THE GAZZAM FAMILY.

The earliest accurate knowledge of the present Gazzam family relates to William Gazzam, who lived in Cambridge, England, during the middle of the eighteenth century.

The name itself, however, is an extremely old one, mention of it being made in the Bible (Ezra ii, 48, and Nehemiah vii, 51). It is supposed to be of Egyptian origin, as records are extant in which a province or district bearing the name is mentioned. It may well be that the present members of the family are really lineal descendants of Abraham, through the ancient hewers of wood and drawers of water who bore the name when the Prophets returned with the "Remnant" to rebuild the Temple. The ancient Gazzams were called "Nethenims," or servants of Solomon and the Temple. Their chief city was Gibeon, and they traced their origin to a grandson of Noah, being recorded among the Hivites. One Biblical record has the name spelled Gazera, by mistake.

(1) WILLIAM GAZZAM.

Little is known of William Gazzam, the common ancestor of the American and English branches of the Gazzam family, beyond the fact that he married Martha Hart,* daughter of Joseph Hart, of Burwell, Cambridgeshire, England; that he was the father of eight children, and that his wife was many years a widow, dying during a visit her youngest daughter, (9) Mrs. Mary Alice Gazzam-Taylor, made to England in 1796 or 1797. One other fact is also known, that the couple were highly-respected people and devout Christians, as is shown by a letter Mrs. Taylor wrote to her sisters in America. In this she said :—

“Some of the sentences spoken by our dear mother, before her departure hence, were these: ‘Lord, make them willing in the day of Thy power.’ ‘He is the same yesterday, to-day, and forever; not only here, but in America also.’ [Alluding to her children there.] ‘He will be my surety.’ ‘He undertook my cause for me.’ ‘Be ye also ready. * * * But tell them it must be through Christ Jesus, not measured by their work, but by His grace through faith in Him.’ ‘My God and my God, be Thou my shield and my defense.’ ‘Oh! tell them to pray; to teach their children.’ ‘O Lord! remember them in the day when Thou makest up Thy jewels.’”

Of the children of (1) William Gazzam, the five daughters, and their husbands and one son, (5) William, and his wife came to America, leaving but one child in England, (7) Joseph, who subsequently married Ann Goodcheap.

The name Gazzam is believed to be extinct in England.

THE CHILDREN OF (1) WILLIAM AND MARTHA GAZZAM.

The names of the children of William and Martha Gazzam, together with the known time of their births and deaths, are as follows :—

(2) Martha; born April 25, 1755; married William Girlling, of St. Giles' Parish, Cambridge, September 3, 1781, at Great St. Mary's, Cambridge, England. There is no known record of the year of their removal to America. Mrs. Girlling died August 19, 1813, at Philadelphia, Pa., and is buried at Germantown, Pa., in the Presbyterian

(5) WILLIAM GAZZAM.

William Gazzam, the eldest son of William and Martha Gazzam, was educated at the University of Cambridge, and became an eminent journalist in England during the latter half of the eighteenth century. He was remembered there as a very quiet man, but one who possessed liberal ideas and high ideals, which he expressed with great vigor and trenchant pen. Although his writings attracted wide attention in England, he never cared to take any credit to himself for public good attained thereby, preferring to remain the unknown power behind the throne. He published a newspaper at Cambridge, and in it said many things that were not altogether to the liking of the King. Being an ardent lover of freedom, he naturally sympathized with the people of America, asserting the eminent justice of their wished-for autonomy. In this opinion, it will be remembered, the King failed to concur. Therefore, the liberal writings of Mr. Gazzam, probably in much exaggerated recital, coming often to official attention, it naturally followed that steps were finally taken to suppress the utterances of the intrepid journalist of freedom. Purposing his arrest, it is not unlikely the Crown would have welcomed his death, since a patriot and fast friend of Mr. Gazzam's, Edward Despard,* was executed about this time for similar utterances.

Warned of his impending danger, Mr. Gazzam made a hasty flight from the country. America was naturally his prospective bourne, though he first went to Paris, where he remained a short time, being in that city at the time of the execution of Louis XVI (January 21, 1793). Shortly afterward he returned to England, whence he embarked with his family for the land of the free.

The following letter, written by the celebrated author of "Rippon's Hymns," will convey some idea of Mr. Gazzam's precipitate departure from England, as well as of the esteem in which he was held by his neighbors :—

LONDON, February 6, 1793.

To the Rev. Dr. Rogers, the Rev. Dr. Eusticks, of Philadelphia ; the Rev. Dr. Foster, of New York ; the Rev. Dr. Edwards, of New Haven, Conn. ; the Rev. Dr. Lillman, of Boston ; the Rev. Dr. Hood, of Lexington, or to any other of my American correspondents to whom this may come :—

This is to certify that Mr. William Gazzam, the bearer of these lines, is an honorable member of the Congregational Church at Cambridge, under the pastoral care of Rev. Mr. Grier. He has been driven from his own country only for speaking in behalf of the rights of mankind—perhaps incautiously. So hasty was his removal that his much-loved pastor had no opportunity to give him testimonials. He is united with one of our Baptist families, and with others of our friends, whose names would gladly be united in recommending him and his attention to our foreign friends, with the name of their obliged and affectionate brother and servant,

JOHN RIPPON.

In due course of time the fugitive reached Philadelphia, Pa., where, on July 20, 1793, he affirmed allegiance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and soon became well and favorably known as a public-spirited citizen. In this country his great love for freedom and his constant advocacy of it took a new direction, and he became an active member of the old "Philadelphia Society for the Abolition of Slavery and the Amelioration of the Condition of the Colored People." This was a Quaker Society, for, though not a Friend, he observed many of their customs, among them being the constant refusal to take an oath, always "affirming" when occasion required. During his residence at Philadelphia he became a member of the Second Presbyterian Church.

Shortly after his arrival in the Quaker City Mr. Gazzam engaged in mercantile business at No. 20 North Front Street. In those days importing merchants usually owned the ships they freighted, it requiring a large amount of capital to embark in this line of business, and Joseph Hart, a kinsman, who was a bachelor of considerable means, furnishing the necessary funds for Mr. Gazzam, the enterprise started and flourished.

In 1796 the bookkeeper of the house, Mr. William Taylor, was taken into partnership, the firm being designated as Gazzam & Taylor, and the next year Mr. Edward Jones, a clerk, was admitted, the firm becoming Gazzam, Taylor & Jones. At the same time the place of business was removed to No. 36 North Second Street. Mr. Taylor withdrew in 1800 or 1801, and the firm became Gazzam & Jones, a partnership which was dissolved a year later. Mr. Hart, brother of Martha Gazzam, wife of (1) William Gazzam, the European agent of the American house, purchased and shipped the goods sold by it; and during the troubles with France one of the firm's vessels, a brig laden with teas, was seized by French privateers, the heavy loss sustained falling, it seems, entirely upon Mr. Gazzam, a loss for which neither he nor his heirs have ever received indemnity.

In 1802 Mr. Gazzam moved to Pittsburg, Pa., where he passed the remainder of his life. On March 31, 1808, he was appointed first Collector of the Port of Pittsburg by President Jefferson, being recommended for the place by James Madison, then Secretary of State.* He was also appointed magistrate by Governor Snyder, at that time an office of dignity and importance.

He married twice, his first wife being Elizabeth Scaiffe, of Cambridge, England, who, with their three children, accompanied Mr. Gazzam to America. Mrs. Elizabeth Gazzam died at Philadelphia, Pa., during the first year of her residence in this country. Six months after her decease, May 19, 1794, Mr. Gazzam married Ann Parker, of Philadelphia.

(5) William Gazzam died in Pittsburg, November 16, 1811, aged forty-eight years. His second wife, Ann Parker, who was born in September, 1776, died March 7, 1843, at Allegheny, Pa. They are buried in Allegheny Cemetery, Lot No. 28, Section 19.

THE CHILDREN OF (5) WILLIAM GAZZAM.

William Gazzam was the father of sixteen children, those by his first wife, Elizabeth Scaiffe-Gazzam, being:—

(25) William; served in the War of 1812, from November 9, 1813, to November 9, 1814, having enlisted as a private in Captain Samuel Morris' company of Sea Fencibles, from Philadelphia. He died in Texas, leaving a family of children, one of whom was a Confederate prisoner of war.

He married, at Pittsburg, Clementina Lea, a member of the Lea family, of the old Philadelphia publishing house of Carey, Lea & Carey. He resided for many years at Cincinnati, Ohio, where he amassed a large fortune, passing the last years of a long and useful life in the city (Mobile) in which he died. He was the founder of many business enterprises, among them being the Mobile Foundry Company, the first iron manufacturing company in the South; and was the president of the First National Bank of Mobile from its establishment until the time of his death; of the Mobile Savings Bank, and of the Fulton Cotton Factory. He was the patron of Hiram Powers, having furnished the great sculptor with the money necessary to pursue his studies and travels. Mrs. Clementina Lea-Gazzam died September 21, 1886. There was issue of this marriage eleven children. (See post, Nos. 110-120.)

(31) Catharine Selina; born April 26, 1799; died at Boston, Mass., January 28, 1882; married at Pittsburg, May 1, 1821, by Rev. Joseph McElroy, to John Bartlett

Butler, the son of John Butler, of the State of New York. The latter, having left his farm and entered the Continental Army, served three years during the War of the Revolution. [John Bartlett Butler was born in Columbia County, N. Y., May 6, 1793, having had four brothers and four sisters, who settled in various parts of New York and Connecticut. At 19 years of age he entered a printing office in New York City. In the War of 1812 he served for six months in the defenses of Baltimore, and shortly afterwards removed to Ravenna, Ohio, where he established a newspaper. After a few years he settled at Pittsburg, being editor and proprietor of the Pittsburg Statesman. After an editorial career of twenty-seven years he sold his paper, having been appointed president of the Pennsylvania Canal Commission, which position he resigned at the outbreak of the Mexican War to accept an appointment as major on the staff of General Taylor. At the close of the war he was commissioned paymaster and military storekeeper in the Regular Army, with the rank of captain, and stationed at the Allegheny Arsenal, Pittsburg. He retired from the army at the close of the War of the Rebellion, in 1866, and died at Cincinnati, Ohio, December 7, 1870.] Of the marriage of John Bartlett Butler and Catharine Gazzam-Butler there was issue ten children. (34) EDWARD DESPARD GAZZAM.

The fourth son of (5) William and Ann Gazzam, who was born at Pittsburg in 1803, was, for a month or two, called Albert Gallatin, in honor of the great philanthropist, statesman and author of that name. But the boy's father met, it seems, with a grievous disappointment in one of his favorite great men, and so one day, after pondering the matter over, he said :—

“ Wife, Albert Gallatin is not dead yet ; he may change before he leaves this world. Suppose we call this boy Edward Despard ?”*

So the boy was named for the Irish patriot.

He was given a liberal education. When he became nearly of age he commenced the study of law under the preceptorship of the Hon. Richard Biddle, whose law partner he afterward became. He was admitted to the Bar of Allegheny County in 1826. After practicing for two years he was compelled to abandon this profession on account of ill-health. Later he commenced the study of medicine, and in due time graduated from the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Gazzam was a man of the rarest intellectual attainments, and always took a keen interest in the development of the Republic, having inherited all his father's great love of freedom. He thus naturally drifted into Pennsylvania politics, in which he became an important factor, and a nomination for Congress was conferred upon him early in his political career. In the contest that followed he was defeated by a single vote. Reared in the Democratic faith, like many of the same school he was bitterly opposed to the extension of slavery. On this account he severed his connection with Democracy, and in 1848, together with Salmon P. Chase (afterward Chief Justice of the United States) and others, assisted in founding the Free Soil Party in the memorable Buffalo Convention. In the same year he became the Free Soil candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, his opponents being William F. Johnson, Whig (who was elected), and Morris Longstreth, Democrat.

In 1855 Dr. Gazzam was the Free Soil candidate for State Senator from Pittsburg. He was defeated in this contest, but the next year he was again put forward, this time as the candidate of the Union Republican Party. Being elected, by about one thousand majority over the combined votes of his two opponents, he thus became the first Republican Senator from Allegheny County. In 1857 he was prominently mentioned as Republican candidate for Governor, and had a large number of counties instructed for him, but withdrew from the contest before the Convention met.

Dr. Gazzam was also Postmaster at Pittsburg at one time. When Lafayette visited this country, in 1824, Dr. Gazzam was selected to make the welcoming speech in behalf of the people of Western Pennsylvania, at Pittsburg. In the performance of this duty he acquired considerable distinction on account of his youth and the excellence of his address.

Upon the breaking out of the Civil War Dr. Gazzam and Dr. McCook, of Pittsburg, were the first persons who took steps toward preventing Secretary of War Floyd from removing the guns, ammunition and other property of the United States from the Allegheny Arsenal. They telegraphed, on behalf of the Committee of Safety, to Washington regarding the removal, and in response received the following:—

ORDNANCE OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., }
 May 3, 1861. }

E. D. GAZZAM, Chairman, Pittsburg, Pa.:

Sir:—Your telegram of May 1 to the Secretary of War about powder now held by the Committee is received and sent to this office. If any of the powder is needed by the commanding officer of Allegheny Arsenal, and is, in his judgment, of suitable quality for the United States service, it may be delivered to him. The Committee must use their discretion about the residue, throwing every proper guard around the disposition to be made of it.

Respectfully, Your Obedient Servant,

JAMES W. RIPLEY, Lt.-Col. U. S. A.

The powder referred to was seized by the Committee of Safety when about to be shipped to a point within the jurisdiction of the Southern States, from which the importance of the step taken can be readily discerned.

On March 24, 1835, Dr. Gazzam married Elizabeth Antoinette deBeelen.* Three children were born to them:—

(132) Audley William.†

(133) Emma Louise.†

(134) Joseph Murphy.†

In 1867 Dr. Gazzam retired from active life and removed to Philadelphia, where he died January 19, 1878, and was buried in Allegheny Cemetery, where the remains of his wife also repose.

(132) AUDLEY WILLIAM GAZZAM.

Audley William, the eldest son of (34) Edward Despard Gazzam and Elizabeth Antoinette, his wife, was born in the city of Pittsburg, May 8, 1836. Receiving an excellent education, he began the study of law at a comparatively early age, and in due time was admitted to the Allegheny County Bar.

At the breaking out of the War of the Rebellion he was president of the Firemen's Association of Pittsburg, from which body he organized a company of volunteers, known as the "Fire Zouaves," of which he became captain. This company was placed under command of Generals Oakes and Casey, in Virginia, and captured the first cannon taken during the war, in an engagement on the Kanawha, about sixty miles from Wheeling, W. Va. Subsequently elected major of the One-Hundred-and-Third Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, he commanded this regiment in the many actions in which it participated, always behaving gallantly, and at the battle of Fair Oaks was severely wounded in the head by a piece of shell. Later on he served in the United States Veteran Reserve Corps until July, 1865, when he resigned from the army and removed to Utica, N. Y.

Mr. Gazzam was well known in Pittsburg, New York, and Philadelphia as a lawyer of ability, making a specialty of bankruptcy cases. This branch of the law is indebted to him for several important works, among them being "Gazzam on Bankruptcy," and a "Digest of American and English Decisions in Bankruptcy."

Audley William Gazzam died at his home in the city of Philadelphia, on Saturday, May 10, 1884, after an illness of but a few hours. At the time of his death he was attorney for the National Cremation Society, of which method of disposal of the dead he was a strong advocate, and he was the first member of that society to be cremated, incineration taking place at the Le Moyne Crematory, at Washington, Pa., then the only crematory in the country.

Mr. Gazzam was married twice ; the first time at Pittsburg, Pa., to Mary Elizabeth Van Deusen, daughter of Rev. Edwin M. Van Deusen, formerly rector of St. Peter's P. E. Church, Pittsburg, and of Grace Church, Utica, N. Y.

Mrs. Mary Gazzam died in Utica, N. Y., April 12, 1871.

His second wife was Isabel Rogers, of New York, whom he married in 1876. She is now (1894) residing at New York.

(133) EMMA LOUISE GAZZAM-MACKENZIE.

Emma Louise, second child and only daughter of (34) Edward Despard and Elizabeth Antoinette Gazzam, was born at Pittsburg, November 4, 1837. She married in the same city, June 5, 1856, John F. Mackenzie, a talented member of the Allegheny County Bar, who during the war was secretary of the Examining Board of Paymasters, afterwards practicing law at Philadelphia for a number of years.

Emma Louise Gazzam-Mackenzie was a woman of gentle, self-sacrificing, and affectionate disposition, passing through life highly esteemed and greatly beloved by all who knew her. After several years of suffering she died at Shamokin, Northumberland County, Pa., on the 27th day of June, 1887. Her husband survived her only a few months, dying at Philadelphia, Pa., on February 28, 1888. Their remains rest in Monument Cemetery, Philadelphia.

(261) Franklin Irish; born in Pitt Township, Allegheny County, Pa., July 15, 1859. Studied medicine at the Jefferson College, Philadelphia, and was one of the projectors of the Children's Sanitarium, now a prosperous and extremely beneficent institution. Died at Philadelphia, August 27, 1878, his remains resting in Monument Cemetery, Philadelphia.

(262) Antoine deBeelen; born at Pittsburg, May 29, 1861. Entered the printing business at an early age, first becoming apprentice in the office of Taggart's Sunday Times, Philadelphia, where he remained until 1884, when he went to Shamokin, Pa., conducting the Sentinel newspaper of that town for four years, during which time he was also special correspondent for the Philadelphia Ledger, New York Sun, Boston Globe and Cincinnati Enquirer. Returning to Philadelphia he did reportorial work on the News and Taggart's Sunday Times, of that city. On April 7, 1890, the Evening World, of Reading, Pa., was successfully launched upon the journalistic sea by Charles F. Haage, with Mr. Mackenzie in the editor's chair, a position he still (1894) occupies. He is a member of the Pennsylvania State Editorial Association, the Reading Press Club, and the International League of Press Clubs. He married Adeline Barger Gregg, of Philadelphia, in that city, on November 30, 1889. This union has resulted in the birth of one child:—

(344) Nina deBeelen; born at Reading, Pa., on November 17, 1890.

(263) Joseph Gazzam; born at Vineland, N. J., on November 28, 1870. Was educated at Lawrenceville (N. J.) Academy and Penn Charter School, Philadelphia, Pa., at which latter school he was president of the Penn Charter Athletic Association and of the Inter-Academic Athletic Association, winning many prizes in field sports, at which he has always been highly proficient. He was captain of the foot ball, base ball and tug-of-war teams, and editor of the Penn Charter Magazine. Subsequently entered the Wharton School of Finance in the University of Pennsylvania as a special student, remaining, however, only one year, passing all examinations with credit. While attending the University he was a member of the KΦΨ Fraternity, Iota Chapter, manager of the Track Team and athletic editor of the University Courier. He was recently engaged in importing laces and lace curtains, being senior partner of the firm of Mackenzie & Jenkins, of Philadelphia, Pa. Joseph Gazzam Mackenzie is fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania Club, of Philadelphia; member of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, the Philadelphia Humane Society and Skating Club, the Philadelphia Cricket Club, the Republican City Committee, and the University Republican Club, as well as a director of the North Carolina Hedge and Wire Fence Company. Married at Philadelphia, Pa., June 13, 1894, Jennie Randolph Dorsey, of that city.

(264) Harold Darragh; born at Philadelphia, February 17, 1881. At present (1894) a student at the Stewart Academy, Reading, Pa.

JOSEPH M. GAZZAM.

(134) JOSEPH MURPHY GAZZAM.

While it is true that many of the greatest names on the pages of the world's history have been won by men of obscure parentage, yet investigation will usually show that such have been especially endowed by nature with indomitable will power, robust health or other advantages, they being thus, by a combined strength of mind and body, enabled to acquire traits and habits not originally inherent. Such men necessarily mark an advance in the history of the family from which they descend.

But there are men who have gained distinction in life without the incalculable aid of strong physical condition, and in such cases one naturally looks for inherited mental capacity, the individual's ability predicating the merit of those from whom he has sprung.

Joseph Murphy Gazzam, the subject of this sketch, may with propriety be classed among the latter. Descended from parents of cultivation and refinement, it is to be expected that he should have always evinced a desire for similar culture, and, despite almost continuous ill-health, it is not singular that he should have acquired distinction in his professional, political and social career.

He was born in the city of Pittsburg, December 2, 1842, being the second son and third child of (34) Dr. Edward Despard and Elizabeth Antoinette deBeelen-Gazzam. The first fourteen years of Mr. Gazzam's life differed somewhat from the ordinary, owing to lack of robust health, his parents considering it advisable to keep him from the ardors and restraints of regular school life. At home, however, under the careful tuition of his father, he gained the rudimentary elements of education, so that he was not by any means deficient when, at this age, he entered the Western University of Pennsylvania. Here he remained for three and a half years, at the end of which time his health compelled a temporary suspension of study. An extended tour throughout the Western States greatly benefitted him, however, so that when he returned he felt capable of beginning what afterwards proved an earnest and exhaustive study of the law. On January 4, 1861, he entered the office of David Reed, Esq., and three years later, January 6, 1864, he was admitted to the Allegheny County Bar. In a short time his practice became so extensive that he was able to decline all criminal cases save those of regular clients, this, too, in face of the fact that he had made quite a reputation in this branch of the profession, although the practice was always distasteful to him. In November, 1867, he was admitted to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; in May, 1869, to the Circuit and District Courts of the United States, and March 19, 1870, upon motion of the late Hon. Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts, to the Supreme Court of the United States. In the latter body he was remarked as one of the youngest members ever admitted to practice before it.

In 1871 he was elected a director for Pennsylvania in the United States Law Association, and in 1872 he entered into a law partnership with Hon. Alexander G. Cochran. The firm of Gazzam & Cochran became widely known throughout the United States, and was continued until 1879, when, owing to the removal of Mr. Cochran to St. Louis, it was dissolved.

Mr. Gazzam's life at this period had become a very busy one. He was solicitor for a number of leading corporations of Pittsburg, among them being the City Bank, the Security Trust Company, the Iron City Fire Insurance Company, and others, besides being president of the United States Building and Loan Association. Despite this extremely active professional career, Mr. Gazzam found time to take a leading part in numerous social organizations, being president of the Pittsburg Gymnastic Association, president of the Hygeia Base Ball Club, as well as an officer, or officer and director, in many other similar organizations.

A fondness for the political arena is one of the characteristics undoubtedly inherited by Mr. Gazzam. In early life it induced him to take active part in the municipal government of his native city. He was frequently called upon to speak at political meetings in various campaigns, and his decisive and practical expressions advocating many needed reforms soon attracted general attention. In consequence he became (in 1869) Republican candidate to represent the First Ward of Pittsburg in City Councils. Being elected he was subsequently enabled to carry many of these excellent ideas into effect, and to show himself a capable and patriotic public official. His name at this time was prominently mentioned in connection with the Select Branch of Councils, and also for the Mayoralty. Concerning the former the Pittsburg Sunday Times, of November 10, 1872, said :—

If strict attention to every duty and unceasing devotion to the best interests of the city are commendable in a public officer, then Mr. Gazzam will certainly be rewarded with a seat in the Select Branch of our City Legislature. During the year about to close Mr. Gazzam has been prominent in all important legislation, and has ever been on the popular side. His constituents will do themselves a good service by honoring Mr. Gazzam with promotion.

Alluding to the nomination for the Mayoralty, the Pittsburg Evening Bulletin, of May 9, 1872, said :—

Among the names suggested for the Mayoralty is that of Joseph M. Gazzam. Mr. Gazzam is a young man of ability. He has represented the First Ward in the Common Council for several years, and the people have the utmost confidence in his honesty and integrity.

An important step in the career of Mr. Gazzam occurred in 1876, when, by acclamation of the nominating convention, he became Republican candidate for the Forty-third Senatorial District. He was elected by a large majority. As a member of the Senate he soon ranked as of the highest ability and character. Fair-minded yet tenacious, pacific yet thoroughly equipped for debate, he formed his opinions on public measures with deliberation and candor, and defended them with courage and skill. He was a zealous worker for Republican principles, though utterly devoid of all that savored of "offensive partisanship," and so wise were his counsels that at the expiration of his term he had gained a most enviable position in his party. One of the bills introduced by Mr. Gazzam was for a marriage license law (similar to that now in effect in Pennsylvania), which was then defeated.

In 1882 he was prominently mentioned throughout the State as a candidate for the Lieutenant-Governorship. This was at a time, however, when private reasons urged Mr. Gazzam to discourage all efforts made in his behalf by a legion of friends, and so his name was not presented at the convention. The following extract from an editorial in the Philadelphia News, published at the time, will convey an idea of the general esteem in which his political actions are held :—

There are many names being brought forward for the Lieutenant-Governorship of this State. The Press of this city refers as follows to the subject: "Various journals of the State have presented the name of ex-Senator Joseph M. Gazzam as candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on the Republican ticket. Mr. Gazzam has made an honorable record in public life. He was the author of the law which prevented a session of the Legislature in 1880, thus making a large saving for the State. He is recommended as affable and well versed in parliamentary law and having the qualities to make a strong candidate if nominated." This complimentary notice is well deserved. Mr. Gazzam stands the peer of any man in the State in purity of character, fullness of culture and clearness of intellect. Having had years of experience in the State Senate, he is fully qualified to perform any service required of the Lieutenant-Governor. And as the term of Governor has been extended to four years, all the uncertainties which attach to a Presidential term attaches to it. Therefore, whoever may be selected as candidate for Lieutenant-Governor should be qualified, in the event of need, to act as Governor. This Mr. Gazzam is amply qualified to do. Prudent, cautious, and with good judgment, he would fill the Executive chair with ability and success. If the policy this year shall be to make up a ticket so unexceptionable that all Republicans will be glad to support it, no better name can be selected for Lieutenant-Governor. And this is the policy which should obtain. Locality this year should give place to quality in candidates. It is the one thing that is important above all else. And if this policy shall prevail, Mr. Gazzam will be in the front for the Lieutenant-Governorship.

Unfortunately the policy above indicated did not prevail in the convention that followed. A slated ticket was rushed through, which proved so distasteful to the Independent Republicans throughout the State that they met in convention and put a ticket of their own in the field, the final outcome being the defeat of both Republican tickets and the election of the regular Democratic nominees.

Senator Gazzam moved from his native city to Philadelphia in 1879. Upon this occasion all the Pittsburg papers commented upon his removal in the most flattering terms. The Critic said :—

Pittsburg's loss is Philadelphia's gain. The community has long since learned to respect and esteem him for his manly qualities, his genial disposition, his inborn courtesy, his strict integrity, his usefulness in public life and his devotion to all that Pittsburgers regard as noblest and dearest.

After his arrival in Philadelphia Mr. Gazzam opened an office at 714 Walnut street, his law practice increasing rapidly. Upon the completion of the Girard Building, at Broad and Chestnut streets, Mr. Gazzam removed his offices to it, engaging six commodious rooms, which he furnished luxuriously as business offices. Recently, however, he has not actively practiced, owing to the pressing duties of the numerous offices filled by him in various corporations, and his connection with sundry other business enterprises. He was one of the projectors of the Beech Creek, Clearfield & Southwestern Railroad (later known as the Beech Creek), a railroad which, beginning at Jersey Shore, Pa., had its terminus in the thriving borough of Gazzam, named after the subject of this sketch.

At the present time (1894) Mr. Gazzam is president of the Philadelphia Finance Company, and the Bridgewater Cordage Company (Philadelphia); of the Kenilworth Inn Company, and Kenilworth Land Company (Asheville, N. C.); of the Etowah Iron Company (Georgia), and of the Wilkesbarre and Western Railroad Company (Pennsylvania). He is vice president of the Quaker City National Bank (Philadelphia); of the Ames-Bonner Brush Company (Toledo, Ohio); Auer Light Company (South America); Central Coal and Coke Company and Dent's Run Coke Company (Pennsylvania). He is a director in the Spring Garden Insurance Company (Philadelphia), the Delaware Company, and eight other corporations, making a total of twenty-nine corporations in which he is concerned either as an officer or director.

With all his arduous business duties, however, Mr. Gazzam, owing to his methodical habits, still finds time to devote to literary and other pursuits. He is a life member of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, the Fairmount Park

Art Association, and of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania Club, one of the leading political organizations of the State, of which he was for three years president, declining nomination for a fourth term recently tendered him. He is also a member of the Union League Club, of Philadelphia, and of the Citizens' Municipal Association, of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, of the Lawyers' Club, of the Germantown Cricket Club, of Philadelphia; the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania, University Archæological Association, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, and the Pennsylvania Fish Protective Association, of which latter he filled the office of president recently.

Mr. Gazzam married, October 30, 1878, Anna, daughter of the late John G. Reading, one of Pennsylvania's successful business men, and a great-grandson of Hon. John Reading, Colonial Governor of New Jersey. Two children were the result of this union :—

(265) Sada; born September 1, 1879; died November 17, 1880.

(266) Antoinette Elizabeth; born March 8, 1883.

Mr. Gazzam married a second time September 7, 1893, Nellie May, daughter of Benjamin and Olivia A. Andrews, of New Orleans, who still survives (1894).

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

OF THE

DEBEELEN FAMILY.

(AMERICAN BRANCH.)

THE DEBEELEN FAMILY.

When the Revolution that resulted in the freedom of the American Colonies was over, and after peace had been declared between the United States and Great Britain, Joseph II, Emperor of Austria, sent as Resident Minister of that country to the new republic, (1) Baron Frederic Eugene Francois deBeelen Bertholff.*

The Baron brought with him his wife, the Baroness deBeelen (nee Marie Theresa de Castro y Toledo), and their only son, (2) Constantine Antoine, and remained as Minister from 1783 to 1787. During the latter year he was ordered home ; but, being prevented from returning by reason of political complications, his estates in Austria were seized by the Government and confiscated. It was this, probably, which finally determined the Baron to remain in America, and leaving Philadelphia he settled in Chester County, Pa., near what is now Honeybrook Station, where he built an imposing residence, for a long time known as "The Castle," the surrounding estate lying partly in Chester and partly in Lancaster Counties. Later the Baron removed to York County, where he acquired some considerable additional property.†

Baron deBeelen Bertholff and his wife both died in York County, Pa., and their remains repose in a sequestered cemetery upon the bank of the Conawaga, the spot marked by what was once an imposing monument.

*For information concerning the earlier family see "Annuaire de la Noblesse de Belgique," published by Baron Isidore de Stein D'Altenstein, Belgium, 1871. Also, see "Denny's Memoirs of his Father." Also, Rev. Lambrig's "History of the Catholic Church."

(2) CONSTANTINE ANTOINE DEBEELEN.

Constantine Antoine, the only child of (1) Baron and Baroness deBeelen Bertholff, was born at Brussels, Belgium, June 9, 1770.

An ancient document in Latin, on hand-made paper much worn by the tooth of time, bears the following endorsement in English, in the firm and cultivated handwriting of Constantine Antoine deBeelen :—

My Father's Certificate of my Baptism (Mon Baptistaire), taken from the record of the Cathedral of Ste. Gudule in the City of Bruxelles, in Belgium.

The contents of this paper, translated, are as follows :

On the ninth of June, in the year 1770, was baptized Constantine Antoine, legitimate son of Sir Frederic Eugene Francois deBeelen Bertholff and Lady Jeanne Marie Theresa de Castro y Toledo, husband and wife ; born at nine o'clock in the morning, the 9th day of June, 1770. The sponsors were by name Lady Marie Theresa Constance deBeelen and Sir Antoine de Castro y Toledo, Toparcka in Zoombeeck, Vandengver ; and Lady Carolina and Sir Nicholas deBeelen, husband and wife.*

After the death of his parents (2) Constantine Antoine deBeelen Bertholff settled in Pittsburg, where he became well and favorably known as an importing merchant. It is said that had he so desired he could have returned to the home of his ancestors, reclaiming the title and estates of his father. But it appears he had become too much imbued with the love of American institutions to submit himself and his fortunes to monarchical rule.

*The certificate of baptism is (1894) in the possession of Hon. Joseph M. Gazzam, of Philadelphia, Pa.

CONSTANTINE ANTOINE DEBEELEN.

While in Pittsburg he discontinued the use of the suffix Bertholff, being commonly known as Antoine deBeelen.

He married in that city Elizabeth Antoinette Murphy, daughter and only child of Captain Patrick Murphy, of the Continental Army, around whose parentage there clings a little romance.

It seems that sometime during the latter half of the 17th century, a poor gentleman became tutor in the family of an Irish nobleman, the father of a beautiful daughter. The tutor fell in love with his charge, there was an elopement, a hasty marriage, and—America.

During the Revolution the tutor became an officer in the Continental Army. After peace was declared he moved to Pittsburg, in which city his wife died at the time of the birth of her daughter. It was this daughter who became the wife of Antoine deBeelen.

Upon the death of his wife Captain Murphy sent to Carlisle, Pa., for a young woman named Molly, who had left Ireland to come to America as maid to Mrs. Murphy, marrying here and settling at Carlisle, shortly afterward becoming a widow. She consented to take charge of the infant daughter, and subsequently Captain Murphy married her. From this union there was no issue, but Mrs. Murphy survived the death of the Captain many years. He left her comparatively well off and she became projector of many business enterprises, being interested in the first gas works and one of the first rolling mills ever started in Pittsburg. Through clear-headed business ability she acquired considerable additional property, in later years extremely valuable.

Dying childless, this property was bequeathed to the descendants of her stepdaughter, Elizabeth Antoinette.

Constantine Antoine deBeelen and Elizabeth Antoinette, his wife, left several children. But two of them married, however :—

(3) Mary; married Dr. William Simpson, of Pittsburg, Pa., and was the mother of the wife of the late Benjamin Rush, Esq., of Philadelphia.

(4) Elizabeth Antoinette; born at Pittsburg, Pa., in 1817; married, March 24, 1835, to Dr. Edward D. Gazzam.* Mrs. E. A. Gazzam was a gentlewoman of fine education, of polished and easy manners, hospitable disposition, good and truly charitable nature, and ever ambitious to relieve the wants of her suffering fellow-beings—a liberal Christian in the broadest sense of the word. She lived a life of influence, and in her death, which occurred suddenly on the 25th of July, 1871, at Pittsburg, all who knew her recognized the transition of an immortal soul from earth to a happy and eternal heaven.

Constantine Antoine deBeelen survived his first wife, and subsequently married a Miss Aiken. Of this marriage there was issue five children :—

(5) Eliza; born March 24, 1816.

(6) Frederick A.; born April 12, 1827; married and lived in Brazil for a number of years.

(7) Anna Maria; married to General James A. Oakes, U. S. A., in November, 1854.

(8) Caroline; married to George S. Lovett, of Philadelphia, in October, 1850.

(9) Adeline; married to Colonel W. Milnor Roberts, a celebrated civil engineer, who for many years was in the service of Dom Pedro, the late Emperor of Brazil.

INTERESTING OLD DOCUMENTS.

There are several old documents in existence that pertain to the Baron deBeelen's residence in this country. The following is the copy of a deed relating to the purchase by him of a tract of land in York county, Pa., which is of immediate interest :—

THIS INDENTURE, Made the first day of February, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, between John Brillinger, of York Township, in the County of York and State of Pennsylvania, miller, and Catharine, his wife, of the one part, and Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, of Manchester Township, in the County of York aforesaid, gentleman, of the other part.

WITNESSETH, That the said John Brillinger, and Catharine, his wife, for and in consideration of the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds of the current gold and silver money of Pennsylvania, to him, the said John Brillinger, in hand paid by the said Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, at and before the ensealing and delivery of these presents, the receipt and payment whereof is hereby acknowledged, and the said Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, thereof acquitted and forever discharged by these presents.

Have granted, bargained, sold in fee, offered, released and confirmed, and by these presents do grant, bargain, sell in fee, offer, release and confirm unto the said Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, and to his heirs and assigns, all that the following described messuage, tenement and tract of land, which is situate, lying and being in Hellam Township, in the County of York aforesaid, bounded and limited as follows: Beginning at a marked black oak; thence by land of Peter Garhaw, Sr., formerly, now of John Fritz, north sixty-five degrees, east one hundred and thirty-six perches, to a marked chestnut oak; thence by lands of James Smith, Esq., formerly, now of Wilkes Kettera and Samuel Jago, Esq., north fifty-five degrees, east one hundred and eighty-three perches, to a marked white oak, thence north twenty-three degrees, west seventeen perches, to a marked black oak; thence by land of Wilkes Kettera and Samuel Jago, south seventy degrees, west one hundred and six perches, to a marked chestnut; thence north thirty degrees, west forty perches, to a marked chestnut oak; thence by vacant land, south sixty-two degrees, west seventy-two perches, to a marked chestnut oak; south thirty degrees, east twelve perches, to a marked hickory; thence by the said vacant lands of Philip Fello, south sixty degrees, west one hundred and fifty-seven perches, to stones; thence by lands of John Fritz, south forty degrees, east seventy-nine perches, to the place of beginning, containing 134 acres, and the usual allowance of six acres to the hundred for roads, &c., within the bounds and limits thereof. [Being the same which Philip Klug and Christina, his wife, by indenture of bargain and sale bearing date the 23d day of January last past for the consideration therein mentioned, did grant and confirm unto the said John Brillinger (party hereto), and to his heirs and assigns forever, as, in and by the said in part recited deed, intended to be recorded, reference having thereunto had, may more fully and at large appear.]

TOGETHER with all and singular the houses, out-houses, edifices and buildings thereon erected and built, and all ways, woods, under woods, waters, water courses, meadows, orchards, gardens, profits, commodities, advantages, emoluments, hereditaments and appurtenances whatsoever to the said described messuage, tenements and tract of land belonging, or in anywise appertaining, and the reversions, reminders, rents, issues and profits thereof, also all the estate right, title, interest, use, possession, property claim and demand whatsoever of them, the said John Brillinger, and Catharine, his wife, in law or equity or otherwise howsoever, of, into or out of the said described piece, or parcel of land, or any part thereof; together, also, with all such deeds or true copies of deeds, evidences and writings touching and concerning the hereby granted premises, or any part or parcel thereof, to be had and taken at the costs and charges of the said Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, his heirs and assigns, to have and to hold the said described messuage, tenement and tract of land containing one hundred and thirty-four acres, and the usual allowance, as the same is above described, and premises hereby granted, mentioned or intended so to be, with the appurtenances, unto the aforesaid Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, his heirs and assigns, to the only proper use, benefit and behoof of the said Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, his heirs and assigns forever, under and subject to the residue of the purchase money, interest and quit rents (if any) due, and to become due, and payable to such person, or persons, appointed to receive the same; and the said John Brillinger, for himself and for Catharine, his wife, and their heirs, doth covenant, promise and grant to and with the said Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, his heirs and assigns, by these presents, that he, the said John Brillinger, and his heirs, the said described messuage, tenement and tract of land hereby bargained and sold with the appurtenances unto the said Frederic Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen

Bertholff, his heirs and assigns, against him, the said John Brillinger and Catharine, his wife, and their heirs, and against the heirs of Charles King, and all and every other person or persons whomsoever, lawfully claiming, or to claim, the same, or any part thereof, by, from, or under him, or them, or any or either of them, shall and will warrant and forever defend.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, The said John Brillinger and Catharine, his wife, to these presents hath hereunto set their hands and seals, dated on the day and year first and within written.

JOHN BRILLINGER,

Her
CATHARINE X BRILLINGER.

Sealed and delivered in presence of

CHR. SINN,
GEO. LEWIS LEFLER.

Received on the date of the foregoing indenture from the within-named Frederick Eugene Francois, Baron deBeelen Bertholff, the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds, current money of Pennsylvania, in full of the consideration money within mentioned.

JOHN BRILLINGER.

Witness present :

CHR. SINN.

YORK COUNTY SS:

Before me, the subscriber, one of the justices of the peace, for said county, personally appeared John Brillinger and

Catharine, his wife, the grantors in the foregoing indenture, named and acknowledged the same to be their act and deed to the intent that it may be recorded as such according to law. She, the said Catharine, being of full age and by me privately examined, declares that she became a party thereto without coercion or compulsion from her said husband, the contents thereof being first made known unto her, freely consented.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this first day of February, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight.

GEO. LEWIS LEFLER.

A true copy taken from and compared with the original at York the third day of February, A. D., 1798.

SERVICES BY INDENTURE.

The original of the following indenture, faded, weather-stained and well-worn, is at present in the possession of Hon. Joseph M. Gazzam, of Philadelphia, being of particular interest at this time on account of the obsolete custom to which it relates :—

THIS INDENTURE, made this twenty-sixth day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred eighty-four, WITNESSETH that I, Philip Michel, and Elizabeth, his wife, of Robeson township, in the county of Berks, and State of Pennsylvania, do bind our son, Amos Michel, unto Frederick Spar, of Brecknock township, county and State aforesaid, to him, his heirs, or assigns. The said Amos Michel is to continue and serve from the fifteenth day of March, ensuing the date hereof, until the full end and term of seventeen years, to be ended and fully completed, during all which term the said servant his master true and faithfully shall serve and keep his lawful commands gladly. Neither shall he do damage to the said master, nor see it done by others, without telling or giving notice to his said master. He shall not waste his master's goods, nor lend them to any without his consent. He shall not play at cards, dice, or any unlawful game whereby his master may be damaged, with his own goods or the goods of others. He shall not commit fornication, nor contract matrimony. He shall not absent himself at any time from the service of his master, nor haunt ale houses or taverns; but in all ways behave himself like a true and faithful servant. And said master shall procure and provide for him sufficient meat, drink and apparel, washing and lodging, during the above term; also the said master shall give him eight months' schooling, but not till he is nine years old, and two suits of clothes, the one for his freedom suit of clothes that is sufficient; one axe, and one grubbing hoe, one pair of mall rings and two iron wedges. And for the true performance of the said covenant and agreement, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, both the said parties bindeth themselves unto the other firmly by these presents.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, They have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year above written.

His PHILIP ✕ MICHEL.

Done before me, February 26, 1784.

JACOB MORGAN.

In consideration of the sum of seven shillings and sixpence, Margaret Spar, on November 5, 1784, assigned the time of Amos Michel (referred to in the foregoing indenture) to John Evans. For seven pounds young Michel's services were assigned by John Evans to Joseph Ashton, January 14, 1792. Joseph Ashton for nine pounds assigned to Frederick Spar, May 29, 1792. Frederick Spar for eighteen pounds assigned to Baron de Beelen Bertholff, March 7, 1794. The Baron for nineteen pounds, ten shillings, assigned to James Hamilton, March 17, 1795. James Hamilton for eighteen pounds, fifteen shillings, assigned to John Bicking, July 21, 1799. The last assignment of Michel's services was made by John Bicking to James Hamilton, September 4, 1800, the sum paid being three pounds, fifteen shillings.

The following is a copy of the transfer of the services of Amos Michel, made by the Baron de Beelen Bertholff, together with a fac simile of the Baron's signature :—

IN CONSIDERATION of the sum of nineteen pounds, ten shillings, current money of Pennsylvania, to me in hand paid this day by Mr. James Hamilton, I do assign the within-mentioned servant's time to said James Hamilton, to serve him, his heirs, or assigns the remainder of his time, as witnesseth my hand and seal this seventeenth day of March, 1795.

Baron de Beelen Bertholff
