

82. (2) Jonathan B., b. 1807, d. Oct., 1828.

83. (3) Jane Jerusha, b. Jan. 11, 1810, m. Moses T. Davis, Sept. 25, 1831, d. Mar. 15, 1862.

84. (4) Lucinda Boardman, b. —, 1818, d. Aug. 24, 1820, at South Hero, Vt.

85. (5) Henry B., b. at South Hero, Grand Isle Co., Vt., Mar. 8, 1822, m. Julia M. Shedden, Feb. 1, 1849.

The following Personal Memoirs were written at the earnest request of his children, by Henry B. Taylor, and are here inserted as a part of the Family History :

Henry Boardman Taylor was born in South Hero, Grand Isle County, State of Vermont, March 8, 1822.

His father then owned a farm on the south end of Grand Isle, and here on the banks of the beautiful Lake Champlain with the Green Mountains near at hand on the east and the Adirondacks in view across the lake on the west, his early childhood was passed.

When seven years of age his father sold his farm on the Island and removed to one he had purchased in the town of Milton, Chittenden County, Vt. Before leaving their island home the family had been called to bury two of their number. Lucinda in early childhood, and Jonathan, in his young manhood, had been called from their midst, and grief and sorrow had borne heavily upon the loving mother.

While living on the Island the family was surrounded by many relatives. Joseph Boardman, brother of the mother, lived on an adjoining farm. Henry Boardman, another brother, lived on a farm adjoining his brother Joseph. Elisha Boardman, the youngest brother, lived on the west shore at the ferry to Cumberland Head. Also, on the father's side, there lived on the Island, one brother, namely, David Taylor, M. D., with a family of seven sons and three daughters, named Stephen,