Where will you take me,

Left hand well sustained

lit-tle boat, All on a sum-mer's day,

p

Shall I dream and let you float, Whith-er away? Car-ry me down the rip - ling tide, Where wa - ter lil - ies bend and bide, Take me whith-er the song - birds hide, All on a sum-mer's day

Oh, I am dreaming, lit-tle boat; Rockme to sleep and float and float. — Far a - waysounds a feath - er'd throat,

All on a sum-mer's day.

The

grass - es nod and the wa-ters flow; The flee - cy clouds sail to and fro; And I would find where the breez - es blow;

All on a sum - mer's day. La - zi - ly, drow - si - ly, sway lit - tle boat; Bring to me, bring to me as we float, The scent of the rose, and the song - bird's note, All on a sum - mer's

day. Oh, lit - tle boat my dream is o'er,

I was a child, and can dream no more. Take me back to the world's green shore, All on a sum-mer's day.

GEMS OF ANTIQUITY

VOCAL MASTERPIECES
COVERING A PERIOD
FROM 1240 to 1786

COLLECTED AND EDITED BY

An anthology of unusual interest, collected and edited by one of the greatest scholars of music of the present time. The amount and carefulness of research indicated in the selections, marks this volume as one of essential value to voice teachers, to singers and students generally—in contrast to the ephemeral character of the average anthology.

The volume presents a gathering in compact form, of the rarely heard songs of various nations—a majority of them being quite unknown to even the most studiously inclined.

The depth and the magnetic charm of these Gems of Antiquity will make a potent appeal to every artist—indeed the book will find a distinct place in the education of all those who wish to become artistic singers.

Many of these old songs were originally expressed by the melody and the figured bass only, and the editor has been peculiarly felicitous in the skill with which he has transcribed and fitted them with modern accompaniments faithfully preserving the color of the originals.

Excellent and singable translations of foreign texts have been made into English.
