

THE 165TH INFANTRY, THE "OLD FIGHTING 69TH" OF NEW YORK, and the New York Regiment in the Famous Rainbow Division, Marching Up Fifth Avenue in Its Victorious Homecoming Parade, Its Final Appearance as a Unit, While Patriotic Women of the Catholic League Honor Them with Floral Tributes. (Times Wide World Photos.)

MEMBERS OF THE CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE Waiting in Front of St. Patrick's Cathedral with Floral Offerings for the 69th, New York's Famous Irish Regiment. (Times Wide World Photos.)

FATHER FRANCIS PATRICK DUFFY, Noted Chaplain of the Old 69th, Passing the Reviewing Stand Between Two Members of the Regimental Headquarters Staff. (Times Wide World Photos.)

VETERANS OF THE OLD 69TH MARCHING ON UPPER FIFTH AVENUE, with, in the Foreground, Men of the New 69th at Salute, and, in the Background, the Official Reviewing Stand and the Metropolitan Museum of Art. (Times Wide World Photos.)

COLONEL WILLIAM J. DONOVAN, Commanding the 69th, at the Head of His Men on Final Parade, Receiving a Bouquet of American Beauties as the Head of the Column Reaches St. Patrick's Cathedral. (Times Wide World Photos.)

ARCH-BISHOP PATRICK J. HAYES, of the New York Diocese, Taking the Salute as the Old 69th Regiment Passed the Reviewing Stand at St. Patrick's Cathedral. (International Film Service.)

WOUNDED SOLDIERS SEE THE 69TH PARADE FROM INVALID CHAIRS ON THE SIDEWALK. (International Film Service.)

THE OLD 69TH'S FLAG OF MORE THAN 600 GOLD STARS PASSING UP THE AVENUE, GIRLS STREWING THE STREET WITH FLOWERS IN HONOR OF THE DEAD AND OF THE LIVING. (Times Wide World Photos.)