Till Ready.

When the bat-tle's o-ver, When the vic-tory's won When Co-lum-bia When the war is o-ver, Let us not for-get How she tried to greet her sons When we crown with lau-rels, our he-roes great and smile that day Though her heart was break-ing she said "Boy do your small Don't for-get the gray haired ones Though far a-way from bit" Tried to cheer him on his way Think of the lone-ly sound of trum-pets call Still had to bear the hard-est part of all.

nights she passed in tears So for the moth-er's let us give three cheers.

Cornet muted.

Chorus.

The brav - est bat - tle of the war was fought in a Moth - er's heart, No com - rades shouts to cheer her on, A - lone she bore her part. No roll of drums, no clash of steel No bu - gle ring - ing with it's wild ap - peal, Yet the brav - est bat - tle of the war was fought in a moth - er's heart. The heart.
