Tempo di One step

Don't you hear the call-ing, boys, the na-tions rip - pling call - We are called to join the col - ors to Al - lies' cross the pond are flight - ing stead - ly - and good - - They have made some gal - lant marches, - were it near and far, - - - - - And fight for the crown of lib - er - ty, its ours since man - y years; - - - - - Then through the shall raked wood, - - - - - And some of our no - ble boys are there; They take what comes their way - - - - - They've will you heed the call boys - and march on with out fears, - - - - - Or will you lag behind the for till the noise of got the have roads in them - and can show it an - y day - - - - - Then won't you join them o - ver there, lots of fun more bat - tle is past; - - - - - And the vic - tors from France, - - - - - come sing - ing with in - stru - ments of brass? - - - - - Then pray be, you will than I can say - - - - - Sum - my's sons now are we, - - - - - come join us we're ever proud and gay - - - - - So make firm steps to all re-gret, the chance that one was yours, To go to France and fight for right, a-rid the dark and fiery hours.

aid the call, the call for right not wrong - We'll fight for right and do our part, and each day do what we can.

Chorus

Then don't you hear the calling, boys; call-ing loudly for us all? Don't you hear the call - ing? They are call - ing loud and clear. Will you rally to the nation's call, leav-ing all those lit-tle dolls? Will you join us in the march, a leav-ing all your child - ish folk? To the distant fields of France, where the ho-mes fight and die For the cause that still is call-ing val-ant you and I Then I.
