"When I Think Of You--God Grant We'll Meet Again!"
Joseph E. Kelkup.

1

Now, when the day is ending,
Bathed in the sun's fading glow,
Love's dreams o'er me descending,
Brings thoughts of the sweet long ago.

CHORUS.

Only a faded picture; a memory of years gone to rest;
Sweetheart days once more revealing, the face of the one I loved best;
Tho, out of my life you're drifted, my sweetheart you'll always remain--
We parted, that's true, but when I think of you--God grant that we'll meet again.

2

Now, in the evening's quiet,
After the day it is done;
Mem'ries of love come creeping
Memories of love still unwon.
