III. GENERATION.

25. (1) Jasher, b. Jan. 22, 1753, m. Dolly Carr, lived in Lenox, Mass., (his youngest brother, EBENEZER, living with him from about 1790 to about 1797), moved to Ohio and settled in Dover in 1814, where he died in 18—. From the records of the Pension Office it appears that he enlisted July, 1778, for 9 months, in Capt. Cleveland's company, in the regiment commanded by Col. Michael Jackson in the Revolutionary War.

26. (2) Henry, b. March 15, 1755, at Yarmouth, d. in Capt. Ward's company in the Revolutionary Army, Sept. 30, 1778.

27. (3) Jonathan, b. May 3, 1757, at Yarmouth, m. three times. First, Phoebe Howes of Ashfield. Second, Mrs. Eunice Baker Matthews of Dennis, Mass. Third, Mrs. Jemima Sheppard Lyon. He was about 12 years old when his father moved to Ashfield, where he lived until his death, March 19, 1839. From the records of the Pension Office it appears that he served in the American Army before Boston with Capt. Webber, in Col. Fellows' Massachusetts regiment, joined his company at Roxbury in July, 1775, and later was stationed at Dorchester. About Jan. 1, 1776, he volunteered for one year in Capt. Samuel Bartlett's Company, in Col. Jonathan Ward's Massachusetts regiment, and participated in the siege of Boston, until the place was evacuated by the British, March 17, 1776. Thence he was ordered to the defence of New York City, and was in the battle of Long Island, Aug. 27, 1776, in the night retreat to New York City, then, when it was evacuated, Sept. 15, 1776, he accompanied the army towards White Plains, and was discharged at Peekskill. About July, 1777, he
