

dau. of William de Bohun, Earl of Northampton (who commanded the second division at Cressy, 1346), son of Humphrey de Bohun, 4th Earl of Hereford and Essex; Hereditary Constable of England, by the Princess ELIZABETH Plantagenet, sister to King EDWARD II.

The wife of Sir William Stanley, again, Joyce Cherlton,<sup>(1.)</sup> was grandchild of Joan, dau. of Ralph Stafford, Earl of Stafford, K.G., one of the heroes of Cressy, whose wife, Margaret de Audley, was dau. of Margaret de Clare, dau. of Gilbert the Red, Earl of Hertford and Gloucester (commanded the second brigade of the royal army at Evesham, 5 Aug. 1265), the premier peer of England,<sup>(2.)</sup> whose wife, the Princess JOAN, was sister to King EDWARD II.<sup>(a.)</sup>

Margaret Davenport also descended from the ancient Cheshire houses of Warren of Poynton (derived from a younger branch of the Warrens, Earls of Surrey), Eton, Legh of Aldington, Bulkeley, Wynnington, Hesketh of Rufford,<sup>(4.)</sup> and Fitton of Gawsworth,<sup>(5.)</sup> &c.

By this lady he had issue,

JOHN, of whom hereafter.

(1.) The Frontispiece is an illustration of the fine Brass, inlaid in a slab of marble, and forming the top of a table tomb, surmounted by a handsome canopy, in the chancel of S. Andrew's Church, Enfield, to her memory.

Arms upon the Brass.—Powys (Cadwallader); Tiptoft, her first husband, impaling Powys; Tiptoft, Holland (Edmund of Woodstock) and Powys; Powys and Holland, quarterly; Tiptoft; and Powys.

Several families are entitled to quarter the ROYAL ARMS (Holland), through Joyce Cherlton; the Earl of Bradford being her senior representative. See her Royal descent on p. 17.

(2.) Grandson of Isabel Marshall, dau. of William, Earl of Pembroke (whose effigy is in the Temple Church), Marshal of England, and third in descent from Dermot McMurrough, last King of Leinster. His grandfathers, Gilbert de Clare, and John de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, were two of the barons appointed to enforce the observance of Magna Charta. This Gilbert was buried in Tewkesbury Abbey; his son, Gilbert, was slain at Bannockburn, 1314.
