

retired life he had added largely, and with the whole of which he enriched one of his servants.

9. Ann, (b. d. ) I neither find the date of her birth or death, or her place of interment. She died unmarried, but was alive so late as August 29th, 1776, the date of John Cleeve's will as he then makes his sisters Ann Cleeve, Mary Hatt, Elizabeth Evans, and his nephew, Thomas Velley residuary legatees.

10. Mary, (b. d. ) married in 1748, to Charles Hatt, of Longworth, in the County of Berks., Esq., first described as of Brent Ely Hall, in the County of Suffolk. Although I have no positive information, it appears certain that they had no surviving children, since Charles Hatt Velley inherited the estates of his uncle-in-law and godfather, and to my own Father was bequeathed his plate, part of which was unfortunately sold, but some remains in my possession.

11, (and last.) Elizabeth, (b. d. ) married to Samuel Evans, of Shelley House, Ongar, Esq., v. Moulmein's History of Essex, vol. 3, p. 365. So far as I know they had no surviving children, but upon this head I have been unable to gather any information.

On the 25th April, 1752, Greensted Hall was purchased by David Rebotier, of London, Merchant. The conveyance to him is signed by the nine surviving children of Alexander Cleeve, and one son-in-law, Charles Hatt, and the respective widows of Benjamin and Bouchier Cleeve.

The tenure of the Rebotier family was not a long one. Beginning in 1752, it ceased in 1771. David Rebotier died in 1769, and his will was proved in April, 1769. By it he directs his interment to take place by the body of his wife, in Greensted Churchyard, where their tomb (which I caused to be repaired in 1864) still exists, and the estate to be sold, and the proceeds divided, subject to a previous offer of purchase at a determined
