

VICTORY OR TREACHEROUS COMPACT?

Here are three English opinions, one from Britain's "most distinguished pacifist," two from her strongest "bitter-enders."

Lord Lansdowne: "We are apparently as far as ever from the end. The tide of carnage and destruction continues to flow and carries all before it. . . . In the face of the world-wide calamities the war has brought no moment can be inopportune for considering reasonable proposals."

Photo © Underwood & Underwood.

A. J. Balfour: "A German promise is no binding contract, and the peace of the world rests upon frail foundations indeed if it rests upon nothing more solid than the solemn compact. . . . On the result of the struggle for the supremacy of two ideals, the one from Heaven, the other from Hell, depends the fate of the world."

© Underwood & Underwood

Lloyd George: "There is not the faintest doubt in my mind that our victory will be complete."

Photo © Central News.

Dowager Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria

© Western News, Union.

Princess Mary, Prince John and Prince Henry helping their royal parents celebrate.

© Western News, Union.

Princess Mary in the uniform of a voluntary aide-de-camp.

Press Illustrating

Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary visit an army boot salvage works where decrepit shoes from the war zone are sorted and repaired.

© Central News.

At Buckingham Palace. King George and Queen Mary on their silver wedding day.

© Central News.