There's an Empty Chair at Our Fireside

Words and Music by Helen C. Logue

Moderato

Now our boy has marched away And is fighting in the fray

And we are left behind here all alone. How our poor hearts beat with pride.

As he marched comrade beside! But now he's gone these same hearts are as stone

For though we're proud and happy that he's fighting for the right,

Still we can't help feeling sad when we come home at night - - - -

Chorus

There's an empty chair at our fireside, And a dull ache in our heart

For when the twilight comes a-stealing, It finds us all at home a-kneeling,

We're praying for our boy "Over There" His Duty called and he answered heroic

And to his folks said a fond "Goodbye" He left his father and his mother and his sister and his brother and he went to fight for Un-

(Un) cle Sam

Theres an Empty Chair at our Fireside

Words and Music by H.C. Logue

I

Now our boy has marched away, And is fighting in the fray
And we are left behind here all alone
How our poor hearts beat with pride, As he marched, comrade beside!
But now he's gone these same hearts are as stone.
For tho' we're proud and happy that he's fighting for the right,
Still we cant help feeling sad when we come home at night.- - -

Chorus

There's an empty chair at our fireside
And a dull ache in our heart
For when the twilight comes a-stealing—
It finds us all at home a-Kneeling,
We're praying for our boy "Over There."
His duty called and he answered her cry
And to his folks said a fond "Good-bye."
He left his father and his mother and his sister and his brother
And he went to fight for Uncle Sam

Almost every other day, He writes home to us to say
That he's feeling quite contented with his lot.
O! He says that it's not grand, But he loves his native land
And a flag like dear Old Glory can't be bought!!!
So we at home will do our part in winning this great War
We'll Know that we are helping him and his brave comrades for - - -
Chorus -- There's an empty chair, etc.
