them with out-stretched arms, For we'll know that all Coun-tries are Free; They'll come march-ing, sing-ing of vic-tor-y, Full of pride with heads held high; And the hearts now sad will then be glad. When the boys go

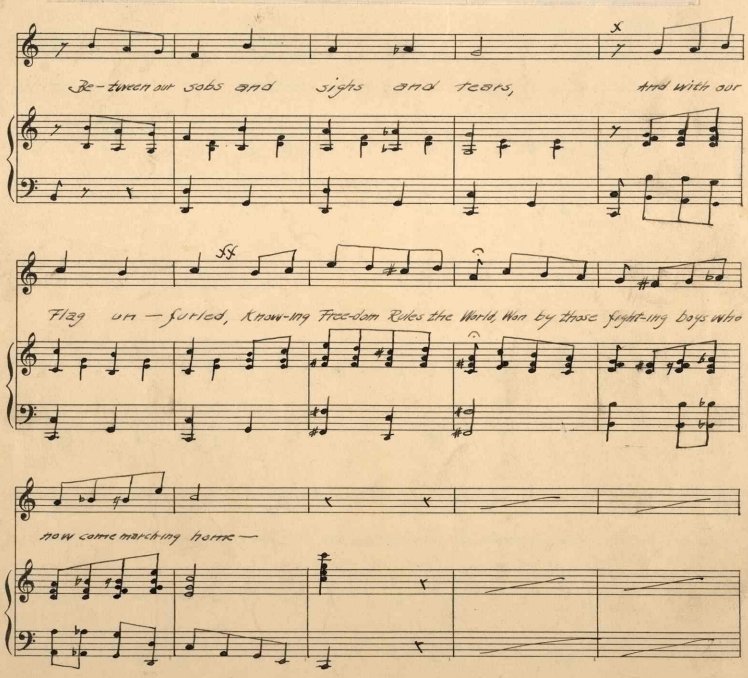
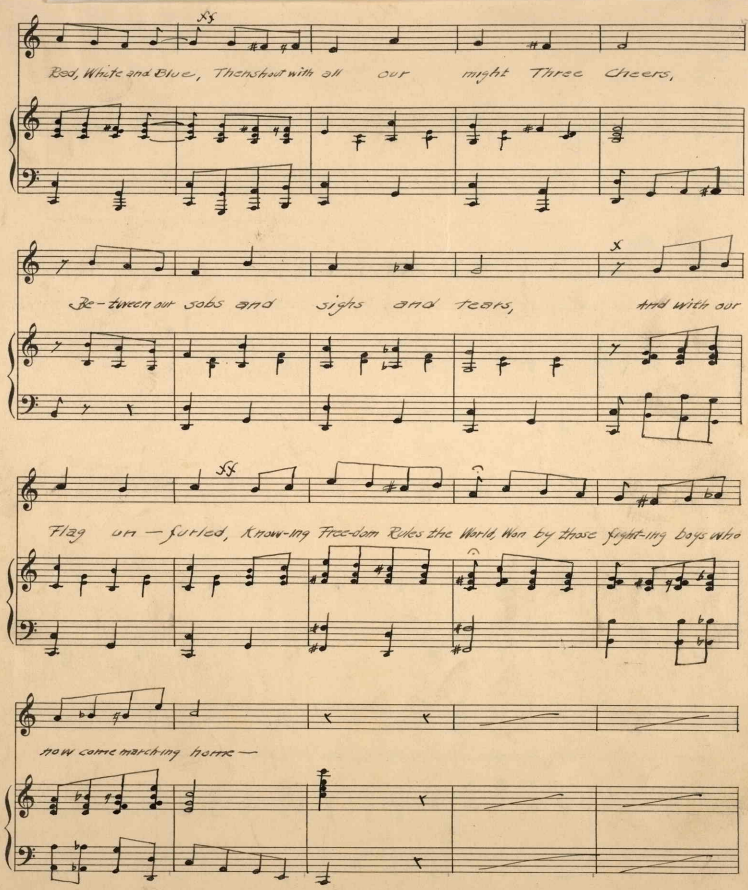
(2nd. Verse)

Now the War is over, soon they'll come,
To their Wives, Sweethearts, Mothers and Dads:
What a grand old meeting that will be,
Knowing Freedom, was won by their Lads:
Not a thing too good for these Warriors,
For through them all Wars must die:
Then All Hail their Fame, with loud Acclaim,
When the boys go marching by.





Red, White and Blue, Thinkshout with all our might Three Cheers,
Be-tween our sobs and sighs and tears, And with our Flag un-furled, Know-ing Free-dom Rules the World, Won by those fight-ing boys who now come marching home—
