Long long a - go when I was but a lit - tle child, In the Moth - er sat knit - ting in her cos - y rock - ing chair, With a glad some mer - ry days of youth and joy, In that dear old home where we pleas - ant hap - py smile for ev - ery one, Dear fathersat be - side her and his all were bred and born, And where hap - pi - ness then seemed without al - loy; I re - lov - ing thoughtful face, shone with con - cious pride of moth - er daughter son; We would mem - ber man - y joys, man - y hap - py, hap - py days, When I sing the Swa - nee River, Nel - lie Gray, and Lil - ly Dale, And play'd with childish glee from morn' till night, — But a - mong the pleas - ant mem - ries one shines dear old An - nie Lau - rie, Pa's de - light — Ah those hap - py joy - ous evenings all too out be - fore them all, When we sang in the eve - ning by the fire - light.
