

Captain in the Federal army during the late war, and died of typhoid fever while in service.

Ann Brown Clay, second daughter of Henry Clay and Julia Prather, married Henry C. McDowell, of Louisville, Kentucky.

CHILDREN.

Nannette McDowell, Henry C. McDowell, Willie McDowell, Thomas McDowell, Julia McDowell, Margaret McDowell, Ballard McDowell.

Thomas Julian Clay, second son of Henry Clay and Julia Prather, was a Captain in the Confederate army, and died while in service.

Eliza H. Clay, fifth daughter of Lucretia Hart and Hon. Henry Clay, died suddenly at Lebanon, Ohio, in 1825, while en route to Washington, D. C., with her parents.

Laura Clay, sixth daughter of Lucretia Hart and Hon. Henry Clay, was born in 1815, and died in 1817.

James Brown Clay, fourth son of Lucretia Hart and Hon. Henry Clay, born in Washington, D. C., November 9, 1817. He graduated at the Law School in Lexington, Kentucky, in 1842, and was his father's partner in the profession till 1849, when he accepted the appointment of Charge d'Affairs to Portugal from President Taylor.

In 1857 he was offered the appointment of Minister Plenipotentiary to Berlin by President Buchanan, which appointment he declined, and was the same year elected to Congress.

In 1860 he was a delegate to the Democratic Convention in Charleston, and in 1861 was appointed delegate to the "Peace Congress" in Baltimore. He was not an original Secessionist, but when the war broke out, he warmly espoused the Southern cause, although unable to take an active part, owing to his fast-failing health. He went to Cuba, and from thence to Canada, where he died in exile January 26, 1864. In 1843 he married Miss Susanna Jacob, of Louisville, Kentucky.

CHILDREN.

Lucy Clay, Susan Jacob Clay, Nathaniel Hart Clay, James Brown