The following notice of her illness, death and funeral services are taken from the public newspapers published in Hartford:

DEATH OF MISS STEVENS.

Miss Maggie, daughter of the Hon. Nathaniel B. Stevens, died at 2 p. m., May 7th, 1878, of malignant pustule. It began upon the lip, and worked upward, causing intense suffering, and leaving no hope of her recovery. The rapidity of the progress of the disease is astonishing. She first felt a little pimple on her lip, while attending a performance at the Opera House, last Tuesday night. It grew so much worse that on Sunday she had to take her bed, and the swelling (treated with a local application of iodine) increased, and brought on delirium. Miss Stevens was a graduate of the High School, '77, and had a host of warm friends who prized her amiable character and will mourn her death. She was 20 years of age last October.

The funeral of Miss Maggie Moore Stevens took place at the residence of her father on Asylum avenue. There was a large gathering of friends, among whom were the principal and teachers of the High school, also a large number of the class of '77, of which she was a member. The Asylum street Methodist Sunday school was also well represented. A large number of friends and relatives from Simsbury were present. The services were conducted by Rev. R. Meredith, late pastor of the Asylum street M. E. church, assisted by Rev. C. B. Ford, the present pastor. The music was by a quartette composed of Mr. Hewins, Mr. Kelsey, Miss Tiffany and Miss Wilson. They sang the selection, "Abide With Me," and "One sweetly, solemn thought." The remains were enclosed in a white-oak casket, covered with white broadcloth, the lid being raised the entire length, showing the satin-lined top, fluted in rays. At the close of the services the remains were taken to Simsbury by a special train on the Connecticut Western road, accompanied by the relatives and many friends. The bearers
