

tion of Maryland, member of the Maryland Council of Safety; appointed Chief Judge 1791; grandmother of Charles Carroll (Barrister); member of the Maryland Convention; the author of the Declaration of Rights, which was adopted by the Convention of Maryland November 3rd, 1776; member of the Council of Safety, also great grandmother of Edward Lloyd, member of the Continental Congress, and included among the figures in the great historical painting hanging in the Senate Chamber representing Washington resigning his commission. Anna Maria Neale Bennett Lloyd was the great, great grandmother of Honorable Henry Lloyd, who was Governor of Maryland 1806-11. Honorable Edward Lloyd was also United States Senator from 1819 to 1826. This celebrated lady was Maid of Honor to Queen Henrietta Maria, who presented her with a handsome ring, which is now in the possession of Mrs. Clara Tilghman Goldsborough Earle, of Easton, Md., a granddaughter of Colonel Tench Tilghman, great, great grandson of Anna Gill. The celebrated beauty, Elizabeth Killagrew, Lady Stafford's daughter, served with Anna Gill.

THE HALLS.

This is a very old family. They owned an immense body of land around Queenstown, including "Ingleside," "Bolingly," the old Mitchell homestead, "Cedar Grove," now in the possession of Dr. Carroll, and the "White House" farm, which was owned by four generations of the family, recently purchased by the late Gen. William McKenny. Francis Hall married Martha Neale. They resided at "Bolingly," lately sold by the Mitchells, who owned it for many years after the death of their parents, Mr. Charles I. B. Mitchell and Mrs. Georgie Mitchell, who was the handsome daughter of Mrs. Catharine P. Emory, of "Lansdowne." The children of Mr and Mrs. Mitchell are Charles I. B. Mitchell, H. B. Mitchell, Edith Catharine, now Mrs. Courtney Jones, Ella, Madaline, now Mrs. Phillip Thomas Davidson, Rosa, Mildred and Francis David Lee Mitchell. The Bolingly house is very ancient, and was ransacked by the British during the war of 1812, who thrust their bayonets through a handsome portrait of Martha Neale Hall, great grandmother of the Willsons, near Queenstown. They fired the wheat fields, which were
