

father had previously engaged in the manufacturing business, and entered his father's office as book-keeper and general assistant. In 1834 they formed a co-partnership for the manufacture of malt at Lyons, N. Y., assuming the active part of the business while his father retained his business at Clyde. In 1835 they removed to Phelps, N. Y., and in 1837 established a branch at Seneca Falls, and, through honorable dealing, have acquired the reputation of being one of the leading firms in this branch of industry. He is a share holder in the Central City Land Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and is also Secretary and Treasurer of the Clyde Electric Co. of Clyde, N. Y., of which he was one of the promoters and principal share holders. From an early age he has taken an active part in politics, and been chosen many times to represent his town at the County conventions. In 1832, at the age of 21 years, he was nominated by the Democratic party as their candidate for Sheriff of Wayne County, which was done without his solicitations or knowledge. He hesitated to accept the nomination but consented to do so upon the condition that he should take no active part in the canvass. He was defeated by 340 majority, which was a reduction of over 2000 votes formerly given to Republican candidates. In 1835 he was an alternate delegate to the Democratic State Convention at Saratoga, N. Y., and supported the nomination of David B. Hill for governor. In 1837 (Sept. 28), he headed the delegation from Wayne County to the Democratic State Convention at Saratoga, and served on the committee of credentials, a very important committee at that time. In 1838 he was delegate from Wayne County to the Democratic State Convention at New York City, held for the purpose of choosing candidates for Presidential electors and delegates to the National Convention to be held at St. Louis, Mo., June, 1838, which nominated Grover Cleveland for President. He was also a member of the Democratic State Convention held at Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1838, and served on the committee of permanent organization and supported the re-nomination of Gov. David B. Hill. In this canvass he declined the nomination for member of Congress tendered him by the party leaders in his Congressional district. He took an active part in the campaign and was chairman of the Democratic General Committee of the first Assembly district of Wayne County. In 1839 he was a delegate to the Democratic State Convention at Syracuse, and in the same year was elected Chairman of the Democratic General Committee of Wayne County. He is a thorough student in political economy, and one of the prominent Democrats of western New York. He is a Free Mason, a fine scholar, well versed in both ancient and modern history, and always well informed as to passing events. He is dignified, courteous and affable; a man of quick perceptions, strong mind, good judgment, yet liberal and unassuming. Mr. McIntyre is unmarried.
