Thees ees a simple, charming story about four people .. a man, a woman and a dog. The boy's name is Pierre. The girl's name is ... Je le tois de sur le bois elle ete te de ce va, ce vo ...how you say in English? ... Mary-Lou*Sue*Anne ... or as her mother calls her ... (shakes finger warningly) Marie.

Pierre and Marie work together in the vineyard, trampling the grapes to making the champagne. They are very happy - but their feet are blue. Pierre is mad for Marie. He worship her. He kisses her feet.

This makes him very drunk! The bubbles tickle my nose, he exclaims. She replies, they are not bubbles, they are my shoe-laces. He raise his foot to her -- in a toast -- and he dance:...

One day, Marie falls into a river and a large swordfish, starts to attack her. "Help," she observes, Pierre has no life preserver but he sinks fast. He throw a bottle of red wine into the river. Swordfish is horrified. Red wine do not go with fish! And he swim away! Marie is saved! So he dance:...

One day, he run-away to join the army where he decides to become a spy. Voila! Like that! He sneak through the enemy lines & he becomes very successful spy. Everywhere he go people point to him and say, "There goes Pierre, the spy." He is having a wonderful time -- until one day they stand him in front of a firing squad. Last request? No! Blindfold? ... No! A cigarette? But, of course.

As the firing squad kneel and takes aim, Pierre lights the cigarette, takes a deep puff and he sing:...
