4. JESSE EMES (Henry<sup>s</sup>, John<sup>s</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), was born "on Saturday, July ye 25, 1739," at Framingham, Mass., and died at Staatsburgh, N. Y., May 7, 1829. In 1757 he was a drummer in the company of Framingham militia of which his father was captain. In 1770 he was chosen a member of a committee "to provide school dames for Framingham." In 1775 he was captain of a company of militia consisting of twenty-four men, one-fourth of whom bore the name of Emes. In Capt. Gleason's company, of Framingham militia, there were also three men named Emes. Capt. Emes's company marched to Concord and Cambridge April 19, 1775, and took part in the battle of Lexington. Capt. Emes gave ten days' service at this time. From Dec. 1, 1775, to Jan. 15, 1776, he was a lieutenant in Capt. Simon Edgell's company, which was formed in response to a call for 5,000 men to defend the fortifications at Cambridge and Roxbury. He was commissioned March 27, 1776, captain of the 6th company, Middlesex county regiment of the Massachusetts militia. He resigned his commission Feb. 17, 1777. After the Revolution he removed to Staatsburgh, Dutchess County, N. Y. A part of the original Pawling's purchase was sold in 1790 to Capt. Jesse Emes and Capt. Isaac Russell, of Sherburne, Mass. In Smith's "Documentary history of Rhinebeck," p. 236, we read: "These purchasers [Emes and Russell] had been in the army in the war of the Revolution, and passing through Staatsburgh in charge of some prisoners, after Burgoyne's surrender, were so charmed with the country that they decided to remove to it after the war." One of Jesse Emes's neighbors at Staatsburgh was Capt. David Mulford, who had come to Staatsburgh from Easthampton, L. I., just before the Revolution, and on Aug. 21, 1791, Capt. Emes's daughter Sally was married to Ezekiel Mulford, David Mulford's youngest son.

The will of Jesse Emes, gentleman, dated March 24, 1813, is recorded at the office of the Surrogate's Court in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He bequeathed to his sons Timothy and Ezra, the heirs of his son Jesse "having received their part," the sum of fifty pounds each. To each of his daughters, Sally Mulford, Betty Silkgregg and Polly Spencer, he gave the sum of forty pounds.
