"Uncle Sammy, Here's My Share."
"Here at Home We're Backing You."

Marziale

From the sun-ny South, to the froz-en North, From the East to the West-ern sea, — E-ven rocks and rills and Land where Free-dom bright shines in beams of light O-ver peo-ples from ev-'ry land, — Un-der stars and stripes all wood-ed hills Chant the won-der-ful mel-o-dy; — Oh, it fills the air, ech-oes ev-'ry-where o-ver riv-er, are made one, Broth-er-hood join-ing heart and hand; — Its a Moth-er-land and a Fa-ther-land, and its sons are hill and plain, — 'Tis a mes-sage clear of a land so dear, Shout a-loud this glad re-frain; — just and true, — Its the home of the Free and of Lib-er-ty, It's the land for me and you:

CHORUS

'Tis your land and my land, This land of Free-dom's birth; — Our own land, our home-land, The gem of all the earth.

— From sea to bor-der-line, — "From palm tree to the pine," — O 'tis

Broadly,
your land and my land, Yours and mine. — mine. —
