

fangthcof, wayf, and pelf (the two latter of which he defines in the same manner with Done's claim in Eyre, given under defamere) and claims jointly with Wm. Brereton to have a fair and market at Malpas, and claims to have view of frank pledge in Church Christleton, Row Christleton and Little Christleton, with the same privileges as in Malpas.

15 Hen. VII., Sir Edward Sutton, Lord of Dudley, in a plea to a quo warranto, claims the right of including Shocklach within the jurisdiction of the lect and privileges of the manor of Malpas.—Ormerod II. 335.

Sir Edward, Lord Dudley, hired a house in Tothill St., Westminster in 1522, and, from that time, he made that his London residence, being there most of the year.* His children were 5 sons and 6 daughters, two of whom are known to have died in childhood, and have monuments in Himley Church; and of another (Thomas) nothing is known. We find not the slightest hint that this Thomas ever lived to manhood. There are no dates found of his birth, baptism, marriage, death or burial. He sold his Malpas estate and castle, in 1527, to Geo. Robynson, and sold Northfield in 1531.** He obtained a grant from Parlia. of the custody of the estates of John, son and heir of Sir John Grey, Lord Powis. See Pedigree at page 169.

DOROTHY DUDLEY. DAU. OF EDMUND SUTTON, ALIAS DUDLEY.

Sir Walter Wrottesley, Knt. Lord of Perton, 9 Edw. IV. was buried in Gray Friars (now Christ Church), London, 1473. His daughter, Thomasine, m. Wm., Lord Stourton. Sir Walter's son Richard (eldest son) m. Dorothy, daughter of Edmund Sutton, Esq., and relict of Sir John Musgrave, Kt., by whom he had a son named Walter. This Richard and his wife were buried at Tctnal, and as their epitaph is in old English verse, made by a country poet, perhaps it may not be disagreeable to lovers of antiquity :

" Here lies closed in clay
The body of Richard Wrottesley,
And also Dorothy his wif,
Which lyved togedir all their lif.
