"Across The Sea With Me;" H. A. Tyler.

1

When the sun is shining on the trees, dear--then I will think, love, of you;
When the branches, they wave in the breeze, dear--then I will think, love, of you
Yes, of you I'll often think, when the trees are white and pink.
When I'm far across the sea, then I'll wish you were with me.

CHORUS.

How I wish you could go to France!
How I wish that you had the chance!
To be with me across the sea
Across the deep blue sea!
When I hear the cannons roar,
I will think of you the more;
Yes, when I'm away with the boys in France--
Then I'll wish you were across the sea with me.

2

When the moon is shining on the trees, dear; then I will dream love of you;
When the petals fall upon the breeze, dear--then I will dream love of you;
Yes, of you I'll often dream, when the rockets glare and gleam
When I'm far across the sea, then I'll wish you were with me.
