13.

William Resseguie.* The dates of his birth and death have not been learned. He married, in Weston, Conn., Dec. 16, 1771, Susannah Patrick. The homestead in Ridgefield was deeded to him by his father, and is the property referred to in the will of Alexander, Jr. Subsequently he removed to Fishkill, N. Y., where he purchased about 400 acres of land. His son Stephen is said to have had a full family record, which was burned with his house and is much to be regretted, as we are left with very meager data relative to the early record.

*The compiler has experienced greater difficulty in obtaining data relative to William Resseguie and his descendants, and with less satisfactory results, than in all other lines combined, and the apparent uselessness of further waiting has decided him to close the work in a somewhat imperfect state; but notwithstanding its imperfection, he is disposed to congratulate himself that the labor bestowed upon it has resulted more favorably than at one time seemed possible.
