closing with "Blest be the tie that binds," which was sung by all present.

Gen. Eaton, in behalf of the brothers and sisters, made an informal address, tenderly welcoming the bride and bridegroom, referring to the past history of the old mansion and those who had dwelt under its roof-tree—a touching, eloquent memorial, coupled with words of cheer and gratitude.

Hon. H. P. Rolfe followed with feeling remarks, alluding in pleasant terms to the relationship which existed between himself and the family and to the member of it who for more than a score of years had walked life's uneven road by his side.

Letters from friends who were unable to be present were read by Col. Lucien B. Eaton, among them a charming, gossipy one, full of reminiscences, from Dr. Jacob S. Eaton, of Harvard, Mass., a brother of the bride, and an off-hand and very felicitous one from Hon. Wm. E. Chandler. Most kindly congratulatory letters were also read from kindred in distant states, from Rev. Dr. N. Bouton, Rev. Dr. Cummings, and many others. Dr. Bouton's letter, coming from one who was married the same day, and who for a long time lived a near neighbor to Mr. and Mrs. Sherburne, was particularly interesting. Levi Bartlett gave some genealogical data and facts concerning the ancestry of the family, who were of the right blue and the right true blood. Hon. Geo. G. Fogg, a classmate of Dr. Horace Eaton, responded to a call on him in a few fitting words, in which he eulogized the spirit of young men who, having left the paternal roof in New Hampshire and gone out into the world to meet wealth and fame, are not ashamed of the old homestead, but return to beautify it as the boys of that sturdy old farmer, the late John Eaton, are doing to-day. Hon. N. G. Ordway, like the late Mr. Lincoln, was reminded of "a little story," and so told it. Rev. Dr. Horace Eaton was the last to give one of those informal addresses, in which there had been such a mingling of the joyful, the grave, and the gay, of the memorial and the congratulatory. His happy little speech combined the facetious, the tender, and the religious. The benediction was pronounced by Elder Moody, of Sutton, formerly pastor of the Eaton family.

All through these pleasing exercises, music had come in at intervals to do its part toward the entertainment. In addition to the two hymns sung at the earlier stages of the exercises, many ballads followed that are dear to our common humanity, the sweet familiar words of "John Anderson my Jo, John," "The Last Rose of Summer," "The Land o' the Leal," "Oft in the Stilly Night," concluding with "Home, Sweet Home." Miss Jessie Gove rendered them with good effect, being accompanied on the violin by Mrs. John Eaton.

Refreshments were most generously served by many kind hands, grace having been said by Rev. Mr. Walker, after which many of the party retired to the pleasant grounds just west of the house. Here the inspiring strains from the violin recalled the gay scenes of former years to some who had long been unused to the mazy dance, and Mr. and Mrs. Sherburne lead the dance on the greensward in the old orchard. In the same set danced Levi Bartlett, having for a partner Mrs. Dr. Frank Graves. Col. Ordway was especially jolly, and did all he could by precept and example to keep up the fun. Valuable presents were made, among them a handsome gold-headed cane to Mr. Sherburne. And now guest after guest departs, leaving the happy old couple to the enjoyment of the present hour, and grateful to the proprietors of "the Grange" for a day of pleasure.

But the glad faces of these gray-haired children of that generation of Eatons, that of the former John Eaton, will probably never more be seen at the Grange. There were in all seven brothers and five sisters. The last survivor of the generation, Lucien B. Eaton, never visited the old hive after 1837.

Of the descendants of Caleb Kimball beside the Eatons, who have shared largely and successfully in the activities of life, may be mentioned his son, Jacob Sawyer Kimball, the jeweller, of Montpelier, Vt., his grandsons, Edwin H. and Franklin Haddock, capitalists, of Chicago, Ill., Lorenzo K. Haddock, a lawyer, of Buffalo, N. Y., Lemuel Adams, a large farmer, of Sheldon, Vt., Caleb Kimball Adams, the prosperous farmer, of Ogden, N. Y., Hon. Wm. Henry McCrillis, lawyer and capitalist, of Bangor, Me., Mrs. Harriet (McCrillis) Griswold, widow of the author, Dr. Griswold, Hon. Jacob Kimball Moore, merchant and farmer, of Griggsville, Ill.; his great-grandsons, Dr. J. S. Adams, an eminent physician and surgeon, of Oakland, Cal., Edward Payson Adams, a manufacturer and large farmer, of Swanton, Vt., John Adams Andrews, a leading merchant, of Boston, Mass., Rev. John Q. Adams, of San Francisco, Cal., and Miss Harriet Andrews, the artist, in Boston.

To one raised on the farms among the New Hampshire hills who returns to the scenes of his childhood, one of the most striking features is the number of homesteads, as shown in the above sketch, of which nothing remains except the cellar, the old well, the orchard with trees full of dead branches or decrepit and broken down with age, and perhaps the tansy patch, or the lilac- or rose-bush. These are touchingly and mournfully suggestive of the hardy pioneers who drove out the wild beasts, cleared the forests, so thoughtfully planted these apple-trees, and with lofty cheer heroically wrestled with these rocky soils for a livelihood, and who here sheltered their loved ones from the wintry storms around these once blazing hearth-stones. These fires which lighted up the faces of soberer age and of the children, who frolicked and laughed as others of a softer fortune, have long since died out, and the paths to these thresholds long since ceased to be frequented. All have gone. The weary pioneers rest from their labors ; and if their children survive, they are scattered, gray-haired and feeble with age, through the great West.

CALEB KIMBALL,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS, EATON, HADDOCK, ADAMS (JOHN), ADAMS (LEMUEL), KIMBALL, MOORE, PINKERTON, MCCRILLIS.

Caleb Kimball was one of the earliest selectmen of the town, and one of the largest tax-payers. He was one of a committee in 1784 to locate a meeting-house, and served his fellow-citizens at various times. He was one of those who built the first saw-mill, at the foot of Jones's hill on Lane's brook. Tradition says that he spent one year in town preparing his farm, camping in the forest, before bringing his family. Benjamin and Asa Kimball appear as proprietors of Perrystown or Sutton. Caleb Kimball was born Sept. 25, 1748, in Hampstead, N. H., originally a part of Haverhill, Mass. He married, Feb. 8, 1769, Sarah, daughter of Edmund and Sarah (Rowell) Sawyer, of Hampstead. They lived two years in Hampstead, then moved to Goffstown, remaining there eleven years, when he removed his family to Sutton. Mr. Kimball was a prominent contributor to the early development of the town. In his later years he suffered from paralysis agitans, or shaking palsy. His wife was characterized by strength of intellect and high purpose, and heartily seconded her husband in his endeavors for advancement. No efforts were spared for their children.

We are indebted to S. P. Sharpley, Esq., of Boston, for the following succinct account of the ancestors of Caleb Kimball.

A. Richard Kimball, b. 1593; d. June 22, 1675; m. Ursula Scott. He came from Ipswich, England, on the ship Elizabeth, Capt. Andrews, master, which sailed April, 1634. He first took up land in Watertown, afterwards, about 1637, moved to Ipswich, Mass., where he died.

B. Benjamin Kimball, b. 1637; d. June 11, 1696; m. April 16, 1661, Mercy Hazeltine, b. Oct. 16, 1642; d. Jan. 5, 1707. Benjamin and Mercy lived the most of their lives in Bradford, near Haverhill. Their wills are on record at Salem, Mass. Mercy was the daughter of Robert Hazeltine and Ann, his wife.

C. Jonathan Kimball, b. Nov. 26, 1673; d. Sept. 30, 1749: m. July 15, 1696, Lydia Day, b. Mar. 18, 1676; d. Sept. 16, 1739. Lydia was the daughter of John Day and Sarah Pingry, of Ipswich. John was the son of Robert Day. Sarah was the daughter of Moses Pingry, of Ipswich.

D. Benjamin Kimball, b. in Bradford, May 16, 1697; d. Aug. 5, 1741: m. Mary Emerson, b. 1697. Mary was the daughter of Martha Toothaker and Joseph Emerson, and was a first cousin to Hannah Dustin. Mary, the mother of Martha, was killed by the Indians. Benjamin moved, soon after his marriage, over the river to Haverhill, and settled in that part of the town which is now Hampstead, N. H. Although he was a young man when he died, he left a large family. Six children, Jonathan, Benjamin, Lydia, Hannah, Moses, and Mehitable survived him, four having died young, three dying in 1737, the year of the "throat distemper" in Essex Co.

E. Benjamin, 2d, b. May 3, 1722, was his second son, and m. Dec. 28, 1842, Mary Eaton, of Salisbury, b. Mar. 27, 1723; d. Aug. 29, 1757. He m., 2d. Mary Hoyt, Feb. 28, 1758.

Children by first wife,—

Joseph, b. Oct. 22, 1743. Settled in Wentworth, N. H.

Mary, b. Mar. 12, 1745; m. Dec. 27, 1764, Obededon Hall, of Candia.

Benjamin, b. Sept. 8, 1747; d. 1747.

Caleb, b. Sept. 24, 1748; m. Sarah Sawyer.

Andrew, b. Sept. 27, 1750; finally settled in Cincinnati, O.

Benjamin, b. Apr. 19, 1752.

Nicholas, b. Mar. 8, 1754.

Children by the second wife,—

Moses, b. Mar. 3, 1756. Settled in Winsted, Me.

Ebenezer, b. Feb. 17, 1759.

Ruth, b. Nov. 9, 1761.

Sarah, b. Dec. 11, 1760; m. (probably) Dec. 15, 1784, Stephen Jaffers.

Lydia, b. Mar. 15, 1768.

Isaac, b. Jan. 1, 1769.

Jacob, b. May 20, 1770; lived in the homestead in Hampstead. He made a donation to the N. H. Asylum for the Insane.

Jabez, b. Jan. 20, 1772; d. Mar. 19, 1805. He was a graduate and tutor at Harvard; never married. The sermon preached at his funeral was published and is preserved.

Naunl, b. Mar. 16, 1775.

Mrs. Sarah (Sawyer) Kimball d. Feb. 22, 1822, aged 77 years. As nearly as can be ascertained at present, Mrs. Kimball's ancestors in America were as follows:

A. William and Ruth Sawyer, Newburyport, Mass.

B. Samuel and Mary (Emery) Sawyer.

C. Samuel and Abigail (Goodridge) Sawyer.

D. Edmund and Sarah (Rowell) Sawyer lived in Hampstead and Sutton. Joseph Sawyer of Warner was his brother.

Edmund Sawyer, a man of devout piety, passed his last days at the Sutton home of his daughter, Mrs. Kimball, where he died Feb. 18, 1807. Mr. Caleb Kimball d. Dec. 19, 1825, aged 77 years. Their graves can be seen in the South Sutton graveyard.

Children of Caleb and Sarah (Sawyer) Kimball,—

This John Eaton was a man of splendid physique, of a vigorous mind, a natural leader of men, but not thrifty. He d. in Montreal, Canada, in Nov., 1817. His wife, Mary Kimball, was a woman of medium stature and of remarkable strength of mind. She early gave herself to a life of faith. She found great joy and strength in communion with her Heavenly Father, in reading and repeating the Scriptures, and in prayer. She often surprised her friends by repeating whole chapters and even books of the Bible. She d. at the house of her son, Jacob S. Eaton, M. D., at Bristol, Sept. 20, 1848, aged 78 years. She lies buried in the South Sutton graveyard.

Frederick Eaton, b. Nov. 16, 1793, son of John and Mary (Kimball) Eaton, learned the clothier's trade, which he followed for a time at Warner. He subsequently devoted himself to study and teaching, and once had the ministry in view. He m. Polly S. Badger, June 18, 1829, and settled down to farming. He became a very active member, and was for twenty-eight years deacon of the Congregational church of Warner. He was also for many years the superintendent of its Sabbath-school. His wife d. Aug. 27, 1861. He m. 2d, Mar. 26, 1863, Abiah Heath, and d. at Warner, Jan. 31, 1865. His second wife still survives him. His life of severest labor was consecrated to his religious zeal. He was wont to rise every night several times for secret prayer, and had special hours devoted to prayer for relatives by name. Though a farmer of small means, he contributed sums of $30 and $40 at times to objects of Christian charity. He was a member of the American Bible Society, the American Tract Society, the Home Mission Society, and the American and Foreign Christian Union.

Ruth Kimball Eaton, b. Feb. 10, 1795, was a tall woman, of queenly bearing, of strong memory, of wonderful geniality and executive capacity. She educated herself at the academies of Salisbury and Pembroke, and on Sept. 5, 1825, m., at what is now known as Eaton Grange, Robert H. Sherburne, b. Sept. 10, 1801. Mr. Sherburne was a bookseller and publisher in Concord, Portland, Me., and Boston, Mass. This couple were spared to celebrate their golden wedding, Sept. 6, 1875, in the same room in which they were married. Mr. Sherburne d. July 25, 1877, aged 75 years, and Mrs. Sherburne d. Sept. 13, 1882, aged 87 years. Children,—

Joseph, b. Nov. 17, 1826.

Mary Rebecca, b. Sept. 20, 1828.

Maria Louisa, b. Dec. 17, 1830.

Robert Hall, b. Feb. 3, 1833.

Joseph pursued his studies at Portland and at South Berwick, Me. He was clerk in a grocery store in Boston for several years, and later was clerk for his father in the book business. He now resides in Concord.

Mary Rebecca Sherburne, b. Sept. 20, 1828, on Nov. 22, 1853, m. Hon. Henry P. Rolfe, b. Feb. 13, 1821, the son of Benjamin and Margaret (Searle) Rolfe. His mother was the daughter of the first settled minister of Salisbury. He graduated at Dartmouth in 1848, was admitted to the bar in 1851, and belongs to the front rank of New Hampshire lawyers. He was a member of the board of education in Concord in 1852, and chairman of the same in 1853; member of the legislature in 1853, 1863, 1864; appointed postmaster of Concord in 1866, but his commission was withheld for political reasons. He was U. S. district attorney from 1869 to 1874, member of the lake commission for the state in 1878-'79, U. S. commissioner from 1866 to this time. Children,— Marshall Potter, b. Sept. 29, 1854; d. Aug. 6, 1862.

Margaret Florence, b. Jan. 12, 1858; d. May 2, 1858.

Henrietta Maria, b. Jan. 17, 1861; d. Sept. 22, 1862.

Robert Henry, b. Oct. 16, 1863.

George Hamilton, b. Dec. 24, 1866.

Robert Henry Rolfe graduated at the Concord high school in 1880, and at Dartmouth college in 1884. He has since been engaged in the railroad and insurance business.

George H., after leaving the high school, studied at the academy in Holderness, and is engaged in railroad business.

Maria L. Sherburne, b. Dec. 17, 1830, m. in Concord, Oct. 6, 1852, Col. Jesse Augustus Gove, of Weare, b. Dec. 5, 1824. He graduated at Norwich (Vt.) Military University in 1847, and served as lieutenant in the 9th U. S. Infantry, and on General Pierce's staff in the Mexican war. At its close, his regiment being disbanded, he studied law with President Pierce, of Pierce & Minot, and was admitted to the bar and opened a law office in Concord in 1851. He was deputy secretary of state from 1850 to 1855, and was then appointed captain of Company I, 10th Regular U. S. Infantry, recruited his company, and was ordered to Fort Snelling, Minn. Here he served until the Mormon rebellion broke out. He participated with his regiment in this service and in other arduous frontier duty until the War of the Rebellion. Vice-President Henry Wilson had just raised the 22d Massachusetts Infantry, and tendered him the colonelcy of it, which he accepted. Massachusetts had no better regiment and no abler commander. His regiment in the Army of the Potomac, under McClellan, actively participated in the battles before Richmond, and Colonel Gove fell while gallantly leading his command at Gaines's Mill, Va., June 22, 1862. His portrait is preserved in the state capitol at Concord. Children,—

Charles Augustus, b. in Concord, July 5, 1854.

Jessie Ridgely, b. in Fort Ridgely, Minn., Aug. 30, 1856.

Charles Augustus Gove entered as a cadet in the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., in June, 1871, and graduated June, 1876. He served on the Pacific station three years, in China and Japan three years; he has also served in the hydrographic office, Washington, D. C., and in Boston, Mass. He is now on coast survey duty on the steamer McArthur in the north Pacific, off Washington. Lieut. Charles A. Gove m. in Boston, Mass., May 23, 1887, Minnie, daughter of Horace Webster, of San Francisco, Cal.

Jessie Ridgely m. in Concord, Dec. 12, 1889, John Harris Pearson, b. March 17, 1818, in Sutton, son of Thomas and Abigail (Ambrose) Pearson. Mr. Pearson was born in Sutton, and by dint of great energy, industry, and perseverance, and by faithful discharge of all responsibilities entrusted to him, has won for himself a position of prominence socially and politically, has acquired large wealth, and has been for many years one of the most influential directors of the Concord Railroad.

Robert H. Sherburne, b. Feb. 3, 1833, m. July 4, 1861, at Chelmsford, Mass., Betsey Stocker, and settled at Green Bay, Wis. They returned to Concord in August, 1853, and in 1857 moved to McHenry, Ill., where he is a successful farmer. Betsey (Stocker) Sherburne d. at McHenry, Nov. 14, 1868, Children,—

Sarah M. Colby. Child,—

Flora Winifred, b. at McHenry, Ill., Dec. 11, 1870.

Rebecca Dodge Eaton, b. June 3, 1796, spent her youth with her aunt, Mrs. Lucretia Haddock, in Salisbury, now Franklin. She devoted her life to teaching, mainly at Utica and Rochester, N. Y. She was gifted with a fine literary and poetic taste. She came to see her mother, and to aid in the care of her the last of her life. She spent her last years with her brother John, in Sutton, and d. at Eaton Grange, Dec. 9, 1852.

John Eaton, b. Nov. 7, 1798, learned the currier's trade at Croydon, and worked at this for Consul Jarvis at Weathersfield, Vt., and afterward for his uncle, Wm. Haddock, in that portion of Salisbury now known as Franklin. His grandfather, Caleb Kimball, when aged, offered him his homestead farm on Kimball's hill if he would take charge of it and support him and wife till death. He accepted this proposition, and became a farmer. He m. in Sutton, June 5, 1828, Janet Collins, b. in Fishersfield, Jan. 2, 1808, the daughter of Nathan and Hannah (Gregg) Andrews. In John Eaton was united remarkable vigor of mind and body. He was a man of great energy and industry, and added farm to farm until he was the largest land owner in his section. He contributed to the excellent education which his children received. In Mrs. Eaton were blended strength and gentleness with the loftiest spirit of consecration of the New England mother. She sought to communicate to her children aspirations for a broader and higher life. She seized every opportunity for their education, but was still more eager for their religious training. She often gathered them about her, "as a hen gathereth her chickens," for prayer. She pointed to heaven and led the way. Mrs. Janet Collins Eaton d. Feb. 7, 1846, and her husband, John Eaton, May 9, 1873. Children,—

John, b. Dec. 5, 1829.
 Caroline, b. July 10, 1831.

 James Andrews, b. Sept. 30, 1841.
 Charles, b. Aug. 28, 1843.
 Mary Janet, b. July 12, 1845; d. Nov. 10, 1845.

John Eaton, like all his brothers and sisters, was kept at hard, manual work through his youth when not attending school. In addition to his schooling in his district, and a few extra terms at Warner and Bradford, he was educated at the academy at Thetford, Vt., under Hiram Orcutt, LL. D., Dartmouth college, and Andover (Mass.) Theological Seminary. He graduated from Dartmouth college in 1854, and became principal of a school in Cleveland in the same year. He was superintendent of schools of Toledo, O., from 1856 to 1859.

His educational work was begun in his sixteenth year, and before entering Thetford academy by teaching one term in the Morgan district, near his home. The school-house still stands unchanged. With the exception of $243 dollars furnished by his father, young Eaton paid the entire expense of his education from his own earnings.

He was ordained minister of the gospel, and in August, 1861, he became chaplain of the 27th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. In the fall of 1861 he was taken prisoner at Lexington, Mo. When our troops retired from Springfield, Mo., he volunteered to stay behind with Colonel, now Major-General, J. W. Fuller, of Toledo, O., who was sick and expected to die, becoming again a prisoner in the Confederate lines, and while there was called upon to preach to the Confederate soldiers. The colonel, however, recovered, and they were both allowed to reach the Union lines at Rolla in safety.

In 1862 he became brigade sanitary inspector. He was appointed by General Grant in Nov., 1862, superintendent of the colored people, who came into the lines of his army by thousands and tens of thousands in northern Alabama, western Tennessee, and northern Mississippi. His supervision extended with the operations of the Army of the Tennessee from Cairo to the mouth of the Red river, and up the Arkansas to Fort Smith, and came to embrace also the care of the thousands of white refugees that flocked to the Federal lines, and were furnished food, clothing, and medicines, and sent to places of safety. He had an office and force of assistants at each military post. Under his administration the colored people were, as far as possible, made self-supporting, and all possible forms of industry were devised for them. They were cooks, nurses in the hospitals, laborers in the army; thousands and thousands of cabins were built, wood cut, cotton, corn, and vegetables raised. Marriage obligations were enforced, schools were established in which benevolent teachers from the North did great service. These schools became largely self-supporting. His camps, it is estimated, furnished over 70,000 colored soldiers.

John Eaton

General Grant, in his Personal Memoirs, refers to this service of Chaplain Eaton as follows :

It was at this point, probably, where the first idea of a "Freedman's Bureau" took its origin. Orders of the government prohibited the expulsion of the negroes from the protection of the army when they came in voluntarily. Humanity forbade allowing them to starve. . . . The plantations were all deserted; the cotton and corn were ripe; men, women, and children above ten years of age could be employed in saving these crops. To do this work with contrabands, or to have it done, organization under a competent chief was necessary. On inquiring for such a man, Chaplain Eaton, now and for many years the very able United States Commissioner of Education, was suggested. He proved as efficient in that field as he has since done in his present one.

Chaplain Eaton became colonel of the 63d Colored Infantry, and was made brigadier-general by brevet, and in May, 1865, assistant commissioner of the Freedman's Bureau, and was ordered to Washington, D. C.

In 1866 General Eaton founded and was editor of the Memphis Post, a daily, weekly, and tri-weekly Republican paper. In 1867 he was elected state superintendent of public instruction for Tennessee, and secured the attendance of 185,000 pupils in the new schools. He was appointed United States Commissioner of Education by General Grant, and assumed the duties of the office in March, 1870, when the office had only two clerks, not over a hundred volumes belonging to it, and no museum of educational illustrations and appliances. He served as commissioner till August, 1886, though in the fall of 1885 he had tendered his resignation and had been elected president of Marietta (Ohio) college, and had moved there with his family; but, at the request of the administration, he retained the responsibilities of the Bureau of Education till the date named. Under his direction the bureau became the exchange of educational thought and fact for the entire country. It noted the progress, experience, and methods of education the world over, and conveyed its information to school officers, teachers, educational workers and writers in every county and city of the United States. The clerical force of the bureau was increased to thirty-eight, the library was enlarged to 18,000 volumes and 46,000 pamphlets. His publications and opinions were sought in every part of the world where there is progress in education, and were translated into most remote languages, as those of Finland and Japan.

General Eaton has twice visited Europe, and, travelling much in the states and territories, made himself familiar with the actual condition and needs of education. Every phase and problem of education has received his attention. He has promoted important changes in elementary instruction, aided improvement in school-houses, promoted greater attention to hygiene in public schools, helped efficiently to advance the qualifications of teachers and the standards of legal and medical instruction. He has done much for the improvement of our colleges and universities, and especially of agriculture and mechanic arts, and for the establishment of schools of manual training. He has been the promoter of the kindergarten, and has aided the progress of education in every department. He always urged education for every child in the land. He early and ably showed that the condition of illiteracy in the United States requires national aid. The provisions of a government for Alaska and schools for its people, so long withheld, were especially aided by his endeavors.

He was appointed by the president to represent the Department of the Interior at the Centennial Exhibition in 1876; has been twice elected president of the American Social Science Association, and one of the vice-presidents of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and president of section "I;" was chief of the Department of Education for the New Orleans Exposition, and organized that vast exhibition, and was president of the International Congress of Education there, and vice-president of the International Congress of Educators, in Havre, France. The degrees of A. B. and A. M. were given him by Dartmouth college, Ph. D. by Rutgers, and LL. D. by Dartmouth. He has served on the board of visitors appointed by the president to examine the instruction and concerns of the Military Academy at West Point; has been a trustee of Fiske university, and is now a trustee of Lane Theological Seminary, Cincinnati; of Howard university, and of Columbian university, Washington; and was one of the incorporators and is one of the trustees of the funds of the National Educational Association; has been called to preside as the moderator of the Presbytery of Athens and of the Synod of Ohio. He was by the appointment of the governor one of the commissioners representing Ohio at the centennial celebration in New York city in April, 1889. He was a member of the Mohawk Conference on Indian affairs. He is now a trustee and the president of Marietta college.

His books have been reports,—one of the schools in Toledo, one of the schools in Tennessee, and an annual report of education in the United States, with a review of education in other parts of the world each year from 1870 to 1886. These reports have been circulated, some years to the number of 40,000. He has also published important special reports, such as on libraries and on industrial education; also a series of circulars of information and bulletins, some of them having been called for to the number of a hundred thousand. He has delivered numerous addresses upon educational topics. He has been made a member of various learned, scientific, historical, and benevolent societies in Europe. He was decreed honorary member of the French Ministry of Public Instruction. The emperor of Brazil offered him the order of the Commander of the Rose. He is a member of the society of Japanese savans for the promotion of education.

Perhaps no one in the United States has a more extensive personal acquaintance with the men who have distinguished themselves in peace and war, in philosophy, science, education, politics, and religion, in the past thirty years. He had the confidence of President Lincoln, and was an intimate friend and confidant of Gen. Grant from the time of their acquaintance in the war till the latter's death.

The venerable Professor Sanborn, of Dartmouth college, in representing Gen. Eaton to an alumni meeting once, declared that their honored guest was the best informed man on education in the United States. Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D. D., in speaking of him, said, "I will not simply say he is one of the most distinguished educators in this country, but one of the most distinguished educators known to the world."

In a history of Memphis, where the general served the public as an editor, are the following fitting words :

"General Eaton's whole life has been consecrated to the highest benevolence and to the broadest patriotism, and to going about doing good in every direction."

He m. Sept. 29, 1864, Alice Eugenia, daughter of Capt. James and Adeline (Quincy) Shirley, of Vicksburg, Miss. She was born at Carrollton, Miss., May 2, 1844. Captain Shirley was a native of Goffstown, and graduated at Dartmouth the year before his life-long friend, Rufus Choate. Mrs. Adeline (Quincy) Shirley was a daughter of Abram Quincy, of Boston, a favorite great-niece of John Hancock, and one of the Boston medal scholars. She was well known for her literary taste. Their home was known in the siege of Vicksburg as the "White House," the only one near and outside the Confederate lines not burned. Its upper windows were often used by General Grant in observing the operations of the enemy. Mr. Shirley and his daughter were in Clinton when the siege began. Mrs. Shirley, after the house had been riddled with cannon and musket balls, found safety in a rude cave prepared by her servants, while the youngest son joined the Union forces in their attack. The daughter's diary, found by the soldiers, became a means by which Gen. Grant recognized the loyalty of the family.

Mrs. Alice (S.) Eaton was instructed mainly by tutors at home and at Mr. Young's school, and finished her school days in the Female College under Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Hilman, Clinton, Miss. She devoted much time to music, singing, also playing on several instruments; but she was most fond of the piano. She is a ready writer, and has greatly aided her husband with her pen. Children,—

James Shirley, b. Aug. 1, 1868, at Nashville, Tenn.

Elsie Janet, b. Feb. 6, 1871, at Washington, D. C.

John Quincy, b. July 14, 1873, at Washington, D. C.

Frederick Charles, b. Aug. 9, 1877, at Washington, D. C.; d. June 15, 1878.

James Shirley prepared for college in the high school at Washington, D. C., and entered Dartmouth college, but transferred his connection to Marietta college when his father became president of that college, where he graduated in 1889. He is now employed in the auditor's department of the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia system of Railroads, under the presidency of Gen. Samuel Thomas.

Elsie Janet entered the Washington high school, and became a member of the high school at Marietta. She is now member of the class of '91. in Lake Erie Seminary, at Painesville, Ohio.

John Quincy fitted for college in the preparatory department at Marietta. He is a member of the class of '93 of Marietta college.

Caroline Eaton m. May 27, 1869, at her brother Frederick's in Toledo, O., Samuel McMaster Pennock, b. April 27, 1821, at Strafford, Orange Co., Vt. At the early age of seventeen his father sent him to Boston to buy goods. At twenty-one he became a merchant at Hardwick and Wolcott, and in 1854 removed to Morris-town, Vt. He was a member of the house of representatives one year, two years of the state senate of the state of Vt., two years sheriff of Lemoille county, and two years was county judge. He engaged in wholesale business in Boston, in 1867, and removed his family to Somerville, Mass., and has been a member of the school committee two years, and of the city council of Somerville four years. Mr. Pennock died suddenly and without pain, sitting in his chair beside his wife, who was reading to him, Nov. 7, 1889. His life was a model of justice, integrity, and kindness. He possessed rare equanimity, and won the confidence of all who knew him. Caroline (Eaton) Pennock, at the death of her mother, little girl as she was, began to take care of her father's house. She attended the district school until she was fifteen, when she went to Bradford and Warner fall and spring terms. She attended the academies at Thetford and Orford; in the meantime she taught district schools three seasons,—one in Warner, one in Wilmot, and one in Bristol. She entered Mt. Holyoke Seminary in the fall of '54, graduating in '56, when she became teacher and lady principal of the high school in Toledo, Ohio. After six years' successful service, she resigned, much to the regret of her pupils and the school authorities. She has been active in church, missionary, and charitable work.

She has no children, but has taken a mother's interest in the care of Mr. Pennock's children by his first wife, all of them, except those who early settled in the West, Isaac in Wabasha, Minn., Mrs. Carrie (Pennock) Dyer in St. Paul, Minnesota, and Annie, who died the year she would have graduated at the high school. Mattie teaches in the Winter Hill school. Samuel M. is in business in Boston. John graduated from Harvard college, and is the expert chemist at the "Solvay Process Soda Ash Works," Syracuse, N. Y. Nida married Clinton D. Hardy, of the Lenawee County Savings Bank in Adrian, Mich.

Nathan A. was named for his grandfather, Nathan Andrews. He had only a common school education. He left home when only sixteen years of age, and fought his own way in the world. In 1850 he went, via the Isthmus, to California, and engaged successfully in mining. He was able to loan his oldest brother, John, money to complete his course at college. In 1859 he returned, via the Isthmus route, visiting his uncle, Charles Eaton, at Plaquemine, La., and visited his brothers and sisters, and his father in the East. He subsequently engaged in trade in Waterloo, Ind., and afterward in Chicago, Ill. In 1873 he returned to California, and pre-empted government land, which he has improved and which he has increased greatly in value, near Merle, San Diego Co., Cal. He has salt works on his place; also several hundred hives of bees. In 1880 he was visited by his brothers, John and Lucien, and in 1886 by his sister, Mrs. Pennock, and her husband. In 1887 he revisited his brothers and sisters in the East; and again, in 1889, he was present at the reunion of all his brothers and sisters at the old home at Eaton Grange. Forty years had then elapsed since they had all met together.

Frederick Eaton has been a merchant in Toledo, Ohio, for over thirty years. His education, outside of the public schools, was obtained in one term at Thetford academy. While on the farm he did his share of the hard work the year round. In mentioning Mr. Eaton during one of his annual purchases in Boston, the Journal referred to his first visit to that city as follows, including these facts of his career:

Mr. Eaton, being an entire stranger in Boston, was introduced to those firms by letters from Mr. Daniel Carr, the veteran store-keeper in Bradford, N. H., with whom he had first served as clerk, beginning in 1852 at $55 a year, and from Mr. Otis Barton, a Manchester merchant, for whom he subsequently worked till going to Ohio. Mr. Eaton's oldest brother, Gen. John Eaton, now Commissioner of the United States Bureau of Education, was, in 1857, superintendent of the Toledo schools, and he lent his name and some of his earnings to the enterprise for a few years, the style of the partnership being Fred Eaton & Co. Their starting cash capital was only $1,200, the opening stock of goods but $3,000 in value, and the first year's sales but $12,000. The financial crash of 1857 came the very month the store was opened, and hard was the experience of the merchants in that young city of 6,000 to 8,000 inhabitants. But the new enterprise weathered the storm, and Mr. Fred Eaton's business has survived all subsequent financial disturbances, great and small, that have overtaken the country, without his seeking shelter under insolvency or bankruptcy laws, and, what is really remarkable, without ever having the stain of protest attach to a single one of his obligations. His sales now amount to over one million of dollars annually, a sum which but few Boston merchants exceeded twenty-five years ago.

EATON GRANGE.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

He is a member of the First Congregational church, and a large contributor to its support, as he is to the many benevolent objects in the city, a director in two banks, and vice-president in one of them, and director in a number of manufacturing institutions. He has been twice called to manage and preside over the tri-state fair held in Toledo by the people of Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana. He is one of the most active business men in bringing new and important enterprises to locate there. Though mentioned by the people as a Republican candidate for mayor of Toledo, for lieutenant-governor and for governor of Ohio, he has never allowed his name to be used in any nominating convention. William H. Maher, a literary gentleman and brother merchant of Mr. Eaton's, in a letter to the press a few years ago, alluded to him as follows :

The merchant of to-day must be very bold and very cautious ; he must be more than a mere salesman or shop-keeper. He must be as well acquainted with manufacturing as the manufacturer, as well posted in foreign markets as the importer, and as sensitive to the public temper and mind as the keenest politician. It goes without saying that Mr. Eaton has possessed these qualities, for otherwise he would not be where he is. How many boys and girls have grown up under his roof ; how many families have been supported by his energetic forcing of business ; how many men have gone out to begin the battle of business for themselves after studying their lessons with him. The names of these must be in the hundreds, and if each one shall bring a stone in grateful appreciation, it will build a monument no higher than he deserves. But let us hope that no monument will cover him for a score of years, during which he may enjoy the success he has earned.

His ready wit and genial humor, added to his solid qualities, make him a favorite on social and public occasions of interest. He m. March 8, 1860, Mary Helen, b. May 23, 1839, daughter of Robert M. and Sophia (McCutcheon) Shirley. Her father was of the firm of Lawrence & Shirley, wholesale merchants of Boston, residing on Shirley hill, in Goffstown, and was one of its most honored citizens. After she left the district school she studied at the academy at New London, and at Bradford, Mass. Her substantial qualities everywhere won friends. She abhorred pretence, and admired the genuine and true, whether in friendship, hospitality, virtue, charity, or religion. She was a devoted wife, a precious sister, and a true friend. She was active in her church and Sabbath-school, and in works of charity. She d. Jan. 2, 1887. Child,—

Frederick Eaton m., 2d, Jan. 23, 1889, Laura Helen, b. July 10, 1852, in Cleveland, O., daughter of DeWitt Clinton and Laura May (Wheeler) Baldwin. Mr. Baldwin is a gentleman of large experience in the financial and railroad affairs of Cleveland and Toledo. It was in the home of his parents where the first prayer-meeting was ever held in the Western Reserve. Mrs. Baldwin's father was deacon of the first Baptist church organized in Cleveland. Mrs. Helen (Baldwin) Eaton graduated at the high school in Toledo, and taught successfully in the public schools, most of the time in the high school, where she was highly esteemed. In her kindness of heart and active, cultivated mind, enlisted in the welfare of others, in the family, society, and the church, her friends, old and new, find those enduring qualities which attract and hold them.

This manuscript is opened to record the death of Mr. Eaton. The Toledo Blade, Feb. 4, in an extended article, says,—“Frederick Eaton, the merchant prince of Toledo, is dead.” He suffered in December from the ulceration of a tooth, and in January from la grippe. In response to the great demands of his many business interests upon him he overtaxed himself, and did not give his system rest to enable it to rally. He d. Feb. 4, 1890. His brothers, John, Lucieh, James, and Charles, and his sisters, Carrie and Christina, hastened to his bedside and his burial. His wife was well-nigh overcome by the suddenness of his death. Those sharing in his large business interests in Toledo and elsewhere, the citizens with whom he had been a favorite associate for a generation, could hardly realize the change. The crape on the door of F. Eaton & Co.'s lion store brought grief to many hearts and tears to many eyes. Said one of his clerks, “He has been more than a father to me; he was the soul of generosity.” Ellery Eaton remarked, “He has been more than a cousin to me." Said Mayor Hamilton, "I know of no man in Toledo who will be missed as much as Frederick Eaton." Said Banker Ketcham, "Toledo cannot realize its loss all at once." Said another, "He was a man of great commercial ability. I consider his death a public calamity." Said his pastor at his funeral, "No one among us was known to so many or will be missed by so many."

Flags on many of the buildings were at half mast. His employées, and the merchants and bankers and others, held meetings, and passed resolutions of respect and condolence. Telegrams and letters came from many parts of the country. None were more considerate than those from Mr. John Claffin, with whose house Mr. Eaton had held close business relations for a generation. The family desired a private funeral, but the public demand for services at the church prevailed. Many business houses were closed. The family and immediate friends joined with Rev. W. W. Williams, D. D., in brief services at the house, where were many floral tributes. At the church these tributes were specially touching. It was one of the largest, if not the largest, funeral gathering ever seen in Toledo. The people could not be seated in the First Congregational church, but overflowed in the aisles and on the sidewalks. The services were impressive. The hymns sung had been favorites with Mr. Eaton, such as "Nearer, my God, to Thee," "Lead, kindly Light." His pastor, with a voice broken with emotion, offered appropriate prayer, read selections of scripture, and in brief and fitting words spoke of the lessons of the life that had closed, and of his hope in Christ. At the close the great concourse tearfully passed by the coffin, taking a last look of the face of their friend.

He was buried in the family lot in Forest Cemetery, by the side of the wife and daughter who preceded him. The press of the city, the Blade, Bee, Commercial, and Journal, and of the neighboring towns, and in the distance such papers as the Advance, of Chicago, and the Independent, of New York, contained notices of his death and tributes to his worth. No words can convey a more truthful tribute to his memory than a description of the facts connected with his death and burial. He was everywhere a favorite. Child,—

Frederick, b. May 31, 1890.

Mrs. Helen (Baldwin) Eaton d. June 2, 1890, and on the 4th was buried beside her husband, widely and deeply mourned.

Lucien Bonaparte Eaton was so named for his father's brother. He worked on the farm, attending the common school in the Eaton district, and sometimes in the Morgan district, and in the Gore until fifteen years of age, when he went to the academy at Thetford, Vt. He afterwards attended the academy at Orford a couple of terms. He entered Phillips academy at Andover, Mass., in 1854, and graduated in 1855, and thereupon entered Dartmouth college and graduated in 1859. While in college he taught school winters. He spent the fall of 1859 reading law with Hon. George Collamer, at Woodstock, Vt. In December, 1859, he became principal of the Hudson Street grammar school, in Cleveland, Ohio. Early in October, 1861, he resigned and entered the 65th Ohio Vol. Infantry as a second lieutenant. The teachers of Cleveland presented him with a sword. He raised a part of a company in Cleveland, and, reporting to his regiment at Mansfield, Ohio, was commissioned first lieutenant. His regiment served with the "Army of the Cumberland." He participated in nearly all the campaigns and battles in which that army was engaged. He was at the battles of Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Rocky Face Ridge, Resaca, New Hope Church, and many skirmishes and minor engagements. After the battle at Stone River he was commissioned captain, and served as brigade inspector on the staff of Gen. Charles G. Harker, who was killed at Kenesaw Mountain. In 1864, just before the last named battle, having been appointed lieutenant-colonel of the 69th U. S. C. Q., he was ordered to Arkansas, and was afterward appointed colonel of that regiment. He served as inspector of the freedmen's department for that state.

At the close of the war he settled in Memphis. He became interested in mercantile houses in Memphis and Lagrange, Tenn., and in Corinth, Miss., but devoted himself to the study of the law. In 1866 he joined his brother, Gen. John Eaton, then editing and publishing the Memphis Daily Post, as an assistant, and in 1867, on Gen. Eaton's being elected state superintendent of public instruction for Tennessee, he became editorial and business manager of the Post. In 1868 he was elected and served as a member of the board of education for the city of Memphis. Early in 1870 the Post was discontinued, and he was appointed by President U. S. Grant United States marshal for the western district of Tennessee, and served till April, 1877, when he resigned. His term of service as U. S. marshal was during the reconstruction and ku-klux era, and four of his deputy marshals were killed. In 1872 he was admitted to the bar; in 1877 he began the active practice of his profession. He, however, devoted much of his time to the purchase and improvement of real estate. He was one of the very few who had the courage to buy real estate in Memphis after the great yellow fever epidemics of 1878 and '79. He now owns several thousand acres of cotton lands in Shelby county, and hundreds of houses in the city of Memphis, and has one of the largest rent-rolls of any of the capitalists of Memphis. He is the head of the firm of L. B. Eaton & Co., the owners of the oldest office furnishing abstracts of titles to lands in Memphis and Shelby counties, and of the firm of Eaton & Smith, lumber dealers. He is a member of the Knights of Honor, of the Historical Society, of the American Public Health Association, and of the American Social Science Congress.

In 1880 he was elected and served as representative in the state legislature, and in 1882 was a Republican candidate for state senator, but was defeated. In 1888 he was nominated as the Republican candidate for congress in the Tenth Congressional District of Tennessee, and was undoubtedly elected, but was counted out. He has taken proof and filed his brief in the contest for his seat in congress, and is confident of securing it.

He m. Dec. 26, 1867, Clara, b. Feb. 16, 1841, daughter of Valentine and Catherine (Harshman) Winters, of Dayton, Ohio. Her father was a banker in that city. She possessed a quiet, cheerful temperament, which sought retirement rather than display. She was a devoted wife and mother, and a faithful Christian. She d. Aug. 23, 1885. Children,—

Christina Landon, after the district school, attended the academy at Orford fall of '53, fall of '54, and winter and spring of '55, enjoying the rare advantages of the excellent care and home influences of Mrs. Mary M. Wilcox, and that summer taught in the Gore. In the autumn of that year she accepted the offer of a home with her favorite uncle and aunt, Rev. Horace Eaton, D. D., and wife, of Palmyra, N. Y., and attended the Union school in that place until the fall of '58, when she entered the North Granville Young Ladies' Seminary, whose principal was Hiram Orcutt, LL. D., where she graduated in 1860. She was cashier in one of the stores of her brother Frederick in Toledo, in 1867 and 1868, and from the fall of '69 until January, '71. The later years her home has been with her brothers, for the most part with her brother Lucien. She is occupied at Eaton Grange usually in the summer. She is now with her sister, Mrs. Caroline (Eaton) Pennock.

James Andrew was named for a brother of his mother. He remained with his father until he worked a season with his uncle, Nathan Andrew. There he saved his earnings for a term at the academy in New London. He finished his studies at Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., when he entered the store of his brother Frederick, in Toledo, Ohio. Later he was in business for himself in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Memphis, Tenn. He was 17 years in business in Adrian, Mich.

In 1887 he went to Grand Rapids, Mich, where he has a large and successful business. Everywhere he is a patriotic citizen. He m. Jan. 10, 1872, Fannie Josephine, b. Dec. 24, 1847, daughter of James John and Joanna Wight (Needham) Newell, of Adrian, Mich. Mr. Newell was one of the leaders of the pioneer enterprises of Adrian, and in the organization of the Republican party in Mich. Mrs. Eaton was educated at Adrian, and at the academy at Monroe, Mich. She is of an active, critical mind, studious, observant of current events, has special fondness for literature, and special taste in household ornamentation. Child,—

Mary, b. March 24, 1877, in Adrian, Mich.

Charles Eaton, soon after his mother's death, was given to his uncle, Samuel Andrews, and his aunt, Sally G. Andrews, brother and sister of his mother. At fifteen he entered Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., and studied there two years. He finished his schooling at Kimball Union Academy, Meriden. The expense of his education was paid by his brother Frederick and by a small bequest left by his mother to aid in the education of all her children.

He studied law in Michigan university 1865 and 1866; in 1866-'68 he resided in Memphis, and was connected with the Memphis Daily

Post with his brothers. He was reporter on the Boston Times a short time in 1868, and city editor of the Toledo Blade 1868-'70, clerk in the Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and newspaper correspondent 1870-'75, and, in the meantime, graduated at Columbia Law School in that city; returned to Toledo in 1876, and practised law and loaned money for Eastern people till 1889, when he moved to Memphis, and is now with his brother, Col. L. B. Eaton, in the practice of law and in the management of real estate. He has written for the press on many current subjects.

He m. May 25, 1865, Marion Emma, b. in Cornish, Nov. 9, 1847, daughter of Dr. John Sabin and Louisa (Jackson) Blanchard, later of Meriden. Dr. Blanchard was the eminent physician at Meriden for his generation. Mrs. Eaton finished her studies at Kimball Union Academy, in Meriden. She is active in the work of the church, has a word of cheer for all, and has the rarest skill in the art of housekeeping. Child,—

Charles Linsley, b. Nov. 25, 1866; d. Nov. 23, 1874, at Eaton Grange. His death was occasioned by an accidental fall, severing the spine. His bright, attractive face will never be forgotten by his kindred.

Hiram Eaton, b. Jan. 14, 1802, learned the trade of watch- and clock-maker and silversmith with Jacob Kimball, his uncle, at Montpelier, Vt., and established himself and prospered in this business in St. Albans, Vt. Afterward he resided and followed his trade at Warner and at Concord. He was a man of gentle manners, fine sensibility, and poetic spirit. He d. in Warner, Aug. 8, 1876.

Lucretia Kimball Eaton, b. March 12, 1803, was for some time engaged in the millinery business in Warner. She was a devoted sister, and spent many years in the home of her brother, Dr. Jacob S. Eaton, of Bristol, and two years with her brother, Lucien B. Eaton, at Fremont, Ind. She died at the residence of her brother, Dr. Jacob S. Eaton, at Harvard, Mass., July 13, 1881. She was a woman of delicate health, but of superior mental attainments.

Jacob Sawyer Eaton, b. Jan. 4, 1805, pursued studies preparatory to college under Rev. Dr. Woods and Rev. Mr. Kelley, but deciding to enter the medical profession without a collegiate course he entered the office of Dr. Buswell, of Warner, and attended lectures at medical colleges at Hanover, and at Philadelphia, Penn. He began the practice of medicine at Alexandria, and afterward, on a general invitation of the townspeople, removed to Bristol, where he remained twenty-four years, very successful in his profession, and greatly beloved by all who knew him. For the health of his family in 1855 he removed to Stowe, Mass., and afterward to South Deerfield and Harvard, Mass., where he spent his old age in the surprising possession of all his faculties. With a rare enjoyment of elegant literature, with a brilliant imagination, with a heart full of sympathy for all the trying conditions of humanity, he was always at the front on all questions of reform. Early consecrating himself to the service of his Divine Master, he was prominent and active in the various departments of church work. Quick and tender in his sympathies for his kindred, he was among them an acknowledged and cherished patriarch. The annual gatherings at Eaton Grange have been incomplete without his presence. He m. Alma Tyler, b. Nov. 12, 1857.

John Marshall Eaton graduated at the Medical college of Harvard University in 1856. He served as assistant surgeon of volunteers in the War of the Rebellion from 1862 to 1864. He is a surgeon of remarkable skill, and a highly esteemed physician at Milford, Mass. He is state medical examiner for the county. He m. Oct. 27, 1858, at Waltham, Mass., Maria Wetherbee, b. in Concord, Mass., March 9, 1837, the daughter of Lewis and Lucy Wetherbee. She is a lady of marked strength and excellence of character.

Lucien K Eaton m. Mary E. Titus, dau. of John Titus, of Elkhart, Ind. He was a natural mechanic, and for the last twelve years of his life was employed in the railroad shops of Elkhart and Fort Wayne, Ind. He was a man of powerful frame and perfect health, but was suddenly stricken, and died after a week's illness, March 16, 1888. He was large-hearted, frank, and generous, and made many friends. He was a member of the Third Presbyterian church of Fort Wayne, and was earnest in Christian and temperance and political work.

James Ellery Eaton, b. July 10, 1855, in Stowe, Mass. His education was limited to the common school in South Deerfield and Harvard, that state. While in his teens he was engaged in a grocery store in Loudonville, N. Y., and displayed fine business capacity. At the age of 22 he entered the employment of his cousin, Frederick Eaton, of Toledo, O. His good sense, tact, remarkable energy, and faultless fidelity won for himself a foremost place under his cousin, and finally a partnership with him. July 27, 1889, he m. Flora Timpany, of Toledo. She is a lady of sweet domesticity, and for eight years was a most valuable teacher in the Toledo public schools.

Alma T., b Nov. 12, 1857, attended school at Lawrence academy, in Groton, Mass., and taught eight years in the Harvard public schools. She m. June 19, 1889, Dr. Benjamin, b. Sept. 24, 1863, son of Josiah P. and Susan M. (Garland) Royal, of Garland, Me. Dr. Benjamin Royal graduated from the Foxcraft academy, in Foxcraft, Me. He graduated in medicine at Bowdoin college in 1887. He settled in Harvard, Mass., July 20, 1888.

Charles Eaton, b. Feb. 4, 1807, early removed to Pennsylvania, and afterwards to Plaquemine, La. He was a skilful millwright, and widely known as a builder of cotton-gins, presses, and sugar-mills. He remained for years secluded from his friends, making them a general visit but once. Being so chagrined and disappointed at the triumph of the national arms in the War of the Rebellion, he shook off the dust of his feet against his kindred and country. He was traced to Valparaiso, Chili, and thence to the island of Tahiti in the South Seas, where he d. Nov. 14, 1877, according to the report of the U. S. consul. He gave his property, valued at some $3,000, to educational purposes.

Lucien Bonaparte Eaton, b. Dec. 17, 1808, early settled in northern Indiana, finally locating in Fremont, Ind. For three years he gave himself to the itinerant ministry of the Protestant Methodist church. Subsequently, while occasionally preaching, he devoted himself to farming, and was one of the large land-owners of his section. He m. July 3, 1853, Malinda Phelps, b. Nov. 20, 1815, in Brookfield, Franklin Co., Ind., daughter of Reuben Benjamin and Ruth Corson Phelps. She d. Feb. 19, 1874. He d. Feb. 27, 1889. He was a man of vigorous intellect and fine poetic sense. He gave 800 acres of land and over $5,000 to found and maintain a home in his (Stuben) county for indigent widows and spinsters, and the remainder of his estate, consisting of 120 acres of land, to his son. Though of eccentric severity in limiting his own comforts, he was a most generous giver to his church and to his township enterprises. Child,— Isaac, b. Jan. 12, 1855. He is a sturdy farmer, his possessions lying near his father's farms, in Fremont, Ind.

Horace Eaton, b. Oct. 7, 1810, spent his first years with his mother and Kimball grandparents at Eaton Grange. For two years he lived with Dr. Robert Lane at North Sutton, and at the age of 14, with the blessing of his mother, took a solitary journey to his brother, Hiram, at St. Albans, Vt., with whom he mastered the trade of watch- and clock-maker and silversmith. He spent six years at St. Albans and Burlington, Vt., as apprentice and journeyman. At St. Albans he united with the church, and later formed plans of study preparatory to the ministry. He first entered the academy at Meriden, but soon removed to Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., where he fitted for college. He entered Dartmouth at the beginning of the college year in 1835, and graduated in due course in 1839. While in college he was elected president of the "Social Friends," the literary society to which he belonged. He studied theology at Union Theological Seminary, New York city, graduating in 1842. He supported himself by his own exertions while securing his education. He seized every opportunity for industry, and made long excursions in vacations and in winters, even into the South, employing his skill at "clockology" or "tick-tacks," as he was wont to call his trade learned at St. Albans. He was ordained pastor of the Sixth Street Presbyterian church, New York city, in June, 1843. In June, 1848, he became pastor of the Presbyterian church at Palmyra, N. Y.

He travelled while officiating at Palmyra through Europe, the Holy Land, and Egypt, and made a second visit to Europe. He wrote much for the press, and published many sermons. In the exactness to which he held himself in all his duties he was the Puritan of the Puritans, but in the genial overflow of all that was innocent in wit and humor and friendly intercourse, he was the cavalier of the cavaliers. His devotion to his mother and to his kindred was unsurpassed. He was respected as a father in the church by his fellow-clergymen. He maintained his thorough scholarship in the classics and in Hebrew until his old age. Dartmouth college conferred the honorary degree of D. D. upon him in 1869. He d. Oct. 21, 1883, greatly beloved by his parish and all his townspeople. During his funeral all business houses in Palmyra were closed. A memorial was erected for him in his church by the young people, and a suitable monument in the cemetery by his congregation. He m. Aug. 13, 1845, Anna Ruth Webster, b. in Boscawen, Nov. 26, 1823, the daughter of Nathaniel and Betsey (Sawyer) Webster. Mrs. Eaton was a graduate and teacher at Mt. Holyoke Seminary. She has been eminent in her labors in the parish, and in behalf of missions and temperance. She habitually copied her husband's sermons, and since his death has published a "Memorial" of his life, which has reached its second edition. Children,—

Horace Webster, b. June 28, 1846.

John Spaulding, b. Aug. 27, 1848; d. July 4, 1868.

Anna Sawyer, b. April 21, 1851; d. Sept. 11, 1858.

Mary Sawyer, b. Dec. 19, 1853.

Elizabeth Webster, b. March 25, 1857.

Horace W. Eaton fitted for college under Dr. Taylor, at Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., and graduated at Yale college in 1870. He has taught school, but has been mainly occupied as a clerk in the government service at Washington.

John Spaulding Eaton was a student with his brother at Andover, but died before entering college. He gave evidence of a rare spirit, excellent scholarship, and promise of great usefulness. He had the ministry in view.

Mary S. Eaton graduated at Mt. Holyoke seminary in 1876, and has taught successfully in New York, Michigan, and Ontario, Canada.

Elizabeth W. Eaton graduated at Mt. Holyoke seminary in 1878, and has taught with marked acceptance in Monson academy, Mass., Frederick Female Seminary, Md., the high school at Schuylerville, N. Y., and Iowa Agricultural College. In April, 1888, she went to Europe for study and travel, returning in June, 1889. She is now the professor of modern languages of Colorado college, at Colorado Springs.

Elijah Eaton, b. in Haverhill, Mass., Jan. 12, 1770, son of Nathaniel and Rebecca (Dodge) Eaton, m. Jan. 1, 1797, in Bedford, Elizabeth, b. Aug. 10, 1777, daughter of James and Abigail (Richardson) Vose. Her father was b. in Milton, Mass., on the same farm where his ancestors from England settled in 1654. Elijah Eaton and wife lived a few years in Haverhill, Mass. Early in the first years of the present century they moved to Sutton and located on the eastern slope of Kimball's hill. Elijah, though not as tall, was like his brother John in great strength, and like his brother Nathaniel in agility: he could outstrip younger men in a foot-race. With these physical gifts was blended an earnest, devoted piety. He was styled the "peacemaker." He was the scholar of his family. In early life he began the study of medicine, but not believing in the practice of those days he conscientiously abandoned it. He was a Baptist. His sons, Ariel Kendrick and Pelatiah Chapin, were named for ministers of that denomination. His sons Jubal, Elijah, Nathaniel, and Carlos became members of the Baptist church. He d. Sept. 6, 1818. Mrs. Eaton showed great fortitude in caring for and training her young children and managing her farm, Carlos S., her youngest child, being only four months old. She d. Aug. 12, 1849. Children,—

NOTE. It is related in connection with the conversion of Rev. William Taylor, that when he became duly impressed with the need of forgiveness for his sins, living with his father at the corner of the road near Potaah hill, he struggled to quiet his conscience until into the night, but could not. He felt the disapproval of any misconduct, by no one in the neighborhood so much as that of Elifah Eaton, yet in his distress his thoughts turned specially to the good man, and gathering courage in the darkness of the midnight hours, he wended his way over the hill to Mr. Eaton's. He rapped on the door. Mr. Eaton came at once, light in hand, for he was engaged, as was his custom, in the reading of the scriptures and in prayer.

Jubal Harrington, b. Aug. 1, 1798, in Haverhill, Mass. When two years old he removed with his parents to Sutton. In 1813 he went to live with his uncle and aunt, James and Pamelia (Eaton) Messer. He attended school in South Sutton, Salisbury, South Newmarket, and Claremont. At the latter place an attempt to study Greek and Latin was interrupted and almost ended by a severe illness. He taught in Hillsborough and in South Sutton the winter of 1833-'34, when many days he counted 85 scholars in the one school-room. The winter of 1835-'36 he taught in his own district, having thirty pupils. He taught a select school in Chelmsford, Mass. In 1836 he began teaching and studying law in Ohio, mostly in Washington, Fayette county. Later he went to Indiana. He m. June 3, 1839, Sarah McArthur, of Ross county, Ohio. She d. June 15, 1840. Nathaniel Eaton, b. in Haverhill, Mass., May 4, 1775, son of Nathaniel and Rebecca (Dodge) Eaton, m. in that town Oct. 11, 1797, Sarah Emerson, of the same place, b. April 21, 1778, daughter of Eltrimmer and Sarah Eaton Emerson. He first moved to Hopkinton, and bought a farm about a mile north of Contoocookville. Here he remained but two years, when he sold out and bought for $950 the eighty acre farm of Josiah Cutler, in Sutton, where he established his home in 1801 and spent the remainder of his life. Mr. Cutler bought of Abraham Wells, and had a small frame building on the site of the present mansion, and barns where the present barns are.

In 1814 Nathaniel Eaton built the house in which he afterward lived and died, and in 1822 the large barns opposite. He had the first chaise in use in the neighborhood. He was an enterprising and thrifty farmer, of clear and strong mind, and decided convictions. He was a good neighbor, and his relations to all were cordial, but that between “Neighbor Adams”—John Adams, who lived near him—and “Neighbor Eaton,” as each called the other, was for over sixty years a model of unbroken friendliness. He was an active member and a zealous supporter of the Baptist church in Sutton, and afterward of that in Warner. He was greatly attached to all his relatives, and followed them with a lively interest wherever scattered. His mother spent her last days with him and his brother Elijah, and died at his house. He made long journeys to visit his scattered kindred in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Maine. He was accustomed for years with his wife to visit his relatives in Haverhill, Mass., and then always to make a stay at the beach at Plum Island near Salisbury, Mass., and sometimes he was able to take trips to Saratoga Springs. On one of these visits to Haverhill his wife suddenly sickened and died, aged 67 years. Hers was the first burial in the neighborhood burying-ground on the Waterloo road. He died on the 9th day of May, 1875, over one hundred years of age, in full possession of all his faculties, revered as a patriarch by a large circle of relatives, and respected by all who knew him. His centennial birthday was celebrated at his home on May 4, 1875, by a large gathering of his kindred and friends. A letter in the Boston Journal gave the following account of that interesting event :

To-day the venerable centenarian, Nathaniel Eaton, of Sutton, completed the full term of a hundred years, and the rare and un-frequent occurrence of such an event was duly observed and commemorated by the many relatives, friends, and neighbors of this worthy patriarch, who paid their respects to him and his in a way so cordial that it was made the source of much pleasure to all. Mr. Eaton lives with his son, George C. Eaton, Esq., one of the most respected, hard-working, and, withal, well-to-do farmers in all this section of the country, and on the identical farm to which the father moved when yet a young man, now nearly three fourths of a century ago, and on which he has ever since resided, and reared a large family of children, who are and have been among the most worthy and respected of the community. Here he has toiled and prospered, and lived to see his whole ancestry, the companions of his youth, the associates of his mature years, and the companion of his bosom, all fall, one by one, in the way of life, until now only he remains among them.

Mr. Eaton, dressed in a new and his centennial suit of black, received his friends in a cordial way, easily recognizing and remembering all, and gave each as hearty a grasp of the hand and as warm a welcome as most men of seventy. His mental organism shows little impairment, and he yet converses fluently and quite intelligently, while his physical strength, with the store of latent vitality yet left to draw upon, warrants his friends in hoping for several years.

As previously stated in the Journal, Mr. Eaton was born in Haverhill, Mass., and was the son of Capt. Nathaniel Eaton. His wife was Mrs. Sarah Emerson, by whom he had ten children, four of whom are now living, three being present. Hon. Leonard Eaton, for many years a successful practitioner in the healing art at Warner, and now deceased, was his eldest son. Among those present were six nieces and nephews, between the ages of seventy and eighty, whose average is seventy-three—a fact pleasing to the new advocates of biometry had they been present, as length of years seems to attach to all bearing this name.

Among the relatives present were Dr. Jacob Eaton of Harvard, Mass., Hon. John Y. Mugridge and family of Concord, Miss Susan Eaton, Mrs. Sherburne, and Mrs. Col. Jesse A. Gove, also of Concord, Hon. George C. Gilmore of Manchester, D. C. Emerson, Esq., of Chelmsford, Mass., Mr. R. Mason of North Conway, Jubal Eaton, and Carlos Eaton and family.

Among those present not related to the hero of the occasion were Rev. David Gage of Manchester, Rev. W. H. Walker of Warner, R. Thompson, Esq., A. Whittier of Newburyport, Mass., and several representatives of the press. The exercises closed at a late hour with music, singing, speaking, the reading of a spicy, witty, and humorous poem from Dr. Jacob S. Eaton, and letters from absent ones, including that of Gen. John Eaton, U. S. Commissioner of Education, Charles Eaton, Esq., of Washington, D. C., Rev. Horace Eaton, D. D., of New York, and Rev. Albert Heald, of Amherst. The day and the occasion were most enjoyable.

SAMUEL ANDREW,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS, ANDREWS, PEASLEE, MARTIN, PUTNAM, AND JONES.

The Andrew or Andrews family, resident in Sutton, trace their origin to Samuel and Mary Dodge Andrew, who came from Danvers, Mass., and settled in Sutton. The orchard and site of the house where they once resided are now pointed out on the old road that leads from Long pond to Sutton Centre.¹ Samuel Andrew was here before 1786, for that year he was appointed one of a committee to locate the meeting-house. His ancestors, it appears, intermarried with those of the name of Porter, Putnam, and Peabody.

Dr. A. P. Putnam, who, by one of these marriages, is connected with the Andrews, says that Daniel, the father of Samuel Andrew, was born at Danvers, or Salem Village, as it was called, Sept. 28, 1725. This Daniel was descended from the Daniel who came from Watertown to Danvers, who was descended from Thomas, the first of the line to arrive in America, and who settled in Cambridge, Mass.

Daniel, the father of Samuel Andrew, married, Sept. 20, 1730, Ginger Hutchinson, widow of Elisha Hutchinson, and daughter of Israel and Sarah (Putnam) Porter. He died before 1756.

Israel Porter was son of Israel, son of John Porter, emigrant from England, and settler at Salem Village. His wife, Sarah, was daughter of James Putnam, son of Capt. John, son of John Putnam, immigrant, also settler of Danvers, and progenitor of all the Putnams in the country.

The only child of above Elisha and Ginger (Porter) Hutchinson was Col. Israel Hutchinson, a very prominent citizen of Danvers, and greatly distinguished in the Revolutionary war.

The father of the last named Daniel Andrew was also named Daniel. He was born at Salem or Salem Village, and was baptized at the First church, Salem, Sept. 2, 1677, and died Feb. 6, 1728. He married, Feb. 12, 1701-'2, Elizabeth, daughter of Capt. John and Hannah (Andrew) Peabody, of Boston, Mass. This Daniel's father was the Daniel, born in Watertown, Mass., in March, 1643, who removed to Danvers. He married Sarah, daughter of the above John Porter, immigrant, and died Dec. 3, 1702.

Israel Andrew, brother of Daniel, and uncle of Samuel, married Anne Porter, descendant of John Porter, immigrant, and had five daughters,—Sarah, Anna, Mary, Eunice, and Hulda. Sarah married Dea. Edmund Putnam. Mary married a kinsman, John Andrew, grandfather of Israel W. Andrew, resident of Danvers, Mass., and recent Greenback candidate for governor in Massachusetts. Eunice married Elias Endicott, who was a lineal descendant of Gov. John Endicott, and whose daughter, Anna, married Israel Putnam, grandfather of Dr. A. P. Putnam, and son of the above Dea. Edmund Putnam. To simplify this matter, it may be put thus:—

Thomas and Rebecca Andrew.
 Daniel and Sarah (Porter) Andrew.
 Daniel and Elizabeth (Peabody) Andrew.
 Daniel and Ginger (Hutchinson) (Porter) Andrew.
 Samuel and Mary (Dodge) Andrew.

This Samuel, the first Andrew in Sutton, was lame,—tradition has it, from injuries received in the French and Indian war. He worked at the trade of tailor. He was a very kind neighbor. He was born in Danvers, Mass., April 11, 1741, and died in Sutton March 7, 1796.¹ He married, June 1, 1762, Mary Dodge who died in Sutton, April 19, 1809, in her 65th year. Children,— Mary, b. in Sutton, Sept. 23, 1802; d. in Illinois, Sept. 20, 1868. She m. Jan. 8, 1827, Dr. Jesse Haven Foster, b. June 20, 1801, in Hanover, son of Jonathan and Mary (Greeley) Foster. Shubel Greeley, of Salisbury, was father of Mary (Greeley) Foster. Dr. Foster commenced the study of medicine with Dr. Benjamin Lovering, in Sutton, in 1820. In the years 1821 to 1824 he studied with Dr. Lyman of Warner; graduated at Burlington, Vt., in December, 1824; began the practice of medicine in Washington, Vt., June, 1825, and there remained till 1837, when he removed to Lake county, Ill., where he practised many years, being the first physician in the county. In all, his medical practice extended over a period of fifty years. On retiring he returned East to spend the remaining years of his life. He now resides with his daughter in Auburndale, Mass.

By the practice of his profession, and by the rise in value of land in and near Chicago, purchased before the city was built, Dr. Foster became quite wealthy, and being of an amiable, friendly disposition and an excellent physical constitution, with every faculty of body and mind unimpaired, though now in his 80th year, seems to have as complete enjoyment of life as if he were half a century younger. He reads without the help of glasses, eats and sleeps well, drives out in his carriage, and goes unattended in railroad and other cars, studies the daily papers, and keeps well acquainted with current public events, tells a good story, and laughs at other people's jokes as heartily as ever he did.

Mary Andrew, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Dodge) Andrew, m. Timothy Peaslee. She was found dead in her bed in the morning, about 1831. She had no children.

Nathan Andrew, Samuel Andrew's third child, b. in Danvers, Mass., Nov. 15, 1787, m. at Bradford, Feb. 13, 1798, Hannah Gregg, of New Boston, and settled in Fishersfield near the mill-pond. Mrs. Hannah G. Andrew was born in New Boston, Aug. 26, 1771. Her parents were James and Janet (Collins) Gregg.¹ Mrs. Andrew's brother, John Gregg, built the first mills at Bradford Mills, and died from a rupture of a blood-vessel at the age of thirty, leaving behind him the memory of a character of marked excellence. Tradition has it that at a time of great scarcity he restored, unobserved, the toll to the sacks of the poor and needy, who discovered his generosity on emptying them.

The first immigrant of the line of Hannah (Gregg) Andrew is believed by Miss C. Augusta Gregg² to be Capt. James Gregg, born in Scotland; settled in Antrim, Ireland, with his parents, in 1690; married Janet Cargil; had four sons and one daughter; and came to Londonderry in 1718. He had acquired considerable property as linen draper, and received honorable mention for his generous use of it and for his resolute and encouraging bearing among his fellow-colonists who landed at Cape Elizabeth, where they were obliged to pass the winter. In addition to his pro rata share of land he received one hundred and fifty acres and control of Beaver river for building the first saw- and grist-mill in his town. His descendant, Dea. James Gregg, in 1814 built the first horse-wagon in town. Another descendant, Thomas Gregg, who married Ann Leslie, was Mrs. Hannah Andrew's grandfather. He settled in the northern part of New Boston, where he pursued the trade of weaver.

The Greggs were noted for more than ordinary strength of body and mind, having little aspiration for popular favor, but being most tenacious in adherence to their religious convictions.³

¹ Janet Collins, a woman of unusual mental strength, was born of English parents, Sept. 6, 1734, in Medford Village, Mass., in the "gable-roofed house by the big elm." She died in New Boston in 1819. James Gregg, Hannah's father, was born in 1746, and died in 1806.

² Miss Charlotte Augusta Gregg, a daughter of Mrs. Andrew's brother Daniel, lived with her sister in Boston, and studied at Bowdoin school and Charlestown academy; taught at Danville, Ind., and three years at the Ohio Female College; also at Putnam Female Seminary, and in charge of a female seminary in Chicago for twenty-seven years having had under her instruction, it is believed, not less than two thousand five hundred young ladies.

³ At the siege of Derry one Gregg paid two shillings sixpence for a cat's head for his family to eat. One John Gregg, for refusing to abjure the Protestant faith, was drawn and quartered alive at Armagh; the quarters were then thrown in the father's face, who was afterwards murdered in the same way in the presence of his wife. This was in the county of Antrim during the Irish massacre of 1641-'42.

Dr. Samuel Gregg, a well known physician in Boston, was Mrs. Hannah G. Andrew's cousin. Joseph, her brother, resident in New Boston, attained marked success. In any case where he was a party in litigation, he would conduct his own suit. Mrs. Andrew's sister, Sally Gregg, m. John Brown, whose sons, Jeremiah and Joel, graduated at Dartmouth. Jeremiah pursued law in Boston, and Joel practised medicine in West Newton, Mass. Gov. J. Q. A. Brackett, of Massachusetts, is a grandson of this Sally Gregg and her husband, John Brown.

Recapitulation of the Gregg family,—

Capt. James Gregg, m. Janet Cargil.
 Thomas Gregg, m. Ann Leslie.
 James Gregg, m. Janet Collins.
 Hannah Gregg, m. Nathan Andrew.

Nathan and Hannah Andrew were both famous for their industry, and, though she was lame from childhood, she was not one whit behind him in this characteristic. Her skill with the loom was widely known. They were people of thrift, kind to the poor, and neighborly to all. In due time, with the enlargement of their means, they erected, in 1811, a more ample house and barn in Sutton, where they removed. A characteristic of Mr. Andrew was manifested when these buildings were suddenly reduced to ashes in April 19, 1834. It was the custom then, in a loss by fire, for the neighbors to aid in making it good by their gifts. This aid Mr. Andrew declined. He rebuilt better barns, and erected the brick house in which Mr. and Mrs. Andrew departed this life. The brick house was burned Aug. 28, 1890. They raised their children with the utmost care, training them in industry and intelligence, according to the precepts of the Bible. They attended the Congregational church at Bradford Centre most of the time, but Mr. Andrew became deeply interested in immersion, and he and his sons, Nathan, John, and Samuel, were among the largest contributors to the building of the Baptist church, near the Mill Village; indeed, Mr. Andrew gave the church about half the pews in it. Mrs. Andrew, after ninety, would repeat numerous hymns learned in her youth. Nathan Andrew d. Sept. 7, 1853, aged eighty-six, and his wife, Hannah Gregg Andrew, d. April 7, 1866, aged over ninety-four years. Children,—

Sally G., b. Feb. 3, 1800; d. April 13, 1862.
 Nathan, b. March 31, 1802; d. March 16, 1883.
 John, b. March 3, 1804; d. Jan. 1, 1870.
 Samuel, b. Jan. 22, 1806; d. March 14, 1875.
 Janet Collins, b. Jan. 2, 1808; d. Feb. 7, 1846.
 James Gregg, b. April 9, 1810; d. July 21, 1840.
 Hannah, b. Jan. 23, 1812; d. March 29, 1827.
 Mary Dodge, b. Sept. 13, 1815.

Sally G Andrew devoted herself to the care of her parents until she married, Jan. 22, 1852, Abel Woodworth, b. at Coventry, Conn., May 18, 1781, of Kingsbury, N. Y. She removed with him to Sandy Hill, N. Y., where she d. April 13, 1862. Mr. Woodworth d. at Forestport, N. Y. Aug. 10, 1865. Mrs. Woodworth was noted for the strength of her moral and religious convictions, for her skill in housekeeping and in water-cure, and for her unselfish devotion to her kindred. She was an early and aggressive advocate of temperance and of the abolition of slavery. On account of the proslavery preaching of the pastor, she ceased attending the church, and her name was dropped from its rolls. Later, when the church had come more nearly in accord with her position, she was restored to full fellowship. From her savings she made various bequests; among them was one to an orphan asylum in New York city, and one to the American Missionary Association.

Nathan Andrew, Jr., m. Dolly Sargent Pillsbury, b. Feb. 16, 1801, the daughter of Micajah and Sally Pillsbury. They lived all of their married life, of nearly fifty-seven years, upon the same farm, adjoining that of Nathan's father, which was managed by his brother, Samuel. The relation between Nathan and Samuel for all these years was a model of unbroken fraternal reciprocity and kindness. Nathan was a sturdy farmer of untiring energy. In his younger days he was a captain of the militia. He was a man of a fine vein of humor, of rare good judgment, and of strong principle. There was never any doubt where Nathan Andrew stood upon any public question. His wife, Dolly, was loved by all who knew her for her kindness and for her wonderfully even and sunny temperament. Nathan and Dolly, in their old age, greatly enjoyed a visit they made to the great West, and to the homes of their prosperous sons, Thomas F. and George H. Andrew, in Minneapolis, Minn. The burning of their home was the cause of their taking this, to them, long journey. Their sons, finding their parents, in spite of their enjoyment, yearning for their old home, without their knowledge rebuilt the house as it stood before the fire, and probably they were never happier nor more surprised than, when allowed to return, to find their home restored. Both died at the old homestead, Nathan on March 16, 1883, and Dolly on June 29, 1883. Children,— Hannah Jane, b. Dec 19, 1827; d. May 26, 1885.

Thomas Francis, b. March 31, 1830.

George Henry, b. June 19, 1832.

Wm. A. Dickey, b. Oct. 8, 1862, graduated at Manchester high school, and entered Dartmouth college, but, on account of his health, removed and graduated at Princeton in 1885. He and his two sisters, Mabel and Clara, reside at Seattle, Washington.

Mabel Dickey, after finishing the course at the high school, graduated at Wheaton Seminary, Norton, Mass., in 1888.

Thomas Francis Andrews lived at home, assisting his father on the farm, until twenty years of age, when he went to Concord to work in the store of the late John P. Goss, as clerk, for the sum of $65 per annum and board. He afterward clerked in the same city for Bullock & Sargent and for J. Frank Hoit. September 1, 1855, he went to St. Anthony's Falls, now Minneapolis, Minn., which was then 400 miles from the nearest railway. The whole territory of Minnesota then had less population than Minneapolis now has. He has resided there ever since. For over twenty years he was merchandising in company with his brother, George H. Andrews. More recently he has been dealing extensively in real estate. He is one of the large property holders and generous-hearted citizens of Minneapolis. For over thirteen years he has served his adopted city in important official positions with marked fidelity and honor, and has often been chosen trustee and administrator of estates. He m., on Oct. 20, 1859, Lizzie Fisk, formerly of Warner. She d. June 3, 1866, leaving one son, Geo. Cutler Andrews, b. May 10, 1863. He graduated at the University of Minnesota in 1887. Thomas

Frank Fisk, b. May 7, 1876.
Dolly Sarah, b. May 23, 1881.

Geo. Henry Andrews remained at his father's home, assisting him on the farm, attending school in the spring and fall, and teaching successfully several schools during the winters till the spring of 1856, when he went to Minneapolis, Minn., where he has since resided. He has been a prosperous merchant, and is a large real estate owner. He m. Fannie L., b. in Hartford, Conn., Nov. 22, 1845, daughter of Horace and Sophia (Russell) Sexton. Children,—

Hattie Louise, b. Sept. 27, 1868.
Horace Sherman, b. Aug. 9, 1872.
Woodbury Fisk, b. Aug. 26, 1874.
Nathan, b. June 1, 1884.
Russell, b. June 1, 1889.

Hattie Louise studied at the high school in Minneapolis, and is a member of the class of '90 in the state university. Horace S. and Woodbury F. are in the high school, the former of the class of '90, the latter of the class of '91.

William Gregg Andrews was a popular merchant in Concord and in Boston, Mass., but was compelled by a severe attack of rheumatism to retire from business. He sought relief at Hot Springs, Ark. Somewhat relieved, but still afflicted, he has for years been in charge of the old farm and homestead of his father, which his care and skill have greatly improved. He m. July 25, 1866, Lucinda J., b. Dec. 2, 1844, daughter of Charles and Eliza Currier, of Manchester. She is ready and untiring in all social and religious work. She is a favorite musician. The generous hospitality of their home is enjoyed by friends far and near. Children,—

James Currier, b. Oct. 6, 1867, at Concord.
Harry Howard, b. Jan. 10, 1872, at Somerville, Mass.

James C. graduated at the high school in Manchester in the class of '37. He was a valued clerk in the express office in Manchester for one year. He resides in Minneapolis, Minn., in the employ of C. A. Pillsbury & Co.

Harry II., after taking a business course of study in Manchester and being in service in the post-office in that city, removed to Boston, Mass., in the spring of 1889 as clerk for John A. Andrews & Co.

James G. Andrews left home when eighteen years of age, and clerked for Bullock & Sargent in Concord for four years. When twenty-two years of age he opened a store for himself in Concord. He was very successful till his health failed, when he sold out and went to Memphis, Tenn. There he recovered his strength, and became largely interested in steamboating on the Mississippi river, and in the lumber business. He was also the owner of a large plantation on Dean's island in the river. As a steamboat captain he was a great favorite. He built and owned several steamboats; one of these he named the "H. J. Dickey," in honor of his sister. He was a man of great enterprise and indomitable energy. He d. suddenly in the height of his manhood at Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 23, 1882, but lies buried in the grave-yard at South Sutton.

Horace Eaton Andrews fitted for college at New London academy, and graduated at Dartmouth college in 1866. He had taught while in college, and on graduating became the principal of the high school of Memphis, Tenn., and afterward was the superintendent of the public schools of Shelby county, Tenn. He was deputy United States marshal, and then for many years the clerk of the United States circuit and district court for the western districts of Tennessee. Retiring from official position in 1886, he has since devoted himself to his large landed interests, and especially to his plantation on Dean's island, which is one of the best on the Mississippi river.

John Andrews m. April 15, 1829, Susan Kimball Adams, b. in Sutton, Jan. 15, 1807, daughter of John and Sally (Kimball) Adams. He settled on the place where his parents first lived, in Fishersfield. Mr. Andrews was a farmer, and was interested with his brother, Samuel, in the ownership and conduct of the saw- and grist-mill at Bradford Mill Village, where he lived the greater part of his life. He loved to make his home one of comfort and happiness, and was an indulgent and generous father. In the militia he was active and honored, and became captain. Mrs. Andrews was of a most amiable and cheerful disposition. Their home was a favorite place among all their friends. John Andrews d. Jan. 1, 1870. His wife d. in Melrose, Mass., Sept. 13, 1877. Eliza Jane Andrews m. Sept. 22, 1853, William Henry Dole, of Concord. He was the son of William and Betsey (Daniels, of Pembroke) Dole, and was b. in Haverhill, Mass., Nov. 17, 1830. Mrs. Dole studied at Thetford academy, Vermont, and has been a most devoted sister, wife, and mother, encouraging all to the highest endeavor. Mr. Dole has been occupied in railroading, manufacturing, and merchandising.

They have resided in Bradford and Manchester, Chicago, Ill., and Melrose, Mass., where their home now is. Children,— Wm. Andrews, b. in Manchester, July 22, 1859.

Mary Alice, b. in Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1866; d. in Melrose, Mass., April 15, 1878.

Wm. Andrews Dole graduated at the Melrose high school, and entered Harvard college, but difficulty with his eyes forbade his continuing his studies and he became a clerk in the wholesale grocery store of his uncle, and is now partner in the firm of John A. Andrews & Co., Boston, Mass.

John Adams Andrews early became a clerk in a large grocery house in Boston, and, after a time, partner in the firm of Wadleigh & Co. After his cousin, Mr. Geo. A. Wadleigh, retired, he became the head of the house, one of the most successful wholesale grocery establishments in Boston. The firm is now known as John A. Andrews & Co. Mr. Andrews in his prosperity has been generously helpful to all his family. His house is conducted according to the highest principles of honorable dealing, and is now one of the largest of its trade in Boston. He m. in Boston, Dec. 9, 1874, Caroline Stickney Lovejoy. She was the daughter of Rev. Joseph and Sarah (Moody) Lovejoy, and niece of Owen Lovejoy, long member of congress, and Elijah Lovejoy who was killed by a mob for his sentiments of liberty at Alton, Ill. She is gifted with a taste for music and literature.

Charles Henry Andrews grew to attractive manhood, and became a merchant in Manchester. He d. Dec. 1, 1859.

Samuel Andrews, after leaving home, resided in Chicago, Ill., but since 1872 has been employed in Boston. His home is in Melrose, Mass. He m. Oct. 18, 1876, Mrs. Sarah Larkin, b. in Halifax, N. S., Sept. 17, 1834, the daughter of Edmund and Sarah Alice (Fuller) Dugan, and widow of John Larkin.

Harold Bass Andrews, b. in Boston, June 30, 1882.

Harriet Newell Andrews attended the village school at home, and later, while in Chicago with her sister, Mrs. Dole, she was a pupil in the seminary of Miss C. A. Gregg, and afterward studied a year at Mt. Holyoke. After the family residence was removed to Melrose, Mass., she became specially fond of the art of landscape and portrait painting.

After many most accurate efforts in her art she visited Europe alone to perfect her skill, remaining more than two years in Paris. She returned home in 1888. Her beautiful works adorn the homes of many of her friends and admirers. She is a lady of culture and genuine worth, of unselfish and charming disposition. She has a studio in Boston.

Samuel Andrews, b. Jan. 22, 1806, m. in Londonderry, June 6, 1862, Lavinia Hobart Pillsbury, b. in Hebron, Nov. 8, 1818, daughter of Rev. Stephen and Lavinia (Hobart) Pillsbury. He succeeded to the homestead of his father, Nathan Andrew, and took care of his father and mother in their declining years till their death. Early in life he taught district and singing schools in various neighborhoods. Besides farming he was part owner of the saw- and grist-mill at Bradford Mills. He also manufactured brick, his yard being for some time the only one in this region. His residence was the first one in town built of brick. His primeval woods were the last in town to contribute in considerable numbers great pine masts for the ships of the sea. He was an indefatigable worker, and a most devoted son, brother, and father. He was ever thoughtful of the welfare of the children of his deceased sister, Mrs. John Eaton, and gave the youngest, Charles Eaton, a home with him. A few years before the death of his wife he moved to Concord, for the purpose of educating his daughters. Mrs. Andrews was a lady of marked refinement and literary taste, and of a sweet and gentle disposition.
