BOSTON
UNIVERSITY

Roman Totenberg

A Centennial Celebration

Musician | Teacher | Mentor

November 21, 2010
Symphony Hall

Boston University College of Fine Arts invites you to
A Centennial Celebration of Roman Totenberg
Musician | Teacher | Mentor

Featuring the Boston University Symphony Orchestra
David Hoose, conductor
Peter Zazofsky, violin

Ludwig van Beethoven	Overture to Prometheus, Op. 43
Béla Bartók	Violin Concerto No. 2
Edward Elgar	Symphony No. 1 in A-flat

With a special tribute to Professor Totenberg hosted by national political commentator Cokie Roberts

Sunday, November 21, 2010
7:30 p.m.

Symphony Hall
301 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston

Roman Totenberg joined the Boston University School of Music as Professor of Music in 1961. His extraordinary talent as a solo violinist has paralleled his passion for teaching and mentoring countless musicians, and his influence on classical music has been worldwide.

A longtime resident of Newton, MA, Mr. Totenberg was born in Poland on January 1, 1911 and was a child prodigy. He had an illustrious concert career, making his debut with the Warsaw Philharmonic at age 11 and going on to win the Wieniawski and Ysaye Medals of Poland and Belgium, the Mendelssohn Prize (Berlin Academy), BU's prestigious Metcalf Cup and Prize in 1996, and being named Artist Teacher of the Year in 1981 by the American String Teachers Association. Mr. Totenberg has been a constant and inspiring presence in classical music over the last century, having worked closely with composers including Samuel Barber, Igor Stravinsky, Aaron Copland, Paul Hindemith, and Darius Milhaud, and musicians and conductors including Fritz Kreisler, Artur Rubinstein, Leopold Stokowski, and Pierre Monteux.

Mr. Totenberg is featured on hundreds of recordings, has appeared with most of the renowned orchestras of the world, and has performed in recital at Carnegie Hall, the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art, the White House, the Library of Congress, and Queen Elizabeth Hall in London.

Totenberg Centennial Celebration
Attn: Stephanie Trodello
Boston University College of Fine Arts
855 Commonwealth Avenue
Boston, MA 02215

Roman Totenberg Centennial Celebration

Musician | Teacher | Mentor

Individual Concert Ticket $25

Happy Birthday Wish $100

One (1) ticket to pre-concert reception (6:00 pm at Symphony Hall)
One (1) concert ticket with VIP seating
Happy Birthday Wish in concert program
(limit 75 characters, email text to symphony@bu.edu)

Proceeds will benefit the Roman and Melanie Totenberg String Scholarship Fund at the Boston University College of Fine Arts

RSVP by November 15 to ensure inclusion in the program.

For questions, please call 617-358-5211

Please turn over

Name _____

Address _____

Phone/Email _____

I would like to be a ☐ Birthday Wish sponsor or ☐ Buy Tickets

☐ Please charge my gift of $ ___ for ___ tickets, to my credit card as specified below.

☐ I am unable to attend the concert on November 21, but would like to make a tax-deductible gift to the:

Roman and Melanie Totenberg String Scholarship Fund to benefit outstanding young musicians.

☐ Single payment of $ ___

☐ Monthly payment of $ ___, beginning the month of _____ for ___ months

---

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ AMEX ☐ Discover

Card Number _____

Signature _____

Exp. Date _____ Today's Date _____

You may also make your contribution through our secure web site at www.bu.edu/alumni/giving, or with a check, made payable to Boston University. All tickets will be held at the BU Table in the Symphony Hall box office lobby the night of the concert.

A portion of your contribution may be tax deductible.