1. I am wond-'ring, yes, I'm wond-'ring If the Yan-kees that we know Are
2. These times were times of test-ing Which the Yan-kees had to face; And
3. Since Lin-coln left for Heav-en, It is fif-ty years of time. And mp

just the kind of Yan-kees That lived some years a-go? When they brave-ly they did meet them: It's a trib-ute to their race. For now we have our Yan-kees In France, near to the Rhine. They fought for In-de-pen-dence, When they fought a-gainst the South; At that slav-'ry was a-bol-ished And lib-er-ty re-stored; And the are not there for mon-ey, Nei-ther did they go for fun, But to time they stood for jus-tice, They did bat-tle for the truth.

names of Grant and Lin-coln will e-ver be a dored.
meet in dead-ly com-bat The bru-tal Ger-man Hun.

CHORUS

Just now I think of Lin - coln, And Lieu-ten - ant - Gen - 'ral Grant;

Men who served the Yan-kee na - tion With - out eith - er pride or cant.

Brave Grant did lead the ar - mies, While Lin - coln held the wheel.

They were pa - tri - ot - ic Yan - kees From the head down to the heel!

4. We need not be downhearted,
For we are in the right;
And the Yanks will show the Germans
How bravely they can fight.
The Hun, he gets sarcastic
And talks of Yankee bluff;
But ere the war is over
The Hun will get enough! Cho.

5. No more need we be wond'ring
About the Yankee breed,
We have them here in millions,
The very men we need.
They will show to all the world
That they are true as steel,
For they are patriotic
From the head down to the heel. Cho.

6. Three cheers for Woodrow Wilson
For all that he has done.
He is able in debate
He can beat the tricky Hun.
The cunning Hunish statesmen
Will bye and bye admit
That this same Woodrow Wilson Whom they despised, is it! Cho.
