Kai - ser is a hun - ter man, He chased the Rus - sian Bear; That Bear, he took and Kai - ser is a bru - tal man, He joined the hea - then Turk, He called in Mis - ter nas - sas, The bat - tle of Bull Run; I was too young to fight, you know, But climbed a tree, To save his hide and hair; And then he called to Un - cle Sam To Dev - il To boss his dirt - y work; Now Un - cle Sam and John - ny Bull, And now I have a chance, I've caught the in - spi - ra - tion, And I'm go - ing 'cross to France.

lend a help - ing hand, And Un - cle Sam is go - ing To chase the Kai - ser man.
all the boys of France Are going to have a Tur - key trot, And make the Kai - ser dance.

CHORUS.

I'm going 'cross to France now, I can no lon - ger stay, I'm going to chase the Kai - ser man, I'll chase him night and day; Un - cle Sam is call - ing you, He sure is, for a fact. He's call - ing to his sol - dier boys To bring that Kai - ser back. I'm back.

- 4 The Kaiser is a cruel man,
 He slew the babes of France,
 With little hands uplifted,
 They pleaded for a chance;
 Uncle Sam he heard their cries,
 Across the ocean wide;
 Thank God, ten million soldiers
 Will soon be by their side.
- 5 The other day a message came
 From far across the sea,
 It was sent to Uncle Sam,
 'The Land of Liberty.
 It read, "Dear Sam, I write you this,
 It's news from far Japan:
 I have three million soldiers
 To chase that Kaiser man."
- 6 The biggest man I ever saw,
 He is so awful tall,
 Bigger than your ma and pa,
 Mother-in-law and all,
 Woodrow Wilson is his name,
 Of course, you ought to know,
 He's going to get the Kaiser-man,
 And start a monkey show.
