Now Ger-man-y, oh, Ger-man-y was our friend not long a - go; She might be now but

f

for this row, the Kai-ser is our foe. She's far a - cross the o-cean, but yet so near to fight; She's got that won-drous sub-ma-rine which gives us all a fright. The war won't last, 'twill go like a blast, 'twill be no more our fear, And we'll do our best to keep the pest a - way from ov-er here!

CHORUS

But, Ger - ma-ny oh! Ger - ma-ny, we're not a - fraid of you! Our sol-diers and our sail-ors brave will Oh! Kai - ser Bill, oh! Kai - ser Bill, what do you ex-pect to do, With an ar - my of A-mer - i - cans right show what they can do. You sink our ships and kill our trade, yes, that's a bad mis - hap, But square in front of you? We'll build a roy - al pal-ace for you where the sub-way runs, And to Wood-row Wil - son and our boys will wipe you off the map! Your sub-ma-rines and Zep-pe-lins will soon be put to keep your High-ness com-pa-ny we'll kill a mil-lion Huns. We're going to fight it out, we say, and to the ve-ry flight By stur - dy young A-mer-i-cans who know just how to fight. Now you'll soon sa-lute Old Glo-ry, you end, We'll crip-ple you for - ev-er so you won't know how to bend, So a - gain we say we'll win the war! you bet your life you will, And we'll show how we can put it all ov - er Kai-ser Bill! But Bill!

bet your life We will! And you'll hear the whole world shout-ing: "To hell with Kai-ser Bill!" Oh! Bill!"
