

persons administered the government of the province: Henry Ellis, Esq., the Hon. Colonel Montague Wilmot, The Rt. Hon. Lord William Campbell, Major Francis Legge, John Parr, Esq., and Sir John Wentworth, Bart.

By his first marriage, as we have said, Mr. Cochran had one daughter Margaret<sup>8</sup>, born as early as 1762. She was married in 1782 (probably the same day that the license was issued, June 29th) to Admiral Sir Rupert George, Bart., then merely a junior officer in the navy, the third son of Dennis George, Esq., of Clophook, Ireland; born June 16, 1749. In 1793 Sir Rupert was a Captain, and attached to H. M. S. Hussar; in 1795 he had the rank of Commodore, and later he was created an Admiral. September 18, 1809 he was made a baronet, and he lived until 1823. Lady George survived him and died as late as 1835. The children of Sir Rupert and Margaret George, were:

SAMUEL HOOD, b. 1789, d. June 10, 1813
Dorothy Margaret, bap. Sept. 8, 1794
RUFERT DENNIS, b. 9 Oct., 1796, d. 1856
Louisa, m. in 1807 to T. Warre, Esq
Charlotte, m. in 1820 to Richard Verity, Esq
Jane Harriet, m. to J. B. Brady, Esq
Frances Wentworth, m. to Major Taylor
Susannah, m. to M. Hinuber, Esq

Of these children, SAMUEL HOOD GEORGE was made Provincial Secretary of Nova Scotia in 1808, and held the office until his death in 1813. He was also Register and Clerk of the Council. He died at Park Place, London, and is buried with other members of his family in St. Mary's Churchyard, Battersea. Murdoch in his History of Nova Scotia, Vol. 3, p. 378, says: "Mr. Samuel Hood George, who had come out to Nova Scotia in 1808, with Sir George Prevost, (13th governor of Nova Scotia), and was made Secretary of the Province that year, had left Nova Scotia
